Since the beginning of the New Year, I have had several sewing courses in the district. At each pre-sew meeting, the favorite question seemed to be can we sew with "Fortrel"? Because it is so prevalent in both ready-made and custom-made garments perhaps you would like to know some of its fascinating history.

Fortrel? Polyester? Crimpline?

These are all names for this popular fabric. Besides these, there are also ten other names for the same fiber. Confused? Well, this is quite simple. Here's the story.

All fibers are classed first as a formula. This means no matter what they are basically the same for the same formula. For the 1968-1970 Term each fiber is man-made from an oil chemical base. Now some of the names for these fibers are Dacron, Du pont U.S.A. Terylene, England, Kodel, Eastman Chemical Products Inc. U.S.A. and Canada, Lesuer, Holland, Fortrel, Germany and Trevira, U.S.A. Trevira is also Germany. Because the Germans are famous for their love of umlauts I suppose Bayer, Du pont U.S.A. Trevira

President of the Alberta Auctioneers' Association, John Allen of Viking got a big thrill in presenting a cheque for $48,000 to the Alberta Association for the Mentally Retarded recently, winding up the best year yet for auction sales in aid of the Retarded. Receiving the cheque at left is Fred McNaughton of Wetaskiwin, president for a second term of the Retarded Association. Over a three year period, the auctioneers have contributed more than $100,000, raised from articles donated to sales sponsored across the province by the auction group.

Sport committee plans money-raising banquet

by Grace Phillips

A Bean Supper for sportsmanet fathers and sons! This event is planned for early in May by the Tofield Junior Sports Committee. The reason for the supper, other than a purely social occasion, is to raise money for the necessary expenses involved fielding teams in baseball and in hockey.

Some of the equipment urgent ly needed for the baseball season includes bats and umpire's equipment and one set of uniforms, for next year's hockey, two nets are needed at $80 each and hockey gloves.

In order that the youngsters may have as much clear money from the supper as possible, the Tofield Lions' Club and the Tofield Community League are absorbing the expenses for the supper.

Tickets to the supper will shortly be on sale from the boys. They will be $3.00 for a father, who may then bring as many sons as there are in his family.

A feature of the entertainment will be the presentation of the trophies won by the 12-and-under and the 13-and-under hockey teams this past winter. The coaches of the Tofield hockey teams were Don Roth, Chuck Blacklock, L. Schachter, Ed Wiebe, Bams H. Weuts and J. Olson.

In addition to the hockey trophies, the baseball trophies won in 1969 will be presented to the Midget A and Midget B1 teams. The 1969 baseball coaches in Tofield were Don Roth, Ed Regehr, Walter Neufeld, Norman Walker, Glenn Jones, Ken Dover and John Baerwen.

The donors of these trophies are now known from Highway 14. The donors will present the trophies.

Further entertainment for the supper is in the planning stage.

Saturday is 'Arena' day

An effort to raise funds for the construction of an ice arena in the Town of Tofield will reach an initial climax on Saturday, May 2, when the Tofield Hockey Club holds a white elephant sale.

The need for an arena in Tofield has grown with each passing year, until this summer the Tofield Hockey Club decided to take decisive action towards obtaining the needed funds for construction of such a building.

Their first money-raising venture will be the sale on Saturday, which will get underway at 11:00 a.m. with Peter Pich of Chipman as the auctioneer.

Businessmen in the Town of Tofield and residents from surrounding areas have contributed generously to the sale, so that a wide range of goods will be on the auction block. Some of the items to be sold include hoes, locks, washing machines, dryers, and used cars.

Tourism meeting held Thursday

The Battle River Tourist Association representatives and Directors met on Tuesday evening, April 23, at the Legion Hut at Hardisty. Those present numbered 16 considered community information and pictures submitted for publication in the 1970 edition of the Zone 4 tourist brochure.

Several cover-page proofs were shown, none of which met with sufficient approval, and the brochure committee was requested to try to procure a picture of one of the campsites in the area for use on the cover page of the new brochure.

The Wetaskiwin representative asked that the Association present in the provincial Department of Highways regarding the deplorable condition of that part of Highway 13, between Camrose and Wetaskiwin. He also proposed that one-third of the Zone 4 brochure be printed in the French language.

The question of extended mandarates for Zone 3 were discussed, and Zone 3 recommendation will be presented by President Wm. Foster at the May meeting of the Alberta Tourist Association Directors' meeting. The next meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association will be held May 12-13 at Provost.

Macyk will be in Ryley

L. W. Rasmussen, associate director of extension for Alberta, has announced the appointment of four summer assistant district agriculturists for various areas in the province.

SAYS HERE IT'S AN ADVANTAGE TO LIVE COMMON LAW...

Costs are needed

The Hockey Club in Tofield has started a movement that they hope will eventually result in the construction of an ice-making arena in the town. This is highly commendable. But a project such as this needs the full support of every citizen. Business and organizations in the area, if they have not already done so, the members of the hockey club should approach the Tofield Chamber of Commerce, Agricultural League and other organizations such as the Lions Association and ask for their full support and backing. A way to get the project started. The need is there but can we, the citizens afford to build one? The answer, of course is yes but the question is can we afford not to? Although Tofield is not a big town, it is the hub of a large district where there are many people who would benefit from such a facility. The arena could be used for hockey, figure skating, curling, basketball, badminton, volleyball, boxing, wrestling, dances, conventions, trade shows, and many other activities. The arena could be used by the school, the hockey club, the curling club, the skating club, the basketball club, the badminton club, the volleyball club, the boxing club, the wrestling club, the dance club, the convention club, the trade show club, and many other clubs. The arena could be used by the school, the hockey club, the curling club, the skating club, the basketball club, the badminton club, the volleyball club, the boxing club, the wrestling club, the dance club, the convention club, the trade show club, and many other clubs.

County School Committee briefs

Following are the minutes (in part) of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 School Committee, held Wednesday, April 1st., 1970.

Present were :-Crs. Brinsard, Gibson, Knudsen, Kropielnicki, Johnston, Reddick and Sears. Representing towns and villages: C. Nord, H. Wilkie, John Allen, and Nestor Semotiuk. Mr. Marvin Bruce, Superintendent of Schools, was also present.

The meeting was called to order at 10:40 a.m. by the Chairman, Cr. Reddick.

BUSINESS FROM THE MINUTES

The Secretary-Treasurer discussed the arrangements made with Wallace Myers in regard to the taking over of his bus operation on April 1st. A committee of Cr. Reddick, Cr. Brinsard, Marvin Bruce, and the Secretary-Treasurer, had contacted Mr. Myers and had arranged to have the papers drawn up and the necessary legal matters in regard to the transfer of the property to the County taken care of by Mr Lefsrud, Solicitor. The necessary papers had been signed and reliance obtained so that the busses were now registered in the name of the County of Beaver.

The 1970 School Committee budget as discussed and presented by the Budget Committee, which met on March 18th, was discussed. It was moved and carried that the 1970 budget be tabled to a later meeting pending legislative approval of the regulations in regard to school financing.

A Seminar on School Budgeting, sponsored by the Department of Extension, University of Alberta, and the Alberta School Trustees Association, is to be held commencing Sunday, April 19th at 5:00 p.m. to Tuesday, April 21st at 4:00 p.m., at the Star of the North Retreat House at St. Albert.

It was moved and carried that Nestor Semotiuk, Carl Nord, Marvin Bruce, and Robert Cross be authorized to attend this seminar on school budgeting.

The School Committee discussed the question of servicing busses in Kinsella and Viking due to the fact that we will now have six additional busses in Viking. However, it was felt by the School Committee that the bus servicing is being done quite adequately in both places at the present time and that no change needs to be made in the present arrangements.

It was moved and carried that the School Committee approve the attendance of two Grade XI students to the Girls' Leadership Workshop to be held at the University of Alberta, May 4th to 10th, 1970, and the fees of $25.00 plus transportation be paid.

It was reported that the following sports events would be held: semi-final ball meet in Holden and Ryley, Wednesday, June 3, 1970; a final ball meet on Saturday, June 6th, 1970, at Tofield; a track meet for Viking to be held on May 22nd at Viking.

The School Committee discussed the possibility of having a County track meet. This had not been held for several years and some interest appeared to be shown in some of the schools.

It was moved and carried that the School Committee approve a County track meet to be held on a school day prior to June 30th if possible.

A report on the semester examination results in Viking was presented. This was Semester One for Grade XII Examinations. The report indicated that 82.1% obtained a 'B' or better standing.

An inspection of the school plants and teacherages in regard to summer maintenance program was discussed. It was agreed to leave this matter until a later meeting for a final date.

The School Committee was reminded that a testing workshop for Grades III to VI was to be held in the evening of May 4th and all day on May 5th.

The School Committee discussed the possibility of keeping the Grade X and XI students in school during the latter part of June. It has been traditional that Grade X and XI students have been released from school when

POLYESTERS:
Getting Acquainted

You don't like be much simpler d there weren't so many man made fabrics from which to choose. There are fibers that can be made to look and act like silk or wool. But a special kind of them and they are completely different from those are we who are now consumer to know what they can offer and fabrics that do not only in words but also in use.

Well I'll do it if possible I should like to try very hard way to look at it. I think. After considering both the pros what the fibers have in common and the individual traits I put in the booklet Fabric Facts & Fibers which is available from this office.

Another way you can identify fibers is by burning them. This is a useful test if you have a large enough quantity of fabric to burn. Here is the test for polyesters.

Both nylon and polyester burn similarly except for distinct differences in odor and smoke. Both melt and drip with flame away from them. Some fibers don't drip. Both are relatively non-flammable before finishes are applied. Both form a tan bead when the melt hardens. If the bead is darker, however, it means a special dye has been used.

Polyesters have an aromatic odor and a heavy black smoke containing soot. Nylon's odor is celery like and the smoke is white.

Now what are some of the characteristics of polyesters that will help you in choosing fabrics for you and fix care? Here they are:

- noted for their high strength and resistance to stretching and shrinking
- are crisp and resilient, and will not add or lose body
- because they are thermoplastic they can be shaped by heat sheets are durable through laundry and wear
- Fibers are naturally white, therefore maintain whiteness throughout use difficult to dye.
- Have excellent resistance to bleaching agents, including chlorine and hydrogen peroxide. It is the fabric finishes which are harmed or discolored by chlorine bleach.

These are the qualities that homemakers rating while have recognized and thus have helped the polyester industry zoom ahead in the past few years.

regulations regarding this type of construction.

A request from the County of Strathcona No. 20 for a meeting with the County Council in regard to a mutual fire aid agreement was presented. There was some discussion as to the value of such an agreement as far as the County of Beaver is concerned, however, it was moved and carried that the County Council meet with the County of Strathcona in regard to a mutual aid fire agreement.

The purchase of a truck for a wash house for the Public Works Crew was discussed. Cr. Knudsen advised that he and Mr. Alt had gone to Vegreville and checked over some vehicles there. They had found one 1962 Chev. 3 ton truck with cab and chassis for $1,195.00. It appeared that after much searching there was no other vehicle to be found.

It was moved and carried that the County Council purchase the 1962 Chev. 3 ton from N. Yakimyshyn Sales & Service in Vegreville for the sum of $1,200.00.

The administration of the grass seed units for farmers purchasing grass seed for forage was discussed.

It was moved and carried that the County administer the grass seed as requested by the Department of Agriculture and that individual units be made after recess of units from the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Norm Schultz attended at this time in regard to culvert prices. He advised that their price had increased on April 1st but that the County can purchase culverts at a lower price they would be waiting to match that price. He also mentioned that they have a 20-10 John Deere tractor in Saskatoon that they would like to bring out and demonstrate to the County. This tractor is equipped with a 7½ yard scoop front end bucket and a used but re-handled backhoe.

It was moved and carried that we take the unit from Nuland Equipment Ltd. on a trial basis and if found satisfactory it be purchased.

It was moved and carried that the following two items of school business be dealt with by the County Council due to the shortage of time for construction:

1. Tofield School Addition
2. Hiring an architect for Viking Industrial Arts Shop Addition

Correspondence from the School Building Branch stated that no approval was given to the Tofield School Addition As the primary school at Tofield is in such a deplorable condition, it was felt that this item of the "Statement of Need" should have been approved.

It was moved and carried that the Secretary-Treasurer be authorized to prepare a submission requesting the School Buildings Board to reconsider the "Statement of Need" for Tofield School and approve the addition of two primary classrooms and abandon the present two-room MacKenzie school.

The Council also wished to remind the School Buildings Board that they consider the whole "Statement of Need" as essential.

The Council was advised that the addition to the Industrial Arts Shop in Viking had been approved.

It was moved and carried that the County Council authorize the employment of Thomas Groves of Aberdeen, Groves & Hodgson as architect for all the additions that will be approved by the School Buildings Board in connection with our Statements of Need.

As there was no further business, it was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn at 5:15 p.m.

Acreage reduction to stay Lang tells NFU Atkinson

OTTAWA, April 27 — An exchange of letters between The Hon. Otto E. Lang, Minister Responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board, and Roy R. Atkinson, president of the National Farmers Union, was released for publication today by Mr Lang. It became "the public should know that the wheat acreage reduction program is now a matter of fact"

The Minister emphasized that the program, known as Opera tion LIFT, was made public only after it had been discussed with the NFU, provincial governments and other farm groups

The plan as presented to the farmers contains recommendations made by farm organizations. The NFU's present opposition to the plan is difficult to understand in view of this but they must realize that this is the government program for this year and cash income for western farmers depends on the success of the program", Mr. Lang said.

Saskatoon, Sask.,
April 14, 1970.

The Hon. Otto E. Lang,
Minister in Charge of the Canadian Wheat Board,
House of Commons,
Ottawa, Canada.

Dear Sir:

As I reported to you at the Canada Grains Council meeting in Winnipeg, the matter of a check-off from the sale of grain for the purposes of research under the control of agri-business through amendments to the Canada Grain Act was put to National Farmers Union meetings at Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg This proposal was unanimously rejected.

Further to this, the matter of the federal government's Wheat Acreage Reduction program was considered. Due to the coercive nature of the program, its discriminatory features, the complete change of rules and the unwillingness of most farmers to sacrifice good farm management practices on their individual farms, they rejected this plan.

Farmers are asking that the same delivery quota rules that applied last year be reinstated for this crop year, since all of the present grain inventory was pro-

Sports bean supper goes this Wednesday

by Grace Philips

Tofield's Dads' and Lads' Beef Supper, sponsored by the Lions' Club and the Community League to raise funds for the Junior Sports Committee, will feature Bruce MacGregor of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team as one of the guest speakers as well as one of the Edmonton Eskimo football players.

The Bean Supper will be held in the Community Centre on Wednesday, May 13, at 6:30 p.m. It is hoped by the committee in charge that many fathers will treat their sons to this supper, thus showing their concern for the future of junior sports in Tofield and supporting the coaches of the various baseball and hockey teams.

In addition to the guest speakers, the entertainment will include presentation of trophies previously won in baseball and hockey.

Members of the teams involved are already selling tickets to the supper. For the $5.00 charge, a father may take as many of his sons as he chooses.

The supper is being prepared and served by the ladies of the community.

Attendance is, of course, not limited to fathers with sons in the junior sports age bracket. Any man interested in boys or in sports will be very welcome.

The money from this supper is urgently needed to provide necessary equipment for both baseball and hockey for the junior boys in Tofield.

Beginners will meet

An orientation program for children becoming school in 1970 will be held in the Tofield school from May 11 to May 20.

If any parent has not been notified by letter as to the dates his child will attend this orientation class, please contact the Tofield School at 662-3132 for information.

Tofield Hospital will observe "Hospital Day"

The Tofield Municipal Hospital along with more than 1 400 hospitals throughout the nation are observing Canada Hospital Day, May 12th.

The theme, "You, Your Hospital and Your Community" emphasizes the critical role hospitals play in providing community health services for the individual family and community. The Tofield Hospital, like other Canadian hospitals is making a great effort to meet increased health care services demanded in this era of rising health costs.

Unlike most other industries, hospitals are a round-the-clock, seven-day-a-week business dedicated to preventing illness, restoring health and saving lives. On the average, there are two skilled hospital workers for each patient admitted. These include doctors, nurses, technicians, therapists, medical record librarians and a host of other professional and skilled workers representing some 220 occupations.

Just ten years ago during 1960, the Tofield Hospital treated 255 out-patients, in 1965 1,202 out-patients were treated, which is an increase of 407% However, just as the demand for service has increased so have the costs In 1962 the original hospital was built at a cost of $92,000 00 and in 1966 an additional wing was added at a cost of $135,000.00 To replace this same facility at today's prices it would cost in the proximity of $500,000.00 Also compared to 1960 the average daily cost per patient day in Canada was $1 00. In 1965 it rose to $6.50. And now the figure has reached between $40 00 and $50 00 The average cost per patient day in the Tofield Hospital is between $30 00 and $35.00, and this only covers day to day operating costs, not including equipment and building costs.

Local men and women serve the community as members of the hospital board of trustees They are legally and morally responsible for maintaining the high standard of patient care. They represent the community and the hospital in dealing with local and provincial government agencies. The members of the Tofield Municipal Hospital board are. Mr G McFadzean, Chairman, representing the Town of Tofield, Mr. E. Albrecht, rep. resenting the Village of Ryley, Mr. D. H. Allan, representing the Village of Holden, and Mr C Sears, Mr S. Severtson, Mr G Kondulies and Mr Krupiel. ucki, representing the County of Beaver.

Just as a closing note, in the future when you are reviewing what seems to be ever increasing costs in relation to the health field, please consider what it is worth to you to know that there is a place you can go to to get the best possible treatment available, and to know that there are skilled heads and the latest equipment to help restore your health and prolong your life. We ask you, is not the community hospital worth it?

About 90 per cent of industrial accidents are caused by unsafe acts and only 10 per cent by unsafe conditions.

Patients with arthritis of various kinds have, for centuries, earned a reputation as weather prophets There is some evidence that dampness and changes in barometric pressure may influence the awareness of pain and discomfort

Rehaume - Shyba vows exchanged in Camrose

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

An early spring wedding was held April 4th at Camrose United Church when Denise Alexandria, only daughter of Mr and Mrs Alex Shyba of Camrose, formerly of Holden was united in marriage to Reginald Joseph Rehaume of Camrose

Given in marriage by her father, Denise wore a slim-line floor length gown of white peau-de-soie, with attached train

Her two-tiered veil was held in place by a white rose and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with streamer and roseburds Her only jewellery was a pair of crystal drop earrings

The two bridesmaids were former school friends, Miss Connie Romanisson and Gladys Kostrowski of Holden, who wore floor-length gowns of spring yellow chiffon and carried bouquets of yellow roses and white carnations, each wearing a petite crystal tiara in their hair

The groom was attended by Stan Ell and Ole Jensen of Camrose and Orville Henkel, brother-in-law, was the usher.

The mother of the bride, Mrs Shyba, chose for the occasion, a lovely yellow dress with matching accessories and wore a yellow-orange rose corsage.

Mrs Rehaume, mother of the groom chose a radiant metallic gold dress with matching accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. A reception was held after the ceremony at Reno's with Mr. Martin Severson acting as master of ceremonies. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, made by the sister of the groom, Mrs. Orville Henkel and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Grace Nordstrom. Mr. William Shyba, of Holden grandfather of the bride, offered grace and Marshall Shyba, brother of the bride, proposed a toast to the young couple

Miss Evelyn Rehaume, youngest sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book

Following the reception, a dance was held at the Golf Clubhouse with Paul Panas and his orchestra supplying the music

The happy couple will be making their home in Camrose

The Shyba family are old time residents of the Holden district Mr and Mrs Alex Shyba ran the egg-grading station for several years before it was closed, and Denise spent her young days in Holden and received most of her schooling in Holden school. Grandparents, Mr and Mrs William Shyba are old-time farming residents of the Holden district, still residing on the farm.

Bruce speaks to ATA local

By Grace Phillips

A challenging philosophy of education designed to fit students for life was presented by Marvin S. Bruce, Superintendent of Schools, on Wednesday, April 29, when the Tofield sub-local was host to the teachers of Beaver County.

Dick Thiessen of Tofield welcomed the guests and Bob Wyllie of Viking, chairman of the Professional Development committee introduced Mr. Bruce.

Among the professional concerns of teachers listed by Mr. Bruce were: methodology, content knowledge, improvement of the educational system, enhancement of educational opportunities for students, and the obtaining of satisfaction from working with students.

Lack of clear aims and objectives, and lack of approved toward identifying, studying and solving problems of education, were among the matters which Mr Bruce felt should receive the attention of the profession Effective evaluation of the student's achievement must also be carefully considered in relation to the aims of the curriculum. Student progress, promotion criteria, and the pros and cons of grouping students were also discussed by Mr Bruce and by the teachers who met in smaller groups following the speaker's presentation

Mr Wyllie thanked Mr. Bruce for his speech and a discussion period followed. Lunch was served by Mrs. Gail Booth and Miss Lanie Halse of the Tofield staff.

Mike Case from Vegreville passed away on April 25 at 74 years of age. He is survived by his wife Ella; four sons, three daughters and seven grandchildren. Burial took place at Vegreville Cemetery Saturday, April 25th. Park Memorial in charge. Mike Case was Mrs. Glen Hillis' father.

CLEAN-UP

Ryley is cleaning up a few places where they need touching up. One place is the vacant lot south of Sin Wong's restaurant, which has been raked, the trees pruned, the ground has been bladed and leveled for grass to be seeded.

Another place which has had much work done on is the sports grounds where a number of adults, school children and teachers have been working for a few weeks to prepare the grounds for ball diamonds, raking among the trees, sawing down dead branches etc., getting ready for the summer months.

George East is doing a stucco job on his new residence and part of his hotel at the back of his lot. George has also did a lot of cleaning after the buildings were moved away east of his hotel. The ground was bladed and smoothed. The stucco job is being done by Art Pedersen, who took over Ray Larsen's business and Allan Sutton is his helper.

The June, the Ryley School is going to carry out an orientation program for next fall's prospective beginners. These children will attend school for a full week following somewhat the same program they might encounter their first week of school. They will get a "taste" of school life, thus enabling them to know what to expect. Because of the number involved, the class is split in two with one group attending from June 1-5 inclusive and the second group scheduled from June 8-12. If you are in the Ryley attendance area and did not receive a notice, please contact the school.

Community League will host a bingo, May 27th

by Grace Phillips

In spite of a poor attendance, the May meeting of the Tofield Community League planned for several events to come this spring.

A bingo will be held on May 27, at which time the last game, the blackout, will be played for $100.00. Further particulars will appear later when H. F. Chris... and J. C. Lumpkin have completed arrangements.

An evening's fine entertainment is planned for Saturday, May 23, when the Fort Saskatchewan High School band, which has been on tour, will present a concert at the Community Centre, beginning at 7.30.

Following the concert, the usual Saturday night show will be shown. The price for both concert and show will be $2.00 per family admitting. Should anyone not be able to attend both parts of the evening's entertainment, the usual show price will be in effect.

The Beer Supper sponsored by the Tofield Lions and the Community League was discussed. John Berrgren reported that Bruce MacGregor of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team would be among the guest speakers.

It was reported that the recently held Parish Dance was a success, both socially and financially.

Preliminary plans for the 1970 Dominion Day celebration were discussed and committees tentatively appointed. Among the items decided on, was a raffle for seventy silver dollars. "Start the Seventies with seventy silver dollars", was Arnold Swift's suggestion.

The improvements of the facilities at the Exhibition grounds were discussed, but due to the absence of representatives of several of the organizations concerned, very few decisions could be made.

duced under more flexible rules on the assumption these rules would continue.

There is also some question as to whether or not your program is constitutionally valid.

In the meantime, the National Farmers Union is prepared to enter into meaningful negotiations to begin to develop a comprehensive farm program for 1970-71.

We also urge the immediate return to the management of the Canadian Wheat Board grain used for feed and the retention of provincial boundaries for the purposes of more effective marketing of these grains under the quota and pricing systems of the Board.

Yours sincerely,
Roy Atkinson,
President,
National Farmers Union

Mr. R. R. Atkinson, President,
National Farmers Union,
333 - 4th Avenue North,
Saskatoon, Saskatchewan

Dear Mr. Atkinson:

I am pleased to acknowledge your letter of April 14, 1970, outlining your rejection of both a check-off from the sale of grain for purposes of research and the government's Wheat Acreage Reduction Program.

"Operation Lift" was designed as an inventory reduction program to place western agriculture on a solid economic footing for long term industry rationalization and development. It was designed with the best abilities and information available, and in consultation with senior officials of the National Farmers Union and numerous other farmer organizations.

The program was designed with the full understanding that farmers working together toward common objectives of firm prices and orderly marketing can create an economic farming environment which is clearly in their collective interest. Most responsible producer organizations have recognized the substantial short and long term benefits of this program, and have recognized the urgency of eliminating a quota system which permitted and encouraged the burdensome surpluses to develop. It would be clearly irresponsible to continue the previous quota system which would result in a price-depressing shift from wheat to coarse grain and oilseed production. It is interesting to point out that those farmers, to whom you refer, with large inventories built up under the old quota system will be much better off in 1970-71 under the "Operation Lift" quota system and payment schedule.

"Operation Lift" has the full support of the Government and will be implemented as announced with no additional cost (top) participation previously disclosed to ensure optimum land management practices.

New! What's New in Laxatives?

Slice of life.

Bread is a basic staple in the good life Albertans lead. And living in a province that grows the world's best wheat, we tend to take it for granted. Of course, for the farmer it's a little more complicated. It means an investment in labor, machinery, good soil management. Then markets must be found, transportation undertaken . . . even before milling and baking play their part. All in all, a skilled and complex business — comparable in many ways to the supply and distribution of electric energy. Here too specialized skills and complex processes are required to ensure that all the electricity you want is ready for instant flick-of-the-switch availability. While the overall cost of living has increased dramatically the price of electricity is still one of today's best bargains. Did you realize that the power used on a farm is, on average, less than one per cent of the total operating costs? That's something to think about when you consider inflation — or watch the toast pop up!

Shrine Circus

Performing elephants and girls in pink tights will be only two of the spectacular sights on display in Edmonton next week when the Shrine Circus comes to town for its annual visit. The circus is a rapidly dying life form that, at one time, used to be the highlight of the entertainment year and, for many children, this could be the last time they will ever see this form of skill and management.

Language art classes conduct two interviews

The Language Arts classes in Grades 8A and 9B of the Tofield School have been divided into groups to pursue areas of study of their own choice as their share of an option "Language in the Community".

One group, composed of Cheryl Daniels, Sharon Rudzeki, Betty Anne Scott and Linda Tenkenman have chosen as their project the interviewing of members of the community who are concerned with youth groups.

In last week's issue of The Mercury the first such interview was published. Today, two more interviews are printed.

LARRY WILSON

Larry Wilson, noted gun enthusiast and naturalist was asked to lead Tofield Cubs and Scouts three years ago. He accepted the challenge, and is still the leader.

Twenty-five to forty members of Cubs and Scouts. The boys, who attend clubs are from seven to eleven years of age and those attending Scouts are from eleven to fifteen years of age.

The Cubs and Scouts are involved in handicrafts, overnight hikes, fishing trips and nature-craft in all its aspects. The boys try to follow the book, "The Way to the Stars", from which they learn to do many different activities.

Michael Gallinger assists Mr. Wilson in leading both Cubs and Scouts. The Scouts movement was founded in 1908 by Lord Baden Powell and has provided excellent training for boys since then. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Gallinger are carrying on very successfully this traditional movement in Tofield.

JOHN MOORE

John Moore has been working with 4-H for several years and has been honored by many associations for this work. When he came out of the Air Force early, five years ago he was appointed "on an ad hoc" committee for the Tofield 4-H Beef Club.

Mr. Moore has led 4-H ever since and now there are approximately 150 members attending the Pee Wee to Senior 4-H.

Some of the activities 4-H was initiated today, two more are [illegible] projects, and projects such as keeping records, books in public speaking, all the members are [illegible]

Bruce wheat seeding down

The first crop report of the 1970 season has been received from Bruce, and estimates are that this year's crop will be down over last year's production.

Only 30% of last year's total acreage will be seeded this year, while acreage for oats and barley will remain almost unchanged and canola will show about a 10% acreage increase.

Wood Buffalo part of the wheat crop has been seeded to date, with no other crops having been planted as yet.

Debt consolidation problems

The Better Business Bureau often gets enquiries from people who have become involved financially and who must be advised offering assistance in solving their problems. If an individual's credit is so poor that the usual lending institutions will not accept any more financing, the question arises—at what cost/benefit would anyone else advance any money? By the same token, how could any unemployed person hope to come to a specific agreement with a number of creditors, for an orderly payment of debts, on behalf of a debtor? In other words what guarantee that payment of a fee to a private firm or individual will resolve the problems? The consequence could very well be proved to make matters worse, with no guarantee, of course that they would accept a deeper involvement in debt.

Alberta has a Debtors' Assistance Board, a branch of the Department of the Attorney General. This office will set up a schedule for orderly payment of debts on the authority to make arrangements with the creditors.

A very recent complaint to the Bureau, which resulted from an ad., contained documents, for which the customer paid $35.00. On one, all the outstanding accounts were listed, with a suggested small payment for each, per month based on their list of monthly household expenses which must be met. The other was a letter which the debtor was supposed to copy and send to all his creditors; there to accept the payments he proposed in full satisfaction of their claims. Of course they would accept but after

Post Office again

A few years ago it seemed the public had to expect threat of a strike on the railways every few months as first one set of employees and then another went to the mat over wages and operating conditions.

More recently, it has been the Post Office that has been experiencing the greatest difficulty, and every few months the public and business has to decide what they're going to do to get around the difficulties if a mail strike develops.

This time the real issue isn't over wages, but over job security. True there's still a difference over wages between the two sides, but this could be resolved on price factor would appear to be settled.

And most working people hold guarantees in this world, not of that kind, anyways. For all practical purposes, the job is as secure as the workers care to make it, and surely that should be enough for any reasonable minded people.

And the controversy is just what Postmaster General Eric Kierans wants — it all helps to build his case for making the Post Office a Crown Corporation, although what that would achieve we can't for the life of us imagine, except removing it from the direct control of Parliament like the CBC. And we all know how effective and efficient that organization is.

TLC FOR POLYESTERS

Knowing the characteristics helps decide care and procedures.
—Turn garment inside out when washing to reduce pilling.
—machine washable in lukewarm water, rinse in cool water.
—avoid chlorine bleaches.
—use fabric softener to control static.
—drip dry or tumble dry, do not wring.
—requires little or no pressing. also low iron temperature.
—pre-treat soiled and oily areas with paste of detergent and water and dampened spot, remover.
—dry cleans.

Some Polyesters have been known to shrink after being made up into garments. Therefore, it is a good idea to pre-shrink your yardage before sewing. This would not be a precaution that may save you some disappointment.

Tips For Sewers

—Use a fine sharp needle to prevent snags (size 11 or 70).
—Use a loose balanced tension. To check tension, place a row of stitching on a scrap of the fabric you are sewing. Stretch it. If both threads break at the same time, tension is even. If not, decrease the tension on the thread that breaks.
—Use a light pressure on the presser foot to avoid stretching the fabric. To check for correct pressure, cut two identical strips of fabric. Place them together, pin and stitch down the center. If one strip comes out longer than the other, the pressure of the presser foot must be decreased.
—Polyester thread stretches so may be used effectively on knits. Cotton thread sown with a slight zig-zag also gives the stretch needed, but it is not recommended for polyesters.
—Use washable interfacings and lining—carefully pre-shrinking before using.
—With knits, seam finishes are not necessary because knits do not ravel. However, to prevent seam allowances from curling, stitch ¼" from the cut edge.
—Press often during sewing, using a low temperature setting with seam.

I guess that is about it for Polyesters. Hopefully now you can make "educated" decisions when confronted with such a wide variety. Knowing a family—such as Polyesters — can make you friends rather than foes.

* Tender Loving Care.

CONSUMERS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

Are you a satisfied consumer? Do you like everything about a product you buy? Do you like buying fabric which has no label so that you don't know how to care for it, how to sew with it or what to expect of it?—Do you like vitamins, etc., added to food without you knowing about it? Do you mind at all the various protein content of different sausages or vitamin pills with no expiry date?—or the different sizes in children's clothing . . . ??

Bruce McGregor of the Detroit Red Wings landed the involvement of fathers in their sons' recreation as evidenced by the presence of so many fathers at the supper. He said that the fathers had greatly stimulated an early interest in hockey by building a backyard rink for his family and attending games in which his son was involved.

This is McGregor's tenth year with the Red Wings he had great praise for Gordie Howe. He said that the NHL offers many opportunities to hockey players especially since Buffalo and Vancouver were added to the loop. He reminded the boys that not all hockey players could be as successful as he and Howe. However, the opportunities are there and hockey is a great game.

A question and answer period followed the speeches of both the team manager and Mr. McGregor. Autographs were secured from the sports personalities.

Common sight

Whenever a few boys get together, it is not unusual to see a ball get batted as the youthful shoppers send rocket, even when there's only four of them. These lads from Tofield provided a typical scene at the Fairgrounds last Thursday afternoon. One can even feel the batter's impatience as he waits for the ball to get to the plate. A Mercury News photo.

Powerline opening postponed

The opening games of the Powerline Baseball League, scheduled for Tuesday evening, were postponed because of inclement weather conditions.

Three games are scheduled for this evening, but wet ground conditions and scattered showers will likely force a second postponement of the season's 1970 opening. All postponed games will be re-scheduled at a later date.

The next scheduled games are on Tuesday with Banks travelling to Viking, Ryley playing in Tofield and Camrose visiting in Round Hill.

Two of the league's teams will be participating in a tournament on Sunday. Camrose will host five teams, including Tofield in a day long tournament at the Fairgrounds that gets underway at ten o'clock in the morning. Tofield plays Old Patch of Edmonton in the opening game while Camrose plays Lougheed in a game at noon. The other two teams in the tournament are Two Hills and Edmonton's Bus Shumacks.

Beaver representatives attend Wainwright meet

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

M. Ray Hovland, Village of Holden, secretary-treasurer, attended the Alberta Secretary-Treasurers Association Regional meeting of Zone 5, held at the Centennial Centre, Wainwright, on Wednesday, May 20th, with approximately 85 delegates and officials in attendance.

Garnet Barnabel, secretary-treasurer of the Village of Ryley, chairman of the Zone 5 district introduced officials and delegates.

M. R. L. Crane of Edmonton of the Assessment Equalization Board spoke on the equalization of assessments. Mr Bruce Ramsay, municipal inspector of the Dept. of Municipal Affairs spoke on the new legislation passed at the recently held legislative session.

At the afternoon session Dr. Eversley, mayor of Tofield brought Mr. E. Newman, secretary of the Urban Municipalities Association, who covered questions on resolutions being passed at the annual convention and stressed the importance of being present at the convention would be held this year at the Palliser Hotel in Calgary in October.

A panel discussion took place in regard to road gravelling in recreations.

At the close of the meeting the town of Wainwright was thanked for hosting the delegates and the delicious noon lunch and a special thanks was offered to the guest speakers. The guests were then taken on a tour of Wainwright, visiting new buildings and the new subdivisions.

The noon lunch was held at one of the newly opened cafes in Wainwright.

War sure is hell

It was America's General Sherman who seems first to have said "War is hell", and ever since that time the nations of the world have been trying to prove him right. Curiously, it seems to us, it is the Americans themselves who seem to work hardest at making it hell. Or maybe it's just that they have succeeded a little better than other nations in the attempt. It was they who dropped the first atomic bomb, with all its attendant horrors, and now the defoliant chemicals.

The European nations seem for many years to have recognized that they could literally eliminate each other if they fought on a no-holds-barred basis, and evolved the Geneva Conventions, establishing certain standards, as in the treatment of prisoners, and barring some styles of warfare, much in the style of the Marquis of Queensberry rules in boxing.

One of these actions barred following the First World War was the employment of poison gas, (although many countries continued to produce it and keep it on the shelf . . . just in case.)

The defoliation chemicals used in Viet Nam are not at all poison gases, in the proper sense, although they may have even worse effects in the long run. First, of course, is the impossibly crippling action of utterly destroying, for periods of up to twenty years, the trees and crops on which the residents completely depend. Possibly even worse is the probability of thousands and thousands of children yet unborn being deformed in the manner of thalidomide babies, from polluted water drunk by their mothers.

One wonders about the mental processes of the boys who come home from service in theatres of war such as these. How can they possibly fit back into a reasonably normal pattern of life, without painful scars burned in their memories? How can they react to civilian situations without employing the same brutalizing and bestial tactics they have learned in this small battleground?

How can there ever be anything left to fight over, when indeed we have already rained more bombs than fell during the entire Second World War on a little postage stamp of a country?

Really, we have always supported the American principle in being in Viet Nam in the first place, in trying to contain the advance of Communism someplace, before it ringed in this western world. Yet surely it's impossible to support the methods being used. War doesn't have to be that hellish . . . or do we have to fight Communists with their own methods?

Words that say something

Discussing Finance Minister Benson's latest budget recently, John Diefenbaker described it by applying the words of Abraham Lincoln more than a hundred years ago when he described the budget of 1858 by saying "it was as thin as the homeopathic soup that was made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death".

Open confrontation

We can think of no tactics less likely to win an advantageous position for the postal workers than their present policy of sporadic and moving one day strikes, designed to hamper and impede the normal flow of mails, and to embarrass the government into settlement, for no policy is more likely to persuade the government to dig in its heels and resist. Not even a full-blown strike would be more irritating.

We obviously cannot poll the local workers, for that would be unfair but we feel safe in saying the majority of them want no part of a strike, for the moment they stop work, they stop earning. And no matter how much any of us feels we're worth more than we're getting, they're also practical enough to know they stack up pretty well against other local situations.

But if the national strike comes then'll have to strike, also, as automatic members of the same union when they join the postal service.

It seems to us the question must eventually arise of who is stronger the union or the people of the entire Dominion. If the Dominion Government ever lacks the ultimate power either to award an increase, or to close the job down, to dissolve the union, to find new employees, or whatever needs to be done, then the whole democratic system of government we love goes down the drain, for if one authority successfully challenges and defeats the government, every other authority will make the same attempt. The outcome of such a situation as that would be too dismaying even to contemplate, let alone to allow it to develop.

Suffragettes

The demonstration in the House of Commons a couple of weeks ago was reminiscent of the early suffragette movement in England suggests The Montreal Star. On one notable occasion, a half century ago women marchers were arrested for obstructing traffic outside Westminster. A young suffragette, in her first clash with the law, burst into tears when she looked around the tiny cell where she was thrust with an older woman, a survivor of many protests.

"There there, my dear" said the veteran patting her arm around the neophyte in sympathy "Don't weep Place your trust in God She will protect you

MacDuff Ottawa Report

OTTAWA, May 18.—The House of Commons has been the scene in recent years of many disturbances, but it remained for an organized group of women to do the most effective job of bringing their grievances to the attention of the members of Parliament.

Veteran observers on Parliament Hill can never recall an occasion when the entire House was so totally disrupted. Their actions have precipitated a vigorous debate as to whether they were warranted in interfering with the process of parliament.

They were driven to desperate measures, however, by frustration. They were the women who have organized a cross-Canada motorcade to bring to the attention of the legislators the need for better abortion legislation.

NO BETTER

The women contend—and rightly it would it seem—that changes made recently in the Criminal Code regarding abortions had not done little to improve the situation insofar as women's rights are concerned. The delegation calling for "Free Abortions on Demand" marched on the capital city from all across Canada. More than 400 converged on Parliament Hill recently and demanded to be heard by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

However, the Prime Minister claimed he had no time to see them because they arrived on the weekend that he was preparing to depart for his Pacific Tour. They held a rally on the Hill on a Saturday. On Sunday Mr. Trudeau was to depart around noon for his tour on board his new VIP Boeing 707 jet. He attended a reception on Sunday morning at an Ottawa hospital honouring nurses but begged off meeting with the women's delegation Saturday. It was suggested by the Prime Minister's office that they meet with Justice Minister John Turner.

BRUSH-OFFY

But in Western Canada Health and Welfare Minister Jean Marchand given a more warm reception. But he would probably be at hand to meet with the delegation in Ottawa But after the women arrived in Ottawa they found out that Mr. Marchand had left for Geneva to attend a meeting of the World Health Organization

Left out of many accounts of the protest brush-off the women got from the Cabinet the women had what a couple words here Mr. Turner didn't [illegible] them. Mr. Marchand [illegible] and rejected [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Reports of the recently held County of Beaver School Workshop and "Meet the Premier Night" banquet were given, also a final report of the recent Cancer Campaign sponsored by the Lodge was given.

Committees were appointed to convene the Resume-Guide and Mother banquet to be held Monday, June 1st and the supper meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, June 2nd, both in the Holden Community Hall. Plans were made to visit shut-ins on Royal Harper Day, June 3rd and the date for the lodge Memorial Day set for the latter part of June.

It was also decided that no members would attend as delegates at the Supreme Lodge Convention being held in Vancouver this year, July 26 to 30th. Laneth luncheons were Ladies Langford and Strilchuk.

Mrs. Lars Hakland was taken to Tofield Hospital Monday and will be there for a few days, having a check-up and treatment.

Mrs. N. L. Campbell received word from her nieces last week that her sister, Mrs. Polly Carr of Sudbury, Ontario, had passed away peacefully, at a nursing home after an illness of a few months, at the age of 82 years. Sunday, May 17th. Mrs. Carr was well known to many friends of the family, visiting here several times with Mrs. Campbell, and spent the summer months here just a few years ago, when their sister, Mrs. Phil Martin of High Wycombe, Bucks, England was visiting for several weeks with Mrs. Campbell.

Miss Cecilia Anne Lashuhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lashuhl, was receiving her B.Sc. degree in Pharmacy this week at the spring convention being held in the Jubilee Auditorium.

We regret the error last week, that the Douglas Olsens were visitors with their family and relatives here over the long weekend, this should have been the Bob Olsens of Trail, B.C., where they reside. Bob is stationed there with the RCMP detachment. Douglas, of course being still a bachelor.

EXECUTIVE SUICIDE TOLL CLIMBING

An increasing number of Canadian executives — managers and professionals — are committing suicide. The dangerous age appears to be between 40 and 44. Although there is no breakdown of the 2,021 Canadians who were recorded as taking their own lives in 1968 (latest full year figures available), the toll among executives is growing. There is also a trend toward more suicide among younger persons, caused by college students. Organizers of suicide prevention centres want nation-wide coverage and better rehabilitation. This, they say, would deter many would-be suicides.

HE WON! The International Olympic Committee's recent Amsterdam decision to make Montreal the site of the 1976 Summer Olympics is a major victory for Mayor Jean Drapeau. He lost an earlier bid for the 1972 Olympics. —TTS Photo

MacDuff Ottawa Report

Farming rationalized

OTTAWA, May 25 — Canadian Agriculture in the Seventies, a report of the federal task force recently delivered to Federal Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson is bound to be the source of much controversy on the farm scene over the next few years.

The report speaks of rationalizing the industry, and by that it means a complete revision of production and marketing as practised now, the practical elimination of the family farm and the rise of larger units, all in the interests of better management.

NO SMALL INDEPENDENTS

In twenty years, says the task force, the computer will take over from personal instinct and judgment of what will be grown where and in what quantity on farmlands of Canada and stronger marketing boards, national in scope, will organize the selling. Within that period the task force seeks a lessening of independence of the individual, a rising proportion of farm workers who are employees and a drastic reduction in farm population to about probably three or four per cent of the national population.

HIGH POWERED COMMITTEE

Members of the task force were Dr. David L. MacFarlane, Chairman, Head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Macdonald College at St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec; Professor D. R. Campbell of the Department of Political Economy, University of Toronto, Dr. J. C. Gilson, Chairman of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Dean of Graduate Studies at the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg; Dr. D. H. Thain, Professor of Business Administration at the School of Business, University of Western Ontario, London, and Pierre Contois, a chartered accountant of Sherbrooke, Quebec.

Ideas of the task force basically are not new. The need for larger, more economic farming units, has been discussed for years. But it has never been a popular concept among the small unit farmer who sees a way of life being swept away. Nor have many backbench members of parliament given the idea much support. Reaction to the task force has been "what are they going to do with the farmers, put them on relief?"

In the context of today's high unemployment rate that may be a pertinent question. With more than a half million unemployed at the end of April it is quite evident that industry will not absorb them now.

The difficulty with the question is that no one supposes that the farm population will dwindle to three or four per cent overnight, or that the present level of unemployment will continue. Over a period of 20 years absorption may be possible.

Senator Harry Hays who was Minister of Agriculture in the Pearson Government back in 1965 found himself unpopular with the small unit farmer when he told them that bigger holdings and more efficiently managed production will be the only viable farm operation in the future. He was hooted down when he said this to a farm convention being held in the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa. It seems nobody's theory that Senator Hays was entirely off base in what he suggested. But the then minister's brand of logic was never translated into political action. He was passed over [illegible] Days.

UNDER DEVELOPMENT

The idea may be palatable now to many thousands of small farmers, but the theory is being acted on in a number of ways. Operations of the Canadian Dairy Commission, which incidentally the task force criticised heavily, are directed toward elimination of the small industrial milk or cream producer. The task force would speed up the process and urges the commission to get out of the business of subsidization in five years.

STAND ON OWN FEET

"No task force says in fact that the government should phase out subsidization of Agriculture. It [illegible]

"The obvious keynote that permeates all our recommendations is that the government should intelligently assist an orderly and planned transition that will encourage agricultural adjustment to achieve the largest possible gains at the lowest possible tangible and intangible costs. Another theme running through all our recommendations is that governments should reduce their direct involvement in agriculture, thereby encouraging farmers, farm organizations and agri-business to improve their management and leadership functions and stand more self-sufficiently on their own. We assume that agriculture should be operated much as any industry."

SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE

It is in the last sentence that certain MP's closely associated with agriculture are finding [illegible] ground.

Waschel, Liberal member for the predominantly agricultural riding of Bruce in Southern Ontario, took a long look at that paragraph.

"I'm sure his answer 'So we take all the subsidies from farmers,' but at the same time we take it away from everybody else. What would happen if a lot of [illegible] without some form of [illegible] and [illegible] for it politically to do that. He was passed over [illegible] Days. [illegible] days.

Back to normal?

We used to hear the saying that people wished things would get back to normal, but the question arises these days, what is normal. Is a situation rife with strikes or threats of strikes, with demands for rapid escalation in pay, as well as soaring taxes normal? Or is a forty year record slump in the stock market normal?

All these questions come to mind as the public stares at the prospect of a postal strike growing more imminent with the resignation yesterday of the minister appointed from the University of Calgary Postmaster. Despite [illegible] there's change, [illegible] party. Dr. [illegible] could be [illegible] to quit wasting [illegible]

If ever the country seemed prepared to "tough it out", that time is now, as more and more firms make arrangements to have their business conducted by some alternative method, and doubtless many will never return to the postal service after the unrest is settled, if only until the next disturbance. Nobody likes it, of course, but it's amazing how general is the feeling that it's coming sooner or later, and we may as well face it now.

Our observations, limited as they may be, would indicate that Canadians generally are getting [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Ladies' short courses conducted in Tofield

The ladies at Tofield had a by 29 ladies one day, and a very successful series of Short few less the next week.

The Catering Series of the two afternoons was attended

The above two courses were held in the Tofield Hall. The ladies were able to finance the use of the Hall, which cost them $8.00 for the eight days, or dollar per lady per three days of coffee and one dollar more than the cost of the note book. Many different local ladies clubs and ladies helped with the organization of these days.

The sewing courses were a great success. These courses have just been completed May 14, and many ladies took the opportunity to have this in structions in Tofield. The ladies of the sewing courses were greatly indebted to the Bethel Lutheran Church, Tofield, and the Tofield United Church for making their basements and ladies available to the ladies for the small charge of one dollar per lady per three days instruction. In the final course five different foiled coats and some slack suits and suit ensembles were made.

Mrs. Elsbeth Durie, District Home Economist has been largely responsible for conducting these series.

Principal has unique hobby

by Karen Thiessen

Mr. Ken Eastlick, principal of the Tofield School, is interested in geology (specifically fossilized rocks), and recently shared his hobby with the Tofield grade nine B class.

Through his many travels, Mr Eastlick has combed areas such as Drumheller and Patricia for fossilized remains.

The students were greatly impressed by some of the excellent slides Mr Eastlick has taken and everyone enjoyed the presentation very much.

Interviews continued by Tofield students

The continuation of interviewing local personalities by Tofield School students continues this week, with reports on John Baergen and Mrs. Beryl Lampitt. The interviews were conducted by Cheryl Francis, Sharon Rudzicki, Betty Anne Scott and Linda Tiedemann.

MR. BAERGAN

John Baergan, noted for organizing and coaching basketball, has been very successful in fulfilling this position in Tofield. Ten years ago, league teams in baseball were started with Tofield, Ryley, Holden, Bruce and Viking participating. Later, Midget League, Pony League and Juvenile leagues were formed. Ninety to one hundred boys come out to play on the teams every year. The teams play for trophies, which are donated by the business people on Highway 14. Each year approximately $500 is spent on equipment. Some of the ways the teams raise money are raffles, apple drives, bean suppers, and donations from the Community League, Lions' Club, Farmers' Union, Tofield Legion and the Town of Tofield. Each of these teams play in tournaments and leagues within the county. Mr. Baergan has led eight teams in the past eight years. Most of the time he coaches the Little League or Midget A League. About every other year one of the Tofield teams receives a trophy, which is a very good average. Mr Baergan has done a great job in coaching baseball teams in the teams of the past and were for the good in the future.

MRS. LAMPITT

Mrs. Beryl Lampitt, conscientious and devoted in leading Explorers, has given guidance to the girls, ages nine through twelve, for the past seven years. Because a leader for Explorers was needed, she took over the responsibility of leading this group. The Explorers participate in the annual Christmas program, Mother and Daughter Banquet and the Valentines Tea. Religious training is part of the Explorers' program. The girls make handicraft articles, give donations to UNICEF and the Missionary Maintenance Department of the United Church, care for the shut-ins and aged by caroling or by giving Easter baskets and inviting other girls to join in the World Day of Prayer Service. Explorers have an annual end-of-the-year party which will be an overnight camping trip with Sherwood Park Explorers. Most of the Explorers are from United Church families, but some Lutheran and Catholic families are represented. Explorers have a special uniform which consists of a navy blue skirt and a blouse with a red tie. The girls also receive stars after attending so many weeks of Explorers. At the end of their first year, Explorers have two red stars, at the end and at the end of the third, two gold stars. At the end of the full three years the girls receive an E pin. Sharon Rudzicki and Mrs. Boyles also help Mrs. Lampitt lead Explorers. The Explorers group was started as the girls would have a mid-week activity instead of only attending church on Sunday. It is an official organization of the United Church of Canada.

The National Farmers Union has withdrawn from membership in the Canola Grains Council. President Roy Atkinson protested the admission to Council membership of certain other groups.

Achievement Day set by Holden Ites

A regular meeting of the Holden 4-H Beef Club was held May 21, at the Holden School. Roll call was taken and an oral feed report given by each member.

Plans were made for Achievement Day, which will be held June 10th at the Holden stock yards, with the sale and banquet at Vikil.

Plans were also being made for the end of the year party.

A talk was given by Elgin Grindle on diseases of cattle. Janice Koelbe gave a talk on household cuts of meats. Ernest Ruby gave a talk on the final preparation of the calf. The meeting was then adjourned.

Students propose pollution control

by Grace Phillips

Grade Seven students from the Tofield Junior High presented the Tofield Town Council with a list of pollution problems, which they feel are present in Tofield and about which something should be done.

This brief was presented at the regular meeting of the council on Monday, June 8, Peter von Stackelberg accompanied by John Clark, Carol Ann Francis, Francis Damberger, Colleen Walker, Susan Sorken and Lee Swanson, representatives of the grade seven classes, to the meeting.

The students received a very cordial welcome and a sympathetic hearing from the councillors. As well as stating what they felt to be pollution problems in Tofield, the students suggested some possible solutions to the problems, such as the passing of a by-law preventing the sale of non-returnable bottles, more frequent garbage pick-up and better garbage disposable methods, and paving to control dust.

The councillor responsible in each of the areas mentioned explained to the students what was already being done about the problem, and what was proposed for the future.

Consider the carrot!

Basically the carrot is a simple, natural product. You can enjoy it raw and crisp. Or consider variations, like the "carrot cocktail" of healthhood fame . . . or tender young carrots smothered in butter and served with gourmet food. Yes, there's more to the carrot than meets the eye. Just consider the process behind the carrot on your plate — the costs of farm machinery, fertilizer, marketing and distribution. Electricity is a "natural" product too. But bringing its convenience home to you involves construction, maintenance, sophisticated planning and engineering. While the overall cost of living has increased dramatically, the price of electricity is still one of today's best bargains. And finding a bargain these days is pretty difficult! So — when you consider inflation — think about the carrot on your plate — and in the field . . . and about electricity, another "natural" that goes through many stages before it gets to you!

Commonwealth message sent by Elizabeth R.

June 13, 1970

Her Majesty the Queen has sent the following Commonwealth Day Message to the people of Canada through the office of the Governor-General and the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta:

Last year on Commonwealth Day it was young people I had very much in mind. This year I am thinking in particular of parents and their responsibilities towards their children.

They are rightly concerned about the sort of world their children will live in. It is changing in many ways - some superficial, some more profound. People of different races, religions and customs are going to be brought into ever closer contact with one another as the world population grows and its mobility continues to increase.

In the Commonwealth we have above all an imaginative experiment in human relations and the interdependence of peoples on a vast scale and of a very practical kind: a community held together not by power or compulsion but by a common interest in strengthening the bonds of humanity.

A characteristic of the young today is a deep interest in humanity and a direct concern for people. They are seldom afraid of ideas. This is surely something to rejoice in.

To those who live intently, the Commonwealth ideal may well seem relevant today and in tune with the desires of youth to find practical ways of increasing human friendship and happiness.

It is my earnest hope that these unselfish aspirations may be translated in due course into fuller understanding and deeper sympathy between the nations of the Commonwealth.

Report from Parliament Hill

by Donald F. Mazankowski, M.P. for Bruce-Vegreville

The Standing Committee on Agriculture is presently examining Bill C-196, an Act respecting grain. This Act provides for very extensive and major changes to the present Canada Grain Act which has been in effect since 1912 and last re-written in 1930. The Canada Grain Act has been referred to as the Magna Carta of the Western grain grower. It has been a good Act and has served the industry very well over the many years despite substantial changes in the organization and size of the Western grain industry.

To date the Committee has heard representation from the Canada Grain Council, the three Wheat Pool organizations, the UGG, the line elevators companies and the NFU.

It has been acknowledged by all that there is need for greater flexibility in our grading system to meet current market trends and demands, which includes, of course, the matter of guaranteed protein content.

With respect to protein content, it seems the main problem lies not so much in the percentage of content, but rather in the uniformity and consistency of protein content. One of the common complaints heard about the Canadian wheat is the fact that the protein content is too variable, not only from year to year, but within the same year and within the same grade. It is also recognized there is need for a substantial reduction in the number of grades. Currently there are some 3,000 different grades of wheat, oats, and barley, and in order to inject more efficiency and orderly distribution a rationalization of grades is a necessity.

Presently, the current Act provides for the various grades by statute, whereas, usually, the provisions of the new Act, grades will be provided by regulation and hence amended from time to time through government order in Council.

The main objections to the Bill seems to be in the fact that under the pretense of injecting greater flexibility and efficiency into the Canadian grain handling, the government is seeking powers that are far too broad. The effects of this will undoubtedly be serious because of the rights and protections now given to the producers and others associated in the grain trade. Under the present Act [illegible] powers will be utilized in the best interests of the producers. Provisions for adequate appeals are non-existent in the Bill.

It is interesting to note that the concept of increased government involvement as enunciated in this Act is a direct contradiction to the recommendations proposed by the

The Canada Grains Council which is a national body established by this government, rejects the Bill on the basis that in every sense this is a new law which changes the concept and intent of the present Grain Act.

It recommends some 50 major and 33 minor changes to the 108 clause Bill before it could be acceptable and as such should not be proceeded with at this time, until full and adequate study can be made respecting the long term implications.

I think it is important to remember and this point was adequately substantiated by witnesses appearing before the Committee that currently [illegible] required respecting [illegible] Act which this session will be tabled. "COMMENDATION"

Tofield, Alta.

Dear Sir:

I wish to commend Mr. and Mrs. Desmonds on the breathtaking of their grounds out at Charlie's Place. May others take a hint and make Tofield look like it should be.

Who then happened to the Lions and the Legionaires. "Lest we forget"... did they?

Fotsy.

"SCHOOL REPORT"

RR2, Minburn, June 16

Editor, The Mercury,
Tofield, Alta.

Dear Sir;

As president of the Student's Union this past year in high school, the question that has come to me is: "Has the Students' Union brought meaning to its students and teachers involved?"

A lot of students' first reaction to this question would be "no", however, if nothing else, it has given its members a vague idea of parliamentary procedure.

But students have to become aware of the fact that what the Students' Union does is their own ideas, so if ideas are not forthcoming, neither shall actions of the Union be forthcoming. Members should speak up at meetings on matters they want to see done, and to keep speaking up until they see some action.

I believe there is a purpose in the Students' Union and that students can improve it or leave it, the way it is if they are satisfied with it.

In Students' Union events undertaken this year, there has been good participation. Curling was well enjoyed by those who took part, and basketball drew good crowd support from students and members of the community alike. Operation of a concession stand in the school has been possible by students' co-operation, and has been enjoyed by all money making scheme.

The Spring Prom this year was a highlight, and was well attended by members of the community. Congratulations are forthcoming in the Queen contest, held during the prom to the candidates Kathy Klassen, Nets Appleby, and Mari Ferguson and congratulations to Nette Appleby for being elected.

I would personally like to thank the executive, other members of the Students' Union and teachers of Tofield High School for their help and co-operation during my term in high school. I would like to wish my classmates every success in the future in whatever avenues of life they may choose.

Yours truly,
Lyle O. Hasberg.

How did those six Sioux get on our beer label? (Six? Count 'em. Six.) To say nothing of three crows. And a Hupmobile. And twenty-nine bows. And our House of Lethbridge. How? Frankly, we don't remember. It all happened many moons ago. But one thing's certain: we'll never change our label. Or the great beer behind it. In Lethbridge, we go right on brewing it the slow, natural way, for real flavour. We have spoken.

Principal writes about 'You and your school'

by R. P. Chamlis

The Technical and Vocational Agreement between the provinces and the federal government has provided for the establishment of composite high schools such as the one in Vegreville. Vocational education consists of a program whereby academic and technical subjects are in balance; it observes common basic aims; that is, to produce a man or woman who is socially responsible and mature, it demands and develops certain skills, and it introduces the uses of material used to serve the society. The composite high school offers programs for progress toward occupational objectives which may be realized at the secondary level or deferred until post-secondary training.

Depending upon the individual interests and needs, an occupational commitment should be implicit in every student's secondary school program. The decision need not be final. In fact the integrated program at the high school is so arranged that no one is locked into an unalterable lifecourse by a single, irrevocable decision. The training programs provide an opportunity for students to be introduced to several related jobs. This objective is achieved by offering several diversified programs, of which industrial education courses play an important part.

A student may desire matriculation standing in addition to taking some training in industrial education Or, a student may pursue a definite trade training by completing his education at a technical institute. A third choice may be registration with the apprenticeship Board. These courses are designed so that those who choose so may proceed directly into employment. More specifically, facilities are available for training in Agricultural Mechanics, Automotives, Beauty Culture, Building Construction, Drafting, Electricity Electronics, and Food Preparation.

The course in Agricultural Mechanics offers a student diversification and flexibility in training. This course provides for development of skills and experiences in welding, machine shop, small motors, and farm machinery. He may choose to spend an equal amount of time on each unit, or develop further skills in any one. Upon successful completion the student may enter the service industry for which he has a particular skill.

Automotives requires little exposition for those who operate a motor vehicle know full well the need for a well trained mechanic.

One of the most fascinating and popular careers of today is that of the cosmetologist. Beauty Culture is both a profession and a science. There are unlimited opportunities throughout the country for the competent beautician, either man or woman. Students who successfully complete the program will be required to write the Provincial Hairdresser's Examination. Upon receiving a 75% or better grading the student will receive a Hairdresser's License which permits the holder to operate a licensed Beauty Salon anywhere in the Province of Alberta.

Building Construction and Design utilizes a number of related activities to provide students with a broad background in the building and construction trade. The course provides for training and understanding of the many facets of the construction of a building—architecture, electricity, plumbing, cement work, etc. These experiences are accomplished through the introduction of practical projects which illustrate the variety of work done by tradesmen.

Drafting principles and techniques are applied in many different fields, the main ones being engineering, architecture, and mapping. The ability to form mental images of a planned project or object and render them into pictorial form is important in drafting. The drafting program allows a student direct entry into the field of Industrial Arts, or direct entry into a Technical Institute.

Rain ousts ball games

The Powerline Baseball League is running into consistent weather problems this year, as again rain wiped out another three games, scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Last week, rain interfered in Tuesday's action, but all three games were played later in the week. In those games, Camrose blanked Bardo 14 as Dennis Lindstrand tossed a no-hitter and Camrose scored in the bottom of the seventh to win.

Viking maintained its grip on first place, as they ran their undefeated streak to four games by whitewashing Tofield 6-0. Ryley completed the whitewashing sweep by blank Round Hill 7-0.

Tonight's games have Camrose at Ryley, Bardo at Tofield and Round Hill at Viking, while Tuesday's schedule is: Viking at Bardo, Tofield at Ryley and Round Hill at Camrose.

dents going to University may enter into Architectural Engineering. Drafting is recommended for girls who are planning a career in Interior Designing and Decorating.

Electronics represents one of the most rapid advances in technology, which is changing the entire pattern of industrial occupation. Electronics and instrumentation is basic to automation, telecommunication and instrumentation. Employment opportunities are so varied as the interest and ambition of the trained technician.

The food service industry is a field where there is a growing need, good pay, and modern working conditions. The preparation and retailing of food has become big business, a service industry that involves production directly catering to the public. Students may seek employment with retailers, wholesalers, distributors, or may seek training at the Technical Institute in Commercial Baking, Commercial Cooking, or Dietary Service Technology.

Students need to take advantage of the opportunities for consistent productive employment in the economic and technological conditions of today and tomorrow. Regardless of the eventual occupational career, everyone occasionally repairs his home, fixes a radio or T.V., adjusts the operation of a motor, or enjoys good food. Each individual is involved in meeting the challenge of the rate of change in knowledge and in technology Whether the student intends to meet this challenge by preparing for university, technical institute, or apprenticeship training, enrollment at the Vegreville Composite High School will provide for these needs. MR. RAMSDOTTOM

Mr. Ramsdottom, present recreational leader in Tofield, has given some of the views on the recreational facilities in our town. If Tofield got any new recreational facilities they would probably include improving the double court tennis court and paving the surface area of the ice area of the curling rink so it could be used for badminton and tennis courts in the summer. Also an arena could possibly be built north of the present curling rink, with several clubs supporting it. Swimming pools, and a dressing rooms would be included in the arena. Everything is plan and within a three-year period.

Some of the things which the clubs could do to raise money for new recreational facilities are drives, raffles and dances. New facilities would hold more people in Tofield as well as bringing new ones in. These new facilities will provide for, not only young people, but for those of all ages. Also, some of the facilities which are already in Tofield can be fixed up instead of building new ones. Mr. Ramsdottom has helped a lot with the planning for new recreational facilities and making the maximum use of the facilities we have.

ARNOLD JONES

Arnold Jones, noted organ tutor of the County Cousins, has led this group successfully. The group started when Lyle Jacobsen wanted to learn to play the accordion and then Doug and Randy wanted to learn. Linda Tiedemann joined the group later. They called themselves the Country Cousins. Mr. Jones plays the guitar, Lyle the accordion, Linda the drums, Doug the banjo and Randy plays the violin. The varieties of music played are Country and Western and Oldtime music with a touch of Rock and Roll. This group plays with personal satisfaction.

Mr. Jones, in his childhood, took two years of lessons. This group has been together for four years. The Country Cousins have won many awards in Tofield, Holden, Ryley, Lamont, and Round Hill. This musical group has played for dances, parties and talent shows. Mr. Jones has a spent a lot of time with this group practising. He said he would like to see them become professionals. The Country Cousins are well organized but a vocalist is wanted.

MR. REN EASTLICK

Ren Eastlick, noted principal and teacher, has taught for nine years in Tofield. He became a teacher in 1949 and a principal in 1966. Mr. Eastlick started his education in Park City, Montana. Here he had all of his schooling. After he graduated, he went to Washington State College in Cheney, Washington. He was also in Bozeman, Montana. Mr. Eastlick spent four summers in the University of Montana. He also took extension courses at the University of Alberta. He has taught in many places before coming to Tofield.

He views education facilities in Tofield as inadequate. There is a need for building expansion. Academic facilities that need attention in the Tofield School are drama, music and art. All students in the school are demanding extra curricular activities in which everybody could participate. But before the school could have extra curricular activities an adequate gym shower and health facilities would have to be built. Mr. Eastlick has given plenty of his time to extra curricular activities by coaching several teams.

At the present time, Mr. Eastlick teaches Grade 8 Science and Biology in High School. As of next semester he will be a science teacher. Mr. Eastlick has also served as principal of the school. He would like to see more subjects introduced in the future and staff members will be involved in curriculum and teaching [illegible]

The library and the instructional material centre will be the heart of the school. Mr. Eastlick has done several remarkable things for the Tofield School.

Judge speaks to graduands

(By Grace Phillips)

Judge O. Allen of the Canadian Citizenship Court was the guest speaker at the Grade Nine graduation banquet in the Tofield Community Centre on Thursday, June 11th.

The banquet, prepared and served by the Grade 8 girls, featured table decorations and place cards appropriate to the theme, "The Impossible Dream". The theme was also illustrated by a picture on the wall, flanked by the names of the graduands, which was the work of Tannis Shaw and Joyce Gould. Lois Hude and Heather Francis presented the corsages and boutonnieres to the graduands.

Robert Schacker, president of the Big 3, welcomed the students and introduced the guests at the head table. Grace was said by Eileen Fairbrother and the toast to the Queen was proposed by Sharon Rudnicki. David Schultz, vice-president of the Big 3, proposed the toast to the graduands, which was answered by Ken Thiessen, on behalf of the grade nine students. The toast to the school, proposed by Lois Koop, was replied to by Mr. Lloyd Cribb.

Following the banquet, the grade eight girls presented a short program which included the theme song "The Impossible Dream", and a musical skit for the future, "When You've Gone Ahead to High School". Ruth Quiring accompanied both songs on the piano and then presented a piano solo, a play, "The Speaker Crisis", by Margery Hallonquist. Susan Ingram, Joyce Thiessen and Joyce Gould, and a hilarious skit, "Modern Etiquette", by Susan Ingram and Linda Eastlick completed the program for which Linda Eastlick was chairman.

Before presenting the awards with their Canadian Citizenship Certificates, His Honor, Judge Allen spoke most impressively to the graduands, reminding them of the value of freedom and the responsibility of those citizens fortunate enough to belong to a democracy.

Wildlife damage fund is critcized by Unifarm

Criticism of the Wildlife Damage Fund by farmers in the Holden area will lead to an early confrontation between Unifarm and the Provincial Government.

Speaking to the annual convention Tuesday last week of Region 8 (which takes in the area east and south-east of Edmonton), Director John Sawiak of Vegreville told delegates that a meeting is being arranged with Premier Strom and the Ministers of Agriculture and Lands and Forests.

Mr. Sawiak was referring to recent requests from farmers in the Beaverhills Lakes area, near Holden, that funds should be made available without delay to establish an experimental crop there.

To meet crop losses, it has been announced that the wildlife certificate cost will be increased from $2 to $3. However, a further change in policy will be that loss claims will not be paid out as received. Mr. Sawiak noted that payments will not be made until all claims have been received and final payment will be reached in relation to the funds available for such purposes. "This simply means that if 1970 proves to be a year with considerable damage the compensation will not begin to cover the damage experienced", he states.

In its presentation to Premier Strom, Unifarm will recommend that:

1. The government be responsible for providing additional funds for crop losses inflicted by waterfowl. This would be done on the premise that such birds provide revenue for many aspects of the general economy on a broad basis, including government.

2. A dual approach to the problem should be taken, namely a continuation of crop loss, compensation and expanded experimentation and research with lure crops and feeding grounds.

3. The present rate of com-

Seventy silver dollars! A purebred Hereford heifer (or five hundred dollars)! Either or both of these prizes may be won on the Exhibition Grounds in Tofield on July 1. A gate prize will also be awarded to the holder of the lucky ticket.

Sixty-five local majorettes will twirl their batons and the School Band will march and play in the parade which will form up at the site of the former C.N. station at 11:00 a.m. Entries of floats and novelties are coming in for the parade and the largest contingent of horses ever seen in a Tofield parade will be a feature of "Salute to the Seventies", Tofield's annual sports day.

Dr. Walter Buck will be the guest of honor, riding in the parade and officially opening the big day. Parade prizes will be given out on the grounds.

Baseball is traditionally part of Tofield's sports day, and this year the teams concerned will be Camrose, Round Hill, Hardo, Ryley and Tofield. Exhibition games will be played by the Pony League and the Pee Wee teams.

The early pioneers gave over a big part of every sports day to events conserning horses. This year, the Beaver Hills Light Horse Association and the Gymkhana Club will demonstrate their ability in presenting a really good exhibition of horsemanship. It is expected that the local talent will draw a big crowd. The gymkhana events will occur in two sections, one at 2:00 and the other at 4:00 p.m.

The Tofield Historical Society will have an exhibit of pottery utensils used by pioneers and a number of pictures, from the collection of J. B. Francis. Old Timers will be welcomed at the Curling Rink and free coffee will be served to them by members of the Ketchamont community.

Acme Novelty's ferris wheel and other amusements will be on the grounds for the entertainment of all ages.

Hot dogs, salad, pies, candy floss, chocolate bars, pop, ice cream! All will be available at one or the other of the booths on the grounds.

The Barbecue supper will get underway at 4:30, due to the efforts of Vince Rivers and Bert Merrett. As usual, ladies for feeding a large crowd are being made ready.

A dance at night will be the final event of the day. The music will be supplied by The Travellers, and arrangements are being handled by J. C. Lampitt and Frank Langlans.

County Council Committee briefs

Following are the minutes, in part, of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 School Committee, held Friday, May 8.

Present were: Crs. Brassard, Gibson, Knudalien, Krupisiuk, Johnston, Reddick, and Sears. Representing towns and villages: C. Nord, H. Willie, John Allen, and Nestor Semotiuk. Mr. Mavis Bruce, Superintendent of Schools, was also present.

The meeting was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Chairman, Cr. Reddick.

It was moved and carried that the minutes of the meeting of April 1st, 1970, be accepted.

Moved that the minutes of the Shop Committee Meeting of April 8th, 1970, be accepted and that the School Committee concur in the hiring of Robert Bjornson as an apprentice mechanic. This motion carried.

It was moved and carried that the 1970 School Budget be approved in the sum of $1,999,545 expenditure with matching revenue, and that the rate method of requisition be used for 1970, 1971, and 1972.

Moved that the rate for requisition purposes as outlined in Section 4(2) of the Regulations Limiting Requisitions for the years 1970, 1971, and 1972 be established at 14.57, calculated as follows:

Requisition allowed 289,113
Equalized Assessment 18,153,672

Motion carried.

It was moved and carried that Grades X and XI be released from school on June 26th after the school has closed for the day.

The School Building Program was discussed at some length. The School Committee was advised that approval had been given for an addition to the Industrial Arts Shop at Viking, and that due to the urgency of the matter, the County Council had authorized the hiring of Mr. Thomas Groves of Aberdeen, Groves & Co. as architect for this project.

The School Committee was also advised that the request for Tofield addition had been refused. The County Council had authorized the administration to prepare a brief requesting that the School Buildings Board reconsider this decision and that it be submitted to the Department.

The School Committee was further advised that approval had been obtained for two portable classrooms without washroom facilities as an addition to Ryley School, and that approval had been obtained to convert the present Home Economics area to Industrial Arts and have the two-room school remodelled as a Home Economics area. They were also informed that in response to the brief approved by the County Council, the School Buildings Board had approved of the provision of two portable classrooms for the Tofield School.

The School Committee objected to the provision of portable classrooms as they felt that with the expanding programs in schools, particularly where we have no arreas for any of the fine arts programs, science rooms, and other ancillary spaces, we should be allowed to add permanent classrooms to these schools as it would be some time before there would be space that could be converted to these facilities due to drop in pupil enrolment.

It was moved and carried that a brief be prepared supporting the addition of permanent classrooms rather than portable classrooms to Tofield and Ryley Schools and that the Chairman, Cr. Reddick; the Vice-Chairman, Harry Willie; the Principals, Kenneth Eastlick and Harold Ross; Superintendent of Schools, Marvin Bruce, and the Secretary-Treasurer, Robert Cross, be authorized to interview the Department of Education in the matter of the school additions.

A letter from John Sladen, teacher at Ryley School, in regard to the oil that is being dumped into the ditches around the bus and repair garage was read. This letter indicated that this practice is polluting the stream that runs on the north side of the shop.

Cr. Knudalien advised that the Bus Shop Committee was aware of this situation and had authorized the Public Works Foreman to build a tank to haul this oil away. This had been done.

The purchase of a new mower for the schools was discussed. Several years had been received in regard to the blades and there were several areas where the tenders were not clear; for instance, some of the options were different, some were quoted with sales tax, some without.

Moved and carried that Mr. Marvin Bruce be authorized to accept the lowest tender after he had clarified certain items of the bids with the people who tendered.

There was a discussion on the Program Budgeting Project Seminar which had been held in St. Albert and which Nestor Semotiuk, Carl Nord, Marvin Bruce and Robert Cross had attended. The Secretary-Treasurer advised that a program is being established by the Department of Education as a pilot project in program budgeting, and requested approval of the School Committee to request to be included as part of this pilot project.

Moved and carried that the Secretary-Treasurer be authorized to request that the County of Beaver be included in the pilot project on program budgeting.

It was moved and carried that Harry Wilkie, Carl Nord, Jack Roddick and Robert Cross be authorized to attend the Banff Short Course, June 11 to 13.

Nick Shihinski advised that he had received quotations from Deseo Coatings Ltd. in regard to the repairs on the outside of the gymnasiums at Ryley and Bruce. The Ryley Gymnasium was quoted at $2,117 and the Bruce Gymnasium at $2,560. He outlined the work involved in this repair; however, there were some questions which Mr. Shihinski felt should be answered by some of these companies, so it was moved and carried that Mr. Shihinski look further into this matter and report to the next meeting.

It was moved and carried that leave of absence be approved for John Sladen for the 1970-71 school year.

Moved and carried that the following appointments to the County of Beaver staff, with duties commencing September 1, 1970, be approved: Victor William Petruk, Miss Elizabeth Jane Klein, Greg Ross and Kari E. Lich.

The Superintendent reported that Earl Hardy had accepted the invitation to attend the Principals' Leadership Course for 1970.

It was reported that the girls chosen to attend the Girls Leadership Workshop were: Miss Lorraine Dutka of Holden and Miss Judy Moore of Tofield.

It was reported that a Grade One Orientation and Internship Program had been organized for the children who will be attending Grade One starting September 1, 1970. This orientation program will take place in all of the schools in the County.

There was some discussion on the teachers' salary negotiations in regard to the provisions of the new School Act. There are many areas that will have to be discussed with the teachers, and some of these areas could possibly be instituted

It was suggested that a committee be set up similar to the Policy Handbook Committee to deal with this matter, and that it could be done early enough in the year so as to solve many of the areas of concern prior to the commencement of negotiations on the collective agreement.

Moved and carried that a committee composed of the Chairman of the School Committee, Cr. Roddick; Superintendent of Schools, Marvin Bruce; Earl Hardy; Peter von Stackelberg, and the President of the A.T.A. Local be a committee to deal with policy out of the new School Act.

RECONVENED MEETING

Following are the minutes, in part, of the reconvened meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 held Tuesday, May 19:

Present were: Cr. Brissard, Gibson, Knudsen, Kropelnicki, Roddick and Sears; C. Nord, H. Wilkie, J. Allen and N. Semoliuk, representing Towns and Villages; Marvin Bruce, Superintendent of Schools; and Keith Robson.

The meeting was called to order at 7:00 p.m. by the Chairman, Cr. Roddick.

The Secretary-Treasurer reported that the lawn tractor had been purchased from Don Place Equipment of Viking.

A letter from the Department of Education Maintenance Supervisor advised that a Maintenance and Custodial Training School would be held in N.A.I.T. July 6 to 10, and in S.A.I.T. July 20 to 24. There was considerable discussion on this matter, and the value of the course had been outlined by Nick Shihinski, who had attended last year.

It was moved and carried that we request all our head janitors, that is, Mr. Lindsay, Mr. Dyer, Mr. Josey and Mr. Rurka, to attend the course at N.A.I.T., and that Mr. Shihinski make the necessary arrangements.

Correspondence from the Department of Highways and Motor Vehicles Branch, advised that a course would be held for driver instructors in Edmonton this year.

Moved and carried that we approve of driver instructors for Ryley and Tofield, and that they be authorized to attend this course.

Mr. Bruce reported on the progress of the Young Voyageur Program to date. He advised that the committee had made the selections from the schools, and these had been submitted to the Department of Youth.

Correspondence from the Attorney General's Department advised that it will be necessary for operators of school buses to equip their buses with a minimum BBC fire extinguishers. We can use the two 4BC in half of our buses and the remainder would have to be converted to BBC At December 31, 1971, all fire extinguishers would have to be a one extinguisher of an BBC rating.

The Secretary-Treasurer reported that the requisition for the Holden Hutterite School No. 3230 in the amount of $1,200 had been approved by the Department of Education.

Correspondence from Northwestern Utilities Ltd. advised that a complete check had been made of our furnaces and boilers in the schools by the Northwestern Utilities crew. The Secretary-Treasurer advised that he had turned over this information to the Buildings Maintenance Supervisor, Mr. Shihinski, for any action that was necessary.

The following list of bus drivers was presented for approval: Douglas Murray, Tofield; Henry Thiessen, Tofield; Mrs. Hazel Myers, Viking; Leonard Setzer, Viking.

Moved and carried that these applications for bus drivers be approved.

Grade IX Achievement Battery

It was moved and carried that principals be granted permission to release to each pupil the stanine score received on each subject in Grade IX.

The question of payment for part-time caretakers during the summer months, when the head caretakers and assistants are on holidays was discussed.

Moved and carried that this matter be tabled to a future meeting.

Reports indicated that there is some conflict in regard to the use of schools for recreation purposes. It was realized that the policies which are established for use of school buildings were set when there was no widespread use of schools for recreation purposes. The School Committee realizes that the schools should be used as much as possible but, that in order to avoid conflict, there should be policies set up for this, and that the best way would be to have a committee to draft the policies.

Moved and carried that Lloyd Campbell, Ken Enefliek, Cr. Brissard, Cr. Roddick, Cr. Sears, and Marvin Bruce be a committee to develop policy regarding use of school facilities for recreational purposes.

It was moved and carried that the Secretary-Treasurer advise the Chairman of each Local Recreation Board as to the present policy in regard to the use of schools and to advise them also that we intend to review these policies.

A report on the staff allocation as to schools was discussed. The report indicated that the total overhead staff for 1970 as presently budgeted would be: Principal and Support Staff, 115; Extra Fine Arts 3; Supervisors 2; Industrial Arts Extra, 1; for a total of 121 teachers as compared to 123 for the 1969-70 school term.

line would commence in the SW 2-49-12-W4th and meet the main line in the SW 13-48-12-W4th. This would cross two road allowances.

It was moved and carried that this request be approved.

A letter from Northwestern Utilities was read advising that the estimated cost of lowering certain lines as requested by Cr. Roddick would be about $13,300. Cr. Roddick advised that this was a great deal higher than he had anticipated, and that he would have to investigate it further.

A request from Canadian Utilities Ltd. in regard to extension of service on the Lavoy REA was requested. It was moved and carried that this request be approved.

Mr. Lloyd Werbowski, District Engineer for Department of Highways, and his assistant, Mr. Gordon McIndoe, attended the meeting at this time. The Council expressed its concern over the appropriation of grant for the continuing road. They would like to see this work completed to the boundary of the County of Beaver which would mean an additional four-tenths of a mile. Mr. Werbowski advised that the Department has very little funds left to allocate; however, he did indicate that if the work were done early enough, a request would receive consideration if there were funds left at that time.

There was some discussion with Mr. Werbowski as to the Natural Resources Road. It was indicated to him that in the road north at Tofield were several gas wells which would also constitute natural resource. Mr. Werbowski advised this should have been indicated to them when the letter was presented in the first place, but it could be done another year if there were funds left in this appropriation for 1970.

Mr. Werbowski then retired to the Committee Room to deal with the Councillors individually on their road program for 1970.

It was moved and carried that the Minburn-Vermilion Health Unit requisition in the amount of $2,926.00 be approved.

The Vegreville Health Unit requisition in the amount of $17,597.00 was accepted.

Requisitions for the Viking Municipal Hospital District in the amount of $7,568.80, and the Tofield Hospital Requisition, $11,133.00, were accepted.

It was moved and carried that the School Foundation Program requisition in the amount of $419,309.00 be accepted.

There was some discussion on the sale of storage tanks that had which are not now being used by the County due to the changeover to underground storage tanks. It was moved and carried that these storage tanks be priced and advertised for sale.

Bridge authorization for File No. 557 was presented. This authorization indicated a precast concrete structure 28-foot width at the S. S.W. of 30-49-18 was approved.

Cr. Kropelnicki advised that he, together with Cr. Knudsen and Gerald Allott, had looked over some cook cars which could be purchased as the present cook car is get-nough students from Tofield and Holden, in addition to the Ryley students, taking business education courses numbered "30", that this part of the program may be dropped. This decision would have to wait until the 1970-71 school term commenced to see what will be interested in the Business Education Program.

It was reported that the signal from M.E.E.T.A. broadcasting is not going to be picked up in Viking; however, Mr. Bruce advised that Alberta Government Telephones are going to do a study to see if there is some way that the signal from M.E.E.T.A. could be picked up in Viking. He also advised that in discussions with A.G.T., they are prepared to lease certain equipment on a flexible arrangement. In discussing this leasing of equipment, it was realized that as this is a new area, this should be given serious consideration. It may be eventually that we would have to go into color, and it would be a matter of disposing of the equipment which we would have. No action was taken at this time.

It was moved and carried that the following appointments to the staff of the County be approved: Miss Anne Appleby, Mrs. Lucille Gloria Radzinsky and George Reginald James Millar.

It was moved and carried that the School Committee authorize Holden School as an examination centre for supplemental examinations and that Glen Shykora be appointed as presiding examiner, and that Peter Josey be approved as custodian of the examination papers.

It was moved and carried that the School Committee concur in the action of the Superintendent in authorizing the use of school facilities by Red Cross for X-ray and Tuberculin testing during the summer.

A report from the Finance Committee advised that there would not be enough time to make plans for a track meet for this year; however, they expect that one can be planned for next year.

As there was no further business, it was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn at 11:15 p.m.

North-Earling couple have 25th anniversary

Approximately 200 relatives and friends gathered at the Ryley Community Hall on Sunday, May 24th, to celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Campbell, who reside in the North-Earling district. The gathering was arranged by their two daughters, the Shaw Community, and the Campbell families.

The happy affair was enjoyed by guests from Victoria, B.C., Calgary, Edmonton, Round Hill, Holden, Camrose, Sedgewick, Sundre, Kingman, Manville, Rocky Mountain House, Tofield, and Earling.

Fred Gatheridge of Round Hill, a friend of the family, was the master of ceremonies and chaired a fine one-hour program opened by several numbers by the "Voice-A-Tiles" - namely, Lloyd Vikstrom, Ian Swetham, Darryl Albrecht and Robert Lyseb, all of Ryley; duet by Susie and Valerie Semeniuk; two instrumental numbers by Stats Orchestra (Fred Scott, Ora Phillips and Larry Jenssen); two musical selections by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lassen of Tofield, and another by Herman Lassen and Mrs. Russell Glaze of Holden; Mrs. Howard Bertram of Round Hill rendered a solo, a trio from Earling (M.s. Allan Hellekson, Mrs. Lyle Brainard and Mrs. Earl Hellekson) sang a hymn, followed by more selections by the Voice-A-Tiles and brief remarks by the emcee, F. Gatheridge.

Seated at the decorated bridal table with Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell were their two daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson (Noreen), and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brainard (Elaine), and their grandchildren, Peggy and Scott Brainard; also the best man, the groom's brother, Gen. Campbell of Ryley, and the bride's sister, Helen, now Mrs. Sandy Carter of Victoria B.C.; the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don A. Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gatheridge.

Centering the table was the three-tiered anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Sandy Carter and beautifully decorated by Mrs. Paul Voeglin of Ryley, also lighted silver tapers on either side, two lovely bouquets, one from the bride's family, the Rosvolds, and the other from their neighbors, the Bert Kirkshanks, Ryley South.

Don and Gwen were recipients of many lovely gifts, plus various individual gifts and good wishes, too numerous to mention. On behalf of their children, Noreen presented her parents with a large picture. Peggy Brainard presented a cake plate on behalf of the grandchildren; Mrs. Hugh Pike, on behalf of the Campbell families, presented a silver leaf china tea set; on behalf of the Rosvolds, Wilf Rosvold of Calgary, the bride's brother, presented cut glassware; on behalf of the Shaw Community, James Nichols presented a coffee-maker; there was also a purse of money from the entire district.

In charge of the guest book were Mrs. Margaret Pike and Mrs. Ruth Adamson, both of Camrose.

Don and Gwen both expressed their gracious thanks for the lovely gifts, program, and all who helped to serve the nice lunch and helped in any way to make the occasion so pleasant.

Pte. Don Campbell and Gwen Rosvold were united in marriage May 24, 1945, by Rev. A. Vincent at the Camrose Lutheran parsonage, and have since resided south of Ryley where they have been active in community affairs.

On Saturday night, the Legion held a party at the Ryley Legion Hall for Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, and presented them with a silver tray.

ting too small for our use. They advised that they had contacted Mr. Gordon Burgess who had a regular creek van, 10 feet by 36 feet, which could be purchased for $3,000. They had also inspected a bunk house owned by Big T Construction in Vegreville which is 60 feet by 20 feet, and could be purchased for $5,500. They suggested that the latter of the two would be the better one and that partitions could be moved and equipment installed which would make it a much more functional cook house than the one owned by Gordon Burgess.

It was moved and carried that if this bunk house can be purchased for $3,000.00 the County purchase it and it be converted to a cook house.

There was some discussion on the filling up of Amisk Creek which is causing some flooding. It was moved and carried that application be made to the Water Resources Branch for authority and grant to clean Amisk Creek.

Cr. Brainard advised that there were two bridges which he had not previously included in his bridge requests. One of them, particularly, was in bad shape and had been inspected by a member of the Bridge Branch. It was moved and carried that the Bridge Branch be requested to inspect the two bridges in Division 3 at the following locations, and that if possible arrangements be made to either repair them or replace them:

West of the SW 25-48-14 W4 and

West of the NW 17-47-13 W4

As there was no further business, it was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn at 6:30 p.m. and that the next meeting be held on June 16th, 1970.

Recreation Ramblings

by H. J. Hartwig

All teen-agers and interested adults are invited to a meeting in the Holden Community Hall on Thursday, June 25, at 8:00 p.m. This meeting is sponsored by the Beaver Regional Recreation Board and is designed as an information and suggestion session. Teen drop-in centres, etc. There will be resource proper in attendance from the Department of Youth to speak and to answer questions. We hope that some action may be initiated in some towns in our country for the coming summer months. If there are any questions or further information required, phone me at 663-3925.

I have a letter from the Department of Youth outlining a new level system for hockey coaching. There will be a work shop August 21, 22 and 23 at the University of Alberta to train interested persons as instructors for local and area hockey clinics. Since the deadline for applications is July 17, it is important that any person interested in this workshop contact me as soon as possible at 663-3925. The workshop is designed to train local instructors so that they are qualified to handle local and area level 1 and level 2 hockey coaches clinics. They would likely be assigned to various clinics by the Department of Youth and paid an honorarium by the department. If we can get just one person in our county who is qualified, I feel that we will be a little closer to a better quality of and attitude towards minor hockey.

During the summer months I hope to start contacting possible instructors in preparation for our initial comprehensive recreation program. If you have indicated on the survey form that you are willing to act as an instructor or supervisor and you do not hear from me, or if you are interested and have not shown it on your survey form, please contact me at 663-3925.

Garden Club plans meeting on June 24

The Tofield Garden Club met June 17th in the Tofield Legion Hall to hear Mr. Garral, president of the Lamont Agricultural Society speak and to see his collection of pictures of lovely gardens.

It was decided to remain as a garden club in the Tofield area, but if any person wished to join an Agricultural Society, Lamont would welcome their registration in their club. The fee would be $1.00 per family. This fee would entitle the person to enter into the garden, gateway or flower display contests.

Dr. Price invited the executive to meet at his home the evening of June 17th to formulate plans and objectives for the club. A very enjoyable and profitable evening was spent discussing objectives of the club and looking at Mrs. Price's outstanding house plant collection.

A general garden club meeting was called for June 24 at 8:30 p.m. at the Tofield Legion Hall. Rex Bayles was asked to discuss lawn care, sprays, fertilizers and in general to answer garden questions. Everyone is invited to view Petra's Park and to help plan the tours to Lavern's Experimental Gardens, the Edmonton Prize Winning Gardens for 1970 and local garden tours.

You and your School

by H. F. Cheslik

The operation of a school is based on the assumption that education is affected by the dominant institutions and beliefs of a culture and that education in turn affects that culture. Culture in this instance refers to the whole matrix of political, economic, social and religious institutions as well as to the beliefs, ideas and ideals that guide a people in their private and public endeavors. In the end it is the society in which we live that must determine the broad aims of education; however, closer to home, based on sound democratic principles, it is the cooperative effort of the teacher, the parent and the student that determines whether these aims are being achieved.

The aims of education point towards a future, a predetermined goal, the curriculum in school is the means by which this goal is achieved, and it is the teacher that is responsible for this curriculum. Many educators have tried to define teaching – telling, explaining, guiding, directing, coaxing, aiding, motivating, evaluating —and many more synonyms, but in my estimation it is all of these and more. The teaching act involves communicating, motivating, and establishing a relationship with the student which will promote the aims of education, at the same time, bearing in mind the characteristics of the learner, as well as how he learns. The teacher must evaluate, not only the progress of his student but appraise his own performance to ensure the continued growth and vitality of teaching.

Teaching is a professional activity. The nature of teaching dictates that those who practice have skills acquired as a result of long study and practice. Teachers are committed to teaching as an essential and important service. They must have the beliefs, attitudes and values of a professional group. They must recognize the value of knowledge and regard it as the basis for performing their work.

Parents of today need to be themselves, to be real people as part of their God given right to be, not pale nor bloodless imitations, but fathers and mothers who enjoy their children and who want to cooperate with the school in furthering their children's development and growth in this society. Parents need to be objective in their views. They support their school intelligently, not blindly, and suspend judgment until they have heard the school's side, too, remembering always that their children, like any other children, will almost unconsciously shade stories. Friendly criticism of school procedures is often valuable and desirable when though it is not professional. They need to talk frankly, not as much to teachers as with them.

In our rapidly changing social standards both teachers and parents need to maintain a sense of balance. Adults are not mature in any relationship until they cease to be either blind rebels or blind traditionalists. Both people are likely to act the way their own parents did, or exactly opposite. Neither course is discriminating. They should sometimes swing a little to the right, sometimes to the left, but always maintaining a balance. It's like riding a bicycle, sometimes take off one hand, some times the other hand; sees sionally both hands, but both hands for only a short time. Such adults are persons establishing confidence and trust in their children who know that they stand firmly behind them ready to help if needed.

The third member of this educational triangle, the student, must be invested to accept this help. As I have stated before, educational opportunities may be a gift to one's right but educational attainment has a personal price that must be paid. In a report to the University John Cann of Student Help stated that over 50 per cent of the drop-outs [illegible] and one of the reasons is that students [illegible]

Mrs. Andrew Ferguson was pleasantly surprised on Sunday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Don Edwards of Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Mills of WaterWays, Alberta, paid her a visit. They were fellow workers years back when they were employed by AGT in Edmonton.

Teachers, pupils, parents and bus drivers and their wives enjoyed a picnic Friday afternoon, at Ministik School to wind up the school term.

The dance, sponsored by the Community Club on Saturday even'ng was well attended, despite the fact there were many other activities that same evening.

Several from the district attended the "Mom and Dads" show from Spokane, Washington, at Lakeview Pavilion on Friday eve.,ng and report a good show and a capacity crowd.

Once again the local community picnic was a huge success with a beautiful day to help along. Mrs. Frank Swaney was convenor and with sports committee of Mrs. R. Leach and Mrs. Pat Paterson, everything was kept rolling at a remarkable pace. The day opened with the first ball game at 1 p.m. by those 12 years and under. The girls in the booth kept those who were hungry or thirsty well satisfied.

many of today's youth. Yet the students must share responsibility for their own actions. Each young person has the ability to examine very carefully the various ways of life and to find out which way will result in a happy and rewarding life. They can not and should not shove all the blame on the adult generation. Everyone is a free moral agent—that is, has the power of free choice —can and must decide for himself or herself what way of life will make him or her useful to the society in which he lives and to himself as a human being. While it is true that everyone is constantly bombarded with ideas that are counterfactory, it is also true that each individual must sort the chaf from the kernel. We hear so much about young people who run away from home, use narcotics, engage in violence and sexual promiscuity, become dropouts or freaks and escape from reality in many different ways.

So we ask ourselves – but who is to blame, and, depending on who answers the question, it is either the home, the school or the church – never the individual! The individual is never questioned. Surely a rational being should be able to calmly, coolly observe the fruits of his actions and conclude what is best in his and in society's interest.

Each member of the educational triangle – the teacher, the parent, the student – has to co-operatively share responsibility. The teacher and the parent, each in their way, must teach the young generation. The student must wake up to see that, in spite of everything, they must face up to the pitfalls and dangers of unproductiveness. People have to pass judgment on themselves. It is absolute, there is no option. The Canadian way of life, built through many years and many cultures, has one of its principles the fact of work, one is expected to contribute economically, socially, and culturally. there can be no other way if we are to survive.

1970 ALBERTA WOMEN'S WEEK PROGRAM

Do you need a change" Are you feeling stale? Then take two or three days off and attend Alberta Women's Week at the Agriculture and Vocational College at Fairview or Olds. Designed for both rural and urban women the program is stimulating refreshing and fun!

The dates are July 7 (even ing registration) 8 and 9 at the Fairview College and July 13 (evening registration) 14 15 and 16 at the Olds College

At Fairview there will be a choice of three handicraft workshops in the morning sessions in creative embroidery you will use a variety of yarns, fabrics and stitching techniques to create your own designs for table cloths wall hangings, bedspreads and cushion covers. In the decoupage workshop you will take a picture from a magazine or some other source and learn how to make it into an attractive wall hanging by pasting it onto a piece of wood, which you have already antiqued and stained. You then varnish over both the picture and the wood. Decoupage is an old art which is being revived. Anyone who takes the sewing workshop will actually make a simple knitted dress

The first afternoon session will feature Diane Douglas, ornamentalist at the provincial Horticultural Station at Brooks. She will talk about landscaping the grounds around your house, emphasizing such things as where to put shade trees and ornamentals and how to use rocks, gravel and ground cover to obtain a pleasing design that is easy to maintain

On the second afternoon, Cal Brantley lawyer and district agriculturist at Lethbridge will discuss and answer questions on Benson's White Paper on Taxation He will point out how the proposed changes will affect the average farm family and what they should do about them

J. G. McGregor, well known historian and author will be the banquet speaker He will describe some of the local characters in the Peace River region who played a part in the trail of '98 and discuss their influence upon the development of that part of the province

The Alberta Women's Week at Olds will be the same as that at Fairview except that participants in the morning sessions will take a choice of one of the workshops in handicraft, decoupage, or dressmaking. The first afternoon session will be held in the Olds College Auditorium where Dr. Marsh, who will talk about communication gaps in family relationships and in relationships with others. He will attempt to show how these gaps can be bridged by a better understanding of oneself.

Another discussion group will feature Walter Coombs, provincial director of the Alberta Mental Health Association, who will outline present concerns and attitudes towards mental health and the new developments that are taking place in this field

In addition to Miss Douglas and Mr. Brantley, who will present the same topics at Olds as they did at Fairview, Ron Cox, liaison officer with the Canada Department of Agriculture will be one of the speakers during the afternoon sessions Entitled Knock, Knock, Who's There?" his talk will deal with the "games" people play in their day to day interactions with others.

On the lighter side, the program at both colleges will include an impromptu entertainment show, a picnic (weather permitting) and a Walt Disney film. At Olds, there will also be a fashion show.

And how do you go about enrolling in Alberta Women's Week" You simply contact your district home economist, who has copies of the program and application forms. While nobody will be turned away because they have not filled out an application form, the home economist's staff of the department of agriculture, who organize the program every year, would greatly appreciate knowing in advance approximately how many people are likely to attend Advance notice is also essential if the group wishes to have a babysitting service provided during the workshop and for those planning to stay overnight. Each workshop is limited to a certain number of participants in order to bring about a feeling of group participation and to allow each participant to get the most out of the workshop. Registrants will be notified of the exact time and place of the workshop they have chosen. Those who have not registered by July 1 will be accepted on a first come first served basis if there is room in the workshop they have chosen. Registrants in the afternoon session will be notified of the exact time and place of the session they have chosen.

New $20 bill leads series

On Monday, June 22, Canada's new $20 bank note became available to chartered banks at Bank of Canada Agencies across the country. The Bank of Canada said banks would distribute the new notes to their branches making it likely they would become available to the public in most centres in the course of the week.

The new note presents a contemporary portrait engraving of the Queen and makes use of a greater range of colour on both the front and back than does the present note. The steel engraved portions stand up more prominently to the touch than in the present $20 note.

The design and production of the new note are based on research in depth over a period of years and incorporates technical refinements from many sources These refinements were selected with a view to improving the security of the note and creating the maximum difficulty for the would-be counterfeiter.

The new $20 note will be followed by new notes of other denominations over a period of time. They will have a "family resemblance" to the $20 note although each will maintain the same denominational colour as the 1954 series.

The portrait of the Queen will appear on the $1 and $2 notes as well as on the $20 note. The $5 denomination will incorporate an engraving of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the $10 will feature a portrait of Sir John A. Macdonald. The $50 and $100 denominations will carry portraits of William Lyon Mackenzie King and Sir Robert Borden respectively.

The current $20 notes will not be withdrawn but will continue to circulate in the normal way until they are judged to be unfit for further use.

At present about 370 million notes of all denominations with a face value of about $3.1 billion are outstanding. This includes 67 million $20 notes with a face value of approximately $1,340 million.

Let's see. Two in the biplane and another three on the fence posts. That's five fast flyers. All this plus a speeding express train, a racing stagecoach and a hopped up Hupmobile. What's everybody's hurry? Heaven knows, in Lethbridge we take our own sweet time brewing the beer behind that lively label. Then we age it slowly and naturally. For a flavour that goes over great.

Rain delays the end of Powerline season

Rain has been the dominant feature in the Powerline Baseball League this year and the rain cancellations, teams not reporting results, or in one case reporting an incorrect schedule, which was supposed to end this week, will carry on for at least another week.

Three games are scheduled for either this evening or tomorrow, at the option of the teams involved, and then the teams must play seven games that were postponed because of the rainy weather. No dates have been released as to when these games will be played.

What with mix-ups due to rain cancellations, teams not reporting results, or in one case reporting an incorrect schedule, which was supposed to end this week, will carry on for at least another week, the unofficial standings to date, from the results that we have received, are:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Ryley	6	1	0	12
Viking	5	1	0	10
Tofield	4	2	0	8
Camrose	3	4	0	6
Bardo	2	5	0	4

Contest offers prizes for 'Dirtiest Picture'

A province-wide "Dirty Pictures" contest to illustrate pollution problems in Alberta is being sponsored by S.T.O.P. (Save Tomorrow Oppose Pollution) this summer, to gather pictorial proof of some of the environmental problems here in Alberta.

Contest entries can be conveyed with any type of pollution. A black plume of smoke, debris passing through the mouth of a river, even empty bottles along the highway.

The contest will be province-wide. Anyone is eligible to enter, with photos showing environmental problems (such as water and air pollution) within the boundaries of Alberta. All entries must be submitted by mail to: Dirty Picture Contest, Box 1633, Edmonton 15, not later than midnight, September 11.

Only "still" pictures will be considered. Slides, movies, literature, and other art forms will not be considered in the final judging.

A new semi-dwarf red spring wheat for growing in northcentral Shales has been released by the United States Department of Agriculture. Named Fielder, the new variety has growth and disease resistance advantages.

Less than ten per cent of that province's intended crop acreage had been seeded by June 3.

The share of synthetic fibers in the total materials used by the world textile industry rose to 33 per cent in 1969 from 30.5 per cent in 1968.

THANK YOU

Editor, The Mercury
Dear Sir

The Tofield Grade Nine classes would like to extend their appreciation to the people of the Tofield community who generously gave up their time to allow us to interview them.

I am sure that we have all learned a great deal from hearing and recording their experiences. We hope that these people will feel that the time they devoted to helping us was not wasted.

One group of interviews has been published in The Mercury and another series has been incorporated into a booklet, copies of which are being sent to those who supplied the material for it.

Yours truly,
Lorna McMann.

SNERD REBUFFED

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir:

I would like to answer the letter written by "Mortimer Snerd" in last week's paper.

If there is any group in our town that should take interest in what Town Council is doing, it is the young people. These are the citizens of tomorrow and decisions made now will greatly affect them.

I was their teacher this last year and guided the project on pollution which led to their visit to the council chambers. At no time did they criticize the councillors, but rather questioned them and offered suggestions based on their research.

In my two years here in Tofield, I have heard people state that there is a lack of communication between the school and the community. If this is so, it is because of people like our friend, Mortimer Snerd, who criticizes an attempt to get students involved with the community but lacks the intestinal fortitude to sign his own name.

P. von Stackelberg

Editor, The Mercury,
Sir

I feel compelled to reply to Mortimer Snerd for decrying the interest and enthusiasm shown by our youth.

Town business in public business and the Grade seven students who presented a report to Council on pollution are to be commended for their observations and investigations.

I am sure the members of council were in no way annoyed or angered by the remarks made by these students. Young people show that they are vitally concerned with the future of our town and we, as adults, should give them all the encouragement they deserve.

Will the real Mortimer Snerd please stand up?

Yours sincerely,
Lloyd Cribb,
Town Councillor

VOL. 53—No. 45—July 9th., 1970 $2.50 per Year, PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT TOFIELD, ALBERTA

Tofield re-schedules annual "Sports Day"

. . . seven groups combine

Saturday, July 18, has now been confirmed as the date of the re-scheduled Tofield Sports Day. Heavy rains forced the cancellation of Tofield's annual July 1st celebrations.

The sports day will remain much the same, but will be under new management as seven local organizations teamed together to take over the day from the Tofield Community Leisure. These clubs span seven are the Tofield and District Chamber of Commerce, the Tofield Senior Hockey Club, the Tofield Ball Club, the Beaverhills Light Horse Club, the Tofield 4-H Beef Club, the Tofield Lions, and the Tofield Curling Club.

The gala festivities will kick off with a giant parade shortly after 11:00 a.m. Entries for the parade will be taken right up until parade time. Prizes will be awarded in the following categories: commercial, organization, decorated car, comical, bicycle, children's novelty, and adult novelty.

Ball games have always high lighted Tofield Sports Days, and the 18th won't be any exception. Men's senior baseball, ladies' fastball and junior baseball will keep all the ball diamonds busy.

Arne Novelly will be here with rides and games for the entire family . . . probably one of the best shows they have ever brought to Tofield.

A new and very interesting event will be the Gymkhana presented by the Beaverhills Light Horse Club. Over fifty horses and riders will present colorful precision rides and competitions.

Towards evening the barbecue will be under the direction of Vince Bates, with arrangements being made by the Tofield Lions.

The Tofield Historical Society will also present their display of photos and antiques of Tofield's history.

And to rap up a hectic day the "Grand Ball" will be held in the Tofield Community Centre.

All proceeds from the day will go to the Tofield Covered Arena building fund.

Teachers honored before departure

by Grace Phillips

In honor of several teachers who have been with the Tofield School staff for some time, a farewell tea was held at the home of Mrs. Marjory Evertt just prior to the closing of school for the holidays.

On behalf of the staff, presentations were made to Lloyd and Doreen Cribb by Florence Ingram, to Eleanor Campbell by Jean Sears, to Paul Koziel by Grace Phillips. Floyd Irwin presented Ted Whyte with a wedding gift with the best wishes of the staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Cribb have been on the Tofield staff for six years, and are leaving for Sherwood Park; Mrs. Campbell, in Tofield for seven years, is moving to Ryley to become school librarian; Mr. Koziel, after four years in Tofield, is leaving for Barrhead.

The last day of school, at an informal gathering, Mr. Ron Taylor, president of the Tofield sub-local of the A.T.A., presented souvenir spoons to all the teachers leaving the Tofield staff.

Those receiving the mementos of Tofield were Mrs. Gail Booth, Mrs. Doreen Cribb, Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, Mrs. A. Sadig, Mr. Paul Koziel, Mr. Lloyd Cribb and Mr. Sabar Bhat. Miss Linda Hafso was presented with her souvenir before she left for New Guinea, where she will be teaching in a mission school of the Lutheran Church.

Ryley, Viking tied for Powerline lead

Bardo will be in Round Hill tonight in one of three remaining games in the Powerline Baseball League. Two other games, Tofield at Bardo and Tofield at Camrose, will be played next week.

In games played during the past week, Bardo outslugged Camrose 15-13, as Rich Fosbang picked up the win and hit two home runs, one with a mate aboard in the bottom of the seventh inning to win the game.

Viking walloped Round Hill 9-3 as Gabe Brainard picked up the victory, as he set the losers to their ninth straight loss of the season.

Viking then trounced Tofield 5-1, with Harold Hurschak picking up the win while Ed Wilkens was tagged with the loss.

Ryley will be playing Viking next week, and the winner will gain sole possession of first place as the two teams are now deadlocked with identical 8-1 records.

Bigger and better peonies

After The Mercury printed the picture of a peony two weeks ago with 18 blooms on it, several reports of much larger plants have come in. The picture above shows a plant owned by June Vanderberg at Wheatcroft, which carried 102 buds three weeks ago, and still had 53 full flowers on it June 21st.

Two students tied for Melnyk Award

by Grace Phillips

Lois Koop and Robert Schachter tied for the annual Melnyk award given in the Tofield Junior High for the best all-round Grade Nine student for the 1969-1970 school year.

The award is based on ability in sports, sportsmanship, leadership, academic achievement and conduct. On all counts, Lois and Robert are well qualified. Both are outstanding students, both are active in sports, both have shown leadership in student affairs and both are very fine young citizens of this community.

Lois was the captain of the Junior High girls' basketball team, and captain of the Grade Nine girls' softball team. She has been the secretary of the Big 3. When she has completed her high school, Lois intends to become an elementary school teacher.

Robert was this year's captain of the Junior High boys' basketball team and captain of the Grade Nine boys' softball team. He has been, this past year, president of the Big 3. He has also been vice-president of the Luther League of the Lutheran Church. He intends to enter the field of inorganic science after completing his high school education.

Due to the present condition of the mail service, the Melnyk award cups did not arrive for presentation, but they will be presented to the two winners in the fall.

UNAUTHORIZED ADVICE

Box 81, Tofield, Alta.,
June 30, 1970.

Editor, The Mercury.
Dear Sir:

Re. article from June 30 "Mailbag" . . . Let's get things straight. It is not only Grade Seven students with serried heads; we have, and have had quite a lot of unauthorized advice among all ages, especially 20-year-olds, or at least around that, that give very little, if any, respect to individuals that have been on this earth a decade before them. How about some thought on this first. If you come out of university, my friend, you have to get experience, and that has to be tackled very gently, otherwise the public will not buy your qualifications - why should they, when you can get an older person.

It is not likely that too many from the upright that fear God will slide into this undesirable groove before the end of time, simply because there is so little of it left, and they know that "a fool has only one step to take that an angel would fear, and that is hell". Jesus said (Luke 4:8): "Get thee behind me, Satan"; not in front, and he moved, neither does his elect here on earth need light for a path by a force.

Another thing, what women needs to be told whether she should be bond or not bond by a husband, especially when it comes to ministerial advice. Have we not a law of the land, and more so, a heavenly law, the Bible? Well, maybe some haven't. It looks tragic to me; and I also fear that some people would like to lay things out for God in the line of His purpose for mankind as individuals. I Cor. 7. One has to be very ignorant not to see if a woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be not pleased to dwell with her, let her leave him, a sinner is not under bondage in such cases)

We in Canada have also freedom of religion and can worship God through whatever religion we wish, and can contribute also to our desires. Not only is this a "Human Right" but a Biblical right. II Cor. 9:6, "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give".

I don't want to go into further detail, but if individuals strived to make plans according to God's will in their conscience, you would soon take your neighbour as yourself and be satisfied.

Yours effectively,
Anti-Mortimer.

MORTIMER REPLIES

Tofield, July 6.

P. von Stackelberg, Esq.,
Lloyd Crisis, Esq.,
& Tofield Mercury.
Dear Sirs:

This is in reply to your letters which appeared in The Tofield Mercury dated July 2.

There is always two sides to a question. If there is a lack of communication between the school and community, it works both ways. We are all interested in pollution, garbage, paved streets, etc.

Would you gentlemen please explain how these projects are going to be financed, and by whom?

That is where the Councillors and Taxpayers come in.

There is a time and place for everything. Another few years in school would benefit the students before presenting a brief to the Councillors. The students will find out (the hard way) that telling the Boss how to run his business won't work.

I stand to be corrected.
"So, Hallelujah I'm a Bum".
As ever,
Mortimer.

THANK YOU

Tofield, July 3.

Dear Sir:

A letter received from Mr. Wheelock, district secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, follows:

Thank you for your letter of June 12 enclosing contribution of $189.70, proceeds of the canvass made in Tofield for the work of the Canadian Bible Society.

We are especially grateful to the eight canvassers who went out to meet the public in the interest of this great cause.

World distribution has more than trebled in the states, and in 1969 totalled more than 145 million copies in 176 countries. Our own distribution of scriptures here in the South Alberta District has more than doubled

Black Powder Shoot proves big success

The Tofield Gun Club held their annual Black Powder shoot at the club range on Sunday, July 12. About 50 shooters attend, competing for the trophies awarded. They came from points as far away as Hinton, Bluffton, and a strong contingent from Saskatoon, numbering nine shooters.

A large number of spectators were on hand to watch, as the old guns roared and belched clouds of foul smelling smoke. Many of the guns were nearing the century mark in age, and quite a few of the muzzle loading variety were hand-crafted replicas of antiques, which have become too valuable to shoot. These replicas are built by shooters, using whatever tools are available to them and often consuming hundreds of man hours of time in construction.

Winners in the various events follow:

100-yard (any ignition bench rest): 1, I. Babiitz, Bruce; 2, Mrs. Jenny Werner, Bluffton; 3, J. Hutchison, Sherwood Park

100-yard muzzle loading rifle): - 1, Dale Lose, Saskatoon; 2, Don Hardy, Tofield; 3, M. Albert, Saskatoon.

Traditional M.L. Event (total string measure from center)— 1, Stan Kurowda, Saskatoon; 2, M. Albert, Saskatoon; 3, R. Brokenshire, Saskatoon.

50-yard Offhand Cartridge Rifle—1, Gordon Garford, Tofield; 2, Orest Stefiuryn, North Cooking Lake.

Muzzle Loading Pistol — 1, Bob Hackman, Hinton; 2, Paul Puog, Edmonton; 3, Warren Werner, Bluffton.

Cartridge Pistol — 1, Paul Puog, Edmonton; 2, J. Hutchison, Sherwood Park; 3, L. Wilson, Tofield.

Cartridge Shotgun—1, Orest Stefiuryn; 2, Cliff Giles, Camrose; 3, Gorden Jorgensen, Camrose

Muzzle Loading Shotgun—1, Dick Warner, Edmonton; 2, Bob Harries, Leduc; 3, Glenn Reil, Tofield.

Best Group of the day was shot by I. Babiitz, Bruce.

Best shot of the day went to Al Warner, Tofield.

John Hutchinson won the Aggregate trophy with 12 points on a scale that gave from 5 to 1 point for placing from 1st to 5th in each event.

The Stake Shoot, which is always the best crowd-pleaser of the day, ended the shooting. In this event, each team of four shooters attempts to cut off a 2x2 stake at 40 yards before any other team can get theirs down. This year's winners were the same team that won last year, consisting of Bob Harries, Leduc, Alex Podkorytka, Ryley, and Dick Warner and Arnold Mjantveit of Edmonton.

The club members were very pleased with the turnout of both shooters and spectators, and as the interest in this sport seems to be growing each year, they are considering the possibility of a two-day shoot for the future.

Tofield clinches third in Powerline League

Only one game was played in the Powerline Baseball League during the past week, as the weatherman once again interfered with the schedule.

Tofield bombed Bardo 10-2 to assure themselves of a third place finish in the standings. Ed Williams was credited with the victory, while Rich Forhaug was tagged with the loss. Bob Forhaug of the losers hit a home run. The loss left Bardo in a tie for fourth place with Camrose, with each team having one game left.

The regular schedule is supposed to finish this evening, with three games on tap: Viking at Ryley, Bardo at Round Hill and Tofield at Camrose. The playoffs are supposed to start next week and, presumably, teams tied for any position must play a sudden-death game before the opening playoff games.

League Standings:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Ryley	8	1	0	16
Viking	8	1	0	16
Tofield	5	4	0	10
Bardo	3	6	0	6
Camrose	3	6	0	6
Round Hill	3	6	0	6

Tofield Sports Day set for Saturday

Tofield's annual Sports Day, originally scheduled for July 11, but cancelled because of heavy rain, will be held this Saturday with a full day of attractions to please young and old alike.

All proceeds made at Saturday's Sports Day will go to the Tofield Covered Arena building fund.

Ordinarily the Sports Day is a project of the Community League, but the League decided to cancel the day this year when they couldn't hold it July 1. As a result, seven community organizations have banded together to make Tofield's Sports Day a reality.

This year's sponsors are Tofield and District Chamber of Commerce, Tofield Senior Hockey Club, Tofield Ball Club, Beaver Hills Light Horse Association, Tofield 4-H Beef Club, Tofield Lions and the Tofield Curling Club.

The big day will start with a giant parade, beginning near the railway tracks at 11:00 a.m., then up Main Street and preceeding to the Fairgrounds, south of the Village.

Entries for the parade will be taken until the parade actually starts. Various competitions stories the size of golf balls and a deluge of rain, many crops in that area are totally destroyed.

Buildings were damaged, roofs lifted off barns and other buildings, one family having their house moved off the foundation, the roof and walls badly damaged, being a total loss. Windows were smashed and the trees barked and all the leaves hailed off.

Several of the farmers were still chopping ice drifts Monday morning from the sides of buildings. Windows in a church in the district were broken, both west, and blown through to the east side of the church, with the roof a total loss.

The same storm also struck Viking, where damage estimated at around two million dollars was done to the town and district.

Mrs. Ruth Davies—

We motored to Viking on Sunday to see the damage caused by a violent hail and wind storm that struck the town Saturday night.

It was the most pitiful sight you can imagine. If you didn't see it, you would never understand what these people had facing them. We are very sorry for what's happened.

The crowd that ventured in to Viking on Sunday to see the sights was terrific — it was bumper to bumper nearly all day through the streets. (Nature can play a big field in such a short time when it strikes).

Writers view nature's storm

Mrs. G. H. Taylor—

A very disastrous electrical, hail and wind storm struck the south Holden district, Saturday evening, about nine miles south of the Village.

With strong gale winds of over 70 miles an hour and hailstones the size of golf balls and a deluge of rain, many crops in that area are totally destroyed.

Buildings were damaged, roofs lifted off barns and other buildings, one family having their house moved off the foundation, the roof and walls badly damaged, being a total loss. Windows were smashed and the trees barked and all the leaves hailed off.

Lessons to be learned

Canada finds itself in a difficult position as it tries to move into the age of communications satellite, and just possibly some of our chickens are coming home to roost. Communications Minister Eric Kierans and the government find themselves in the awkward position of having a firm bid from Hughes Aircraft of California of $20,000,000 to build the satellite equipment needed to launch Telesat, which is a communications system encompassing government, industry and the public.

The Hughes bid is more than ten million dollars cheaper than the estimate from RCA of Montreal, and so far the latter firm has come up with only one firm bid, which is almost exactly double the Hughes bid.

The government is embarrassed, however, because in the RCA case, roughly two thirds of the components would be Canadian, while in the Hughes case only about twelve percent of the cost of the contents would be Canadian.

As taxpayers, its mighty hard for many of us to see millions upon millions of dollars poured into projects simply to keep them Canadian, yet the lessons of the Avro Arrow, or HARP, and several similar projects would tend to indicate that if we had been willing to pay the price in earlier years to develop Canadian teams with high level expertise, we would not now be faced with such an unjustifiable discrepancy.

This may not be the time, having regard to such a huge disparity in costs, to start developing this expertise among Canadians. On the other hand, measured in terms of its contributions to Canadian employment, the abatement of unemployment, the reduction of Unemployment Insurance benefit payments, the increase which would result in income tax payments and the shot in the arm to the Canadian economy generally in contrast at the expense of our own, the additional cost might in reality turn out to helping only the American economy to be very small indeed.

May never recover

There is growing fear that the Post Office will never recover from the damage of this summer's constant rotating strikes, writes Clive Baxter, who heads the Ottawa bureau of The Financial Post. A frustrated bystander as the Treasury Board and postal unions continue to lock horns, Postmaster Eric Kierans sits in his office studying ever-mounting figures of the damage being done.

Our average daily volume is down 22% from last year' says Mr Kierans. That means we are losing customers steadily, and many of them just aren't going to come back. The bigger companies that use second, third and fourth-class mail are finding their better ways to distribute their materials. It is only the small man the small Post Office customer who is really being hurt.

This latter comment may not altogether correct, for some of the "other, better ways" Mr. Kierans refers are also much more expensive. However, they're also much more reliable.

The most recent mail volume for the main centres for the week from June 28th to July 4th show Montreal volume down 194, from the same week a year earlier, Ottawa down 463, Toronto off 41%, Winnipeg down 52%, and Vancouver down 50%.

If this keeps up, there won't be any point to the unions' arguments over job security, the jobs will simply disappear. However, the real-ly big loss to the Post Office isn't just the immediate figures, with their consequent loss of revenue. The long run, the major loss will have been the loss of confidence people have in the postal service. The traffic may be developed again, but the confidence will take years [illegible] never would be

by H. P. Clouston

How often have men stood on the verge of the promised land and seen, near and tantalizing, the country of their dreams, only to be driven back again to the thirst and hunger of the wilderness! How often have they entered it for a brief period and then lost it by their follies and crimes! Why is it that in times of economic stress education is the first to suffer, and in times of economic boom it is the last to get a lift? The schools have been designed to serve society's needs. The political order depends on responsible participation and support of individual citizens whose thoughts about school are often colored by what is happening in the community, in the province and in the dominion.

The dawn of the '60's brought about a period of questioning and criticism, including criticism of the schools. Some critics had a field day lambasting the schools, charging that they were soft, lacked discipline, didn't teach the right things, and even were responsible for the drug abuse – all this was the fault of some sinister species called "educationists". The schools were made to appear responsible for everything that was wrong with the Canadian society, from bad manners to juvenile delinquency, the high suicide rate, and the popularity of certain TV shows. Beaver Council meets

Following are the minutes, in part, of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9, held Friday, June 19:

Present were: Crs. Bassard, Gibson, Johnston, Knudsden, Roddick and Sears.

The meeting was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Reeve, Cr. Roddick.

It was moved and carried that the minutes of the meeting on May 14 be accepted.

Cr. Roddick advised that a new administrator was starting to work at the Viking Hospital on June 24. He also mentioned that an application for certain laundry equipment had been refused by the Department of Health.

Cr. Sears mentioned that part of the 1969 deficit of the Tofield Hospital District had been paid by the Department of Health. They had received the sum of $8,000 on this deficit.

Correspondence from the Manager of Real Estate for the Canadian National Railways advised that the C.N.R. was not prepared to accept our offer of $180.00 for the property the company owns in the Hamlet of Torlea. The report recommended that, instead of the $100.00 per acre they had originally asked for, the Manager of the Real Estate Office of the C.N.R. would be prepared to recommend a price of $300 per acre be accepted by his company.

Moved and carried that we advise Canadian National Railways that we will pay up to $50.00 per acre for the 6.47 acres in the Hamlet of Torlea.

C. Knudsden reported on meeting which had been held in the County of Strathcona Office in regard to Mutual Fire Agreements. He said that he had presented the agreement which we presently have with the County of Flagstaff as a model to the meeting. Crs. Knudsden and Sears felt that an agreement with the County of Strathcona would be an advantage to our County.

Moved and carried that the report be accepted and that we agree in principle to an arrangement with the County of Strathcona for fire protection and that the boundaries be set by the councillors concerned.

The Secretary Treasurer advised that in regard to the lowering of the pipeline in Division 2, he had referred this matter to the Department of Mines and Minerals. The Department of Mines and Minerals has asked for a plan outlining the present situation and what we would like to see done with this line; that is the distance that it should be set back and the depth, and when this is done they will make an award as to the cost allocation between the County of Beaver and the Northwestern Utilities. This plan is presently being drawn up by Mr. John Ivoney of the Department of Highways at Viking and will be submitted as soon as received.

The Secretary Treasurer advised that after the calculations for supplementary requisition from powerlines and pipelines, the Viking Hospital requisition had been reduced from that reported in Minute 184 of the May 14 meeting. The present requisition is $3,867.00, lowered from $7,568.86.

Moved and carried that the Minute 184 be rescinded and that the Council approve the new requisition figure of $3,867.00 for the Viking Hospital District.

It was noted that in the Minutes of the May 14 meeting, the Council was authorized to purchase a bunkhouse from the Big T Construction in Vegreville for $3,060.00 if it was acceptable. The figure had been acceptable and the bunkhouse had been purchased.

By-Law No. 313 was presented at this time for the purchase of the bunkhouse.

In regard to the cleaning of Amisk Creek, Cr. Knudsden reported that he had been in contact with the Engineer from the Water Resources Branch. He advised that they have no money to spend in 1970, but having checked the creek, they could see where it was necessary to clean part of it at least. They advised that they will check again later in the year to see what can be done with this project.

Correspondence from the Provincial Planning Department advised that an appeal had been heard in regard to the subdivision of Sect. 25-48-18-W4th. The request had been to establish [illegible] Plan [illegible] Lot [illegible] Block [illegible] Plan [illegible] Lot [illegible] Block [illegible] Plan [illegible] Lot [illegible] Block

Fleming-Thibeault vows exchanged in Cranbrook

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized recently at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Cranbrook, B.C. when Junette, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs Harvey Thibeault became the bride of James Fleming, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Fleming of Holden. Father Casey, assisted by Father Magila, officiated at the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of organza with a short veil and carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses with lillies of the valley.

Miss Aline Leiborian, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mr. Julie Thibeault, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Both were identical gowns of yellow and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother Garth Fleming. The ushers were Jim Thibeault brother of the bride, and Wayne Fleming brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thibeault wore an ivory linen frock of yellow printed forget-me-not with white accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The mother of the groom wore for the occasion, a two-piece navy forget dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception and dance followed the ceremony.

The happy couple will reside in Edmonton where the groom is on the city of Edmonton police force and the bride is employed by the government.

Out-of-town guests were from Seattle, Swift Current, Ahtreud, Sask., Kelowna, Rutland Bhirmore, Lethbridge, Penna, Edmonton, Camrose and Holden.

Camrose for PC's policy conference

Camrose has been selected for a province-wide policy seminar for the Progressive Conservative association this fall. An estimated 200 delegates is expected to register for the two-day conference, which will be held October 3 and 4.

No site has yet been selected for the seminar, but it is expected arrangements will be forthcoming in the near future in this regard. Committee members are now busy making arrangements for accommodation for the delegates from a distance, working under Ed Shuman. It is thought that most delegates from the Edmonton area will travel to Camrose rather than taking accommodation.

Bardo Lutherans have 'anniversary' services

The Bardo Lutheran Congregation will celebrate its 75th anniversary with special services, from Friday to Sunday, July 24 to 26.

Services on Friday and Saturday will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday services will be conducted by Rev. Henry Haugen of Camrose and Rev. Gordon Hendrickson of Lomond, while Saturday's service will be conducted by Rev. S. Due of Narcisia, B.C.

Service on Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m., will be led by Rev Larry Riels of Saskatoon, while the afternoon service at 2:00 o'clock will be held by Rev. Albert Vinge of Vancouver, B.C.

The First Lutheran service was held at Bardo on November 3, 1901, conducted by the Rev. Bernard Anderson, and the Norden Lutheran Church was founded on May 25, 1905 with Martin Flaseth as chairman, and P. B. Anderson as secretary. Services were held in homes throughout the community until a schoolhouse was constructed in 1908, with services and regular gatherings being held in the school.

Members wanted their own church and finally, on land donated by Ashjorn Moen, construction on a church began. Men cut and sawed logs, finished lumber was obtained in Camrose and a contractor was hired to oversee construction. The Thimble Club provided an organ and Bernverd Anderson made the first altar and then, on August 6, 1908, the church was dedicated. That same year, at the annual meeting, the name Norden was changed to Bardo.

In 1921, the church was struck by lightning and was completely destroyed, with only the interior furnishings being saved. Although no insurance was carried, a new church was built and ready for use just a year after the fire. Lightning again struck on August 27, 1965 and the church was burned to the ground. Most of the furnishings were saved and services were held in the Community Hall at Tofield.

Rebuilding the church was never a question, but some wanted to move the church into Tofield while others preferred it to remain in Bardo. At a meeting on September 11, 1966, the congregation voted in favor of erecting the new church in Tofield. On May 28, 1968, ground-breaking ceremonies were held and construction was gotten underway. The new church was dedicated on November 19, 1967, and now, three years later, the costs of the new church have been completely defrayed.

Tofield, Camrose win in semi-finals

Tofield Lions and Camrose Cubs recorded victories in the opening games of the Power line Baseball League semi finals on Tuesday evening.

Tofield went over to Ryley and edged the Rebels 5-3 with Ed Williams getting credit for the victory while Bob Lyall was tagged with the loss. The second game in the best of three series will be played this evening (Thursday) in Tofield with the third game, if necessary, on Tuesday in Ryley.

Camrose hosted Viking on Tuesday and tripped the visitors 5-3 as Marv Swanson went the route for the win while Gabe Brisnard was charged with the loss. Originally, the game was to have been played in Viking. However, the Viking baseball diamond has not recovered from the recent heavy downfall of rain and the site was shifted. The second game in the series will be played in Viking on Tuesday and a third game, if needed, will be in Viking a week from today.

The regular schedule came to an end late last week as three postponed games were played. Viking took first place by virtue of a 2-1 victory over Ryley while Camrose moved into the playoffs as they blanked Tofield 12-0 while Bardo was losing to Round Hill by a score of 3-1.

Standings (final):

	W	L	T	Pts
Viking	9	1	0	18
Ryley	8	2	0	16
Tofield	5	5	0	10
Camrose	4	6	0	8
Bardo	3	7	0	6
Round Hill	1	9	0	2

Holden ladies attend the LWML convention

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Mrs. A. Hnatt, Mrs. M. Babiuk and Mrs. Helen Tiedemann have just returned from attending the 19th Biennial Convention of the ABC District of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League, held recently at Concordia College, Edmonton.

The convention opened with a communion service, Pastor Heinneman being the guest speaker and Pastor Thrienow officiating. Other speakers during the convention were Pastor Rode, Pastor Stahler, and Miss L. Williams.

Current issues of concern regarding drug legislation and abortion on demand were presented by individuals. No official action was taken, but delegates were encouraged to bring these issues to the attention of their local government representatives.

Mrs. A. Gintre as president and Mrs. E. Enders as first vice-president will continue in these offices for the remaining two years.

Newly elected are Mrs. A. Wilke, Edmonton, as second vice-pres.; Mrs. G. Ander, Surrey, B.C., treas.; Mrs. A. Kusch of Richmond, B.C., as recording secretary

Among project proposals presented to the convention the following were adopted:

1. Grants for ministerial students. Concordia College Edmonton — $2,000.
2. Zion Park Manor, Home for the Aged, Cloverdale, B.C. $2,000.
3. Grant toward the cost of operating the Lutheran Association of Missionary Pilots, L.A.M.P. — $2,500.
4. Grant for facilities and equipment at the Lutheran Youth camp, Camp Koinonia, Lake Isle, near Edmonton — $1,500.

Total registration was 160. Some 230 guests were in attendance at the banquet Wednesday evening, which featured a Klondike theme. The convention concluded with the installation of new officers by Pastor Thrienow.

Purse loser proves lucky

While driving by car to Camrose last Friday, Jos Kostiw, a customer at Round Hill, by sheer chance found a leather satchel on a road about a half mile west of Round Hill, containing about $500 in cash, $250 in cheques and a bank deposit book identifying its owner. Mr. Kostiw promptly returned the satchel with contents intact to its rightful owner, Mr. Jack Boychuk, hotel operator at Round Hill.

Mr. Boychuk had lost the satchel after placing it on the hood of his light delivery truck and then forgetting to put it inside the truck before leaving for Camrose to do his banking.

FLOWER ARRANGING

The fragrance and color of summer flowers inspire most novices to enjoy flowers indoors by arranging them into pretty bouquets.

Anyone can take a handful of sweet peas and jam them into a vase, but it takes a bit of skill, time and thought to make an attractive arrangement. Here are a few tips which may help you this summer.

1. Proportion: In relation to the container, the arrangement must be the right height, width and density. For example, pansies look silly perched in a tall slim vase. On the other hand, a long stemmed rose looks right in a tall, slim vase but not in a short squat one. A tall vase needs flowers that are 1½ to 2 times its height. A low container needs flowers that are 1½ to 2 times its diameter.

The weight of the vase should seem to correspond. A heavy vase is appropriate for gladiolus while a slim thin glass one is better for asters bouquets.

2. Balance is another essential part of the finished look. Work from all sides. Don't push yourself for example, a rather large flower needs to be placing here and there.

3. Contrast: Smooth to rough petals, glossy to velvety, brown to gay, are ready for contrast.

Colors are pleasing to work with especially if small flowers are used. Different types of flowers, such as daisies, roses, carnations, also seem very elegant and lounge gives the final touch. Flower arranging takes

- Nearly one thousand dollars will be added to the Tofield Covered Arena Fund, following the holding of a successful Sports Day on Sunday July 19th.

The Sports Day had been sponsored by seven community organizations, after the regular Sports Day, usually held on July 1st, had been rained following unusually heavy rains.

Officials estimate that, after all expenses are paid, approximately $850 will be deposited in the Covered Arena Fund officials estimated that about 500 persons attended the Sports Day. Both totals are higher than had been anticipated.

- Ambyopia tests are scheduled

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are pleased to announce a new community service program the screening of the eyes of pre-school children for Ambliopia.

Ambliopia sometimes referred to as "Lazy Eye", is the result of the two eyes not developing at the same rate. If detected prior to school age, this condition can usually be corrected with professional care. If not detected until an older age, correction is much more difficult.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs have acquired a testing machine called a Remote Control InstaLine chart and will test the eyes of four and five year old children of the community. The reports of those requiring professional care will be mailed away to the local Public Health Office.

Tests made to date indicate up to 3% of the children require professional care for the treatment for other eye diseases or weaknesses.

This Community Project has the approval of the Provincial Department of Health.

The Eye-Screening Survey for this Community has been arranged at:

Ryley, August 1, 3, 8, 9 a.m. to 12, 1-4:30 p.m. at Ryley School.

Tofield, August 7, 10, 11, 9 a.m. to 12, 1 to 4:30 p.m., at Tofield School.

Parents are invited to bring their four and five year old children at that time.

Lions eliminate Rebels in league semi-finals

Tofield Lions eliminated the powerful Ryley Rebels from further competition in the Powerline Baseball League by winning their semi-final series in straight games. Tofield had won the first game in Ryley by a score of 5-3 and then swept the series with an 8-2 victory in Tofield on Thursday evening as southpaw Jerry Everitt tossed a mean two-hitter.

Blaine Tesio was charged with the loss, and he had relief help from Dan O'Brien late in the contest. Tofield will now meet the winner of the Viking-Camrose series for the league championship. Camrose currently leads that series 1-0 following a 5-3 triumph in the first game played in Camrose. The second game has been postponed twice because of wet grounds in Viking. It is tentatively scheduled for this evening. If a third game is necessary, it will be played on Tuesday. If Viking wins the series, it will be played in Tofield.

If the first game will be played in Viking. However, should Camrose win, the first game

"REPLY"

July 29 Tofield

Dear Sir

I am replying to the last paragraph in your article regarding the results of the Tofield Sports Day in the July 23rd 1970 issue of The Mercury.

That paragraph reads: Results of these events were not available because our correspondent was away and no representative was detailed to contact the grounds unless he paid the admission fee.

As I was responsible for gate admissions, I would like to make the comment and outline the facts that the gate receipts were handed to the supervisor. These sports days

It has always been the case that the executive pays the gate expenses of the visiting teams and officials. For the past several years this has been done on the basis of paying the expenses of the visiting team and officials and the balance of the gate receipts is then given to the sponsoring organization. This was done in the case of the Tofield Sports Day.

Tofield male nurse writes nursing poems

A retired male nurse, L. R. Ashton of Tofield, nearing his 70th birthday, wrote two poems recently after reading Dr Jeanne Quinn's address at the annual Alberta Association of Registered Nurses convention in Edmonton.

Mr. Ashton is retired and is presently convalescing from a severe cardiac condition. His poems follow.

NURSE

A virtue of patience in a robe of white her cap a symbol of grace,
A perfection of knowledge in bedside care—
are the ethics for a nurse to embrace.

The simple things of life to her she adds to science and skill,
For they she knows will aid the sick—and encourage her patients will

Pain she encounters with statue-like poise,
but responds with heart and mind,
And reveals by touch a human heart—
with hands both true and kind.

Though proficient with a surgical crisis
She reveals her effeminate charm
And responds to an emergency summons—with an air of poise and calm.

There are moments when she is weary and times when duty palls,
But then like the master physician she obeys the need that calls.

PATIENTS FACING DEATH

I have no fear of death dear Lord
Its only a walk for me, just a step from faith to glorious hope then a rest forever with Thee . . .

Convey dear Lord to those I love this message of comfort and cheer, that they from faith can claim my hope—when death in life draws near . . .

Though the valley of death is apparent simple blessings are the favors I request, above all while my life continues—give me courage to meet every test . . .

(Mrs. Jim Roddick)

MINISTIK — After a very busy, but rewarding week spent at a youth camp as a counsellor at Hardisty Lake, David Moddle was back in his place as student minister at the United Church. On the Sunday morning following camp he was guest minister at the Hardisty United Church. In the evening he conducted the service in the Amisk United Church which his father from Montreal, had founded in 1952 when he was stationed in Alberta that year. This was a great honor for David and he was pleased to have had this opportunity.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Penrice were Sunday guests of Gloria's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith of Fort Saskatchewan.

Several of the younger set enjoyed the rock festival and Cub-Am car races on Saturday afternoon.

Schiiler - Mitchell vows exchanged in Edmonton

St Anthony's Roman Catholic Church in Edmonton was the scene of a beautiful spring wedding on June 6, 1970 United in marriage were Judith Marie Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Mitchell of Tofield, and Andrew Nelson Schiiler of Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs Nels Schiiler of Peachland, B.C. Father D. G. MacDonald officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was radiant in a floor-length, Empire style gown of white peau de soie. The fitted gown featured a cowled neckline and Empire waist trimmed with French lace, the skirt flowing into a chapel-length train. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil was held in place with a seed pearl flowerette headpiece. Her bouquet was of cascading pink rosebuds centered with two white and mauve orchids, and mauve lace.

Attending the bride were Mrs. JoAnne Cheyll of Edmonton, cousin of the bride; Mrs Dorothy Galpin of Vancouver, B.C., a friend, Miss Mary-Anne McLeod of Lindbrook, Alta., niece of the bride, and Miss Heather Schiiler of Peachland, B.C. sister of the groom. The attendants all wore identical, floor-length Empire line dresses of deep purple Fantasia crepe trimmed in mauve velvet. Their headpieces were pink and mauve flowerettes and they carried bouquets of white gladiolus centered with mauve ribbons.

Jackie McLeod, niece of the bride, was the flower girl She wore a short frock of white eyelet, trimmed with purple, and carried a basket of white and mauve mums.

Attending the groom were Mr Bruce Crouse of Lunenburg County, Nova Scotia, Mr Rod Erickson of Edmonton, Mr. Rod Galpin of Vancouver, B.C., and Mr. Glenn Schiiler, brother of the groom, of Peachland, B.C. Ushers were Mr Edward Cheyll and Brian MacLeod of Edmonton.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mitchell chose a mint green ensemble with white accessories en corsage of pink roses. Mrs Schiiler, mother of the groom, wore a mauve Forrest dress, white accessories en corsage of pink roses.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the King Edward Community Centre. A 3-tiered round wedding cake, decorated with pink roses and silver leaves, centered the head table. It was flanked by pink candles and mauve lilacs. Mr Arnold Brunner, cousin of the bride, was master of ceremonies. Mr. Gordon Kyle proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

The couple left for their honeymoon to points in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta. The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver, B.C., where both are employed.

Distant guests and relatives came from California, Nova Scotia, and British Columbia.

MEMBER, THE ORDER OF THE GOLDEN RULE

SERVICE TO JUVENILE DELINQUENTS

Effective immediately, responsibility for services to juvenile delinquents in the Province of Alberta, including both juvenile probation and the care of juveniles held in custody, has been transferred from the Department of the Alberta Attorney-General to the Department of Social Development.

This important change will allow a great deal of flexibility in the treatment and rehabilitation of juvenile offenders. A wide variety of expanded resources; foster homes, group homes, a range of treatment settings and other programs will be accessible to young people in trouble. All these facilities are designed to assist young people and families to best insure individual development and reintegration into society.

It is the intention of the Department of Social Development to request community support and community involvement in the prevention and treatment of juvenile delinquency. The Department believes that delinquency results from a variety of personal, social, economic and circumstantial factors, and that individual citizens and communities must be active in correcting situations which encourage delinquency. Volunteers of all kinds, from a service club working on a special project to an interested individual concerned with a specific juvenile, will be solicited and utilized.

While the Department can provide basic resources, "people development" is not a task the government can perform alone. With the help and co-operation of the people of Alberta, the churches, business and industry, voluntary and private organizations and agencies, we hope to establish a more effective route back into the mainstream of society for young people in trouble with the law.

Hon. Raymond A. Speaker, Minister
ALBERTA DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT.

Plebiscite on forage seed board sought

Unifarm President Paul Bailey says he is hopeful steps can be taken toward an early plebiscite of an Alberta Forage Seed Marketing Board Plan.

Mr. Bailey said he appreciated the fact that the plan could not become operative until it had been approved by a majority or registered producers. It must also represent a ratio factory volume of the product sold, he said.

"Uniform's definition of a producer is a grower who has sold forage seeds during the 1969-69 crop year or the 1968-69 crop year or both".

A "One thousand producers registered for the purpose of voting would be a fair number. They should represent 20 million pounds of product sold over the two-year period", the president said.

EDIT — USE — ALBERTA RAPESEED OIL

What type of vegetable oil are you using? Have you noticed that during the past two years or so a whole new range of oils are available? And did you know that these oils are produced right here in Alberta?

These new oils, which are becoming increasingly popular, are produced from rapeseed. As well, many of the well known brands of margarine, shortening and salad dressing are using rapeseed oils in their production. Here are some results of research done by the Canada Department of Agriculture on rapeseed oil to which you might be interested.

Cakes made with a high rapeseed shortening compare favorably with those made with those made with other shortenings.

There was no difference in pastry made with high rapeseed shortening and other types of shortening.

French salad dressing was made using soybean, rapeseed sunflower corn and peanut oil. No significant differences were found in the salad dressings.

Oils were rated on a 9 point scale according to flavor and blandness being considered most desirable. Following is the rating

Soybean 8, Rapeseed and sunflower 7, corn and peanut 6.

Frozen fowls fried in deep fried in rapeseed oil, sunflower, peanut oil, and corn oil. The panel found French fries cooked in oils to have better flavor than those fried in rapeseed oil. It is interesting to note that the order of preference was just reversed from the ratings given a few days blandness in other words the panelists preferred the fries fried in a more flavorful oil.

Comparisons were made between a soybean oil margarine and a rapeseed oil margarine. There was no difference between the margarines in flavour or "melt in the mouth"

The overall conclusion was "that edible oil products made using rapeseed oil sortenings, salad and cooking oils and margarine perform satisfactorily in typical household applications."

An important advantage of using rapeseed oil is that it is quite a bit less expensive than the other types of oils. As you can see from the research, price is no indication of quality in this case.

Unfortunately, the producers of rapeseed oil do not have it conspicuously labailed as such instead, you will find it labelled under one of the following brands names: "Burns Vegetable Oil", Burns Fred Limited; "Wesi Oil" Western Canada Seed Processors Limited "Capers Oil" Canada Packers Limited; "Colza Oil" Western Vinegars.

Rapeseed oil can be used in any recipe calling for vegetable oil. If you would like some new recipes using rapeseed oil contact this office for the pamphlet "Cooking with Rapeseed Oil".

Dirty water

Close to shore, last week, the waters of Miquelon Lake didn't look too appealing as they were filled with silt. It was evidently sand from the bottom which had been shaken up by heavy rains and was not considered a serious problem.

Ticket sales are slow for big $1,000 bingo

Ticket sales are reported to be slow for the Tofield Curling Club's giant bingo scheduled for the curling rink on August 21.

Bingo committee chairman Elmer Goeglein is urging all club members to make a strong appeal for sales within the next week so that all may sell their total allotment and make the fund-raising project a success.

Volunteers to help lay plywood on the floor on Wednesday evening are also being sought. Anyone interested can contact Stan Vollmer or Jack White.

Refreshments will be served during the intermission by ladies of the club and they are also looking for volunteers.

Total prize money being offered is $1,000 with a blackout game worth $500. In addition, a $50 door prize will be given to an advance ticket holder.

Tickets are available from any member of the club. Persons wanting to play pooey cards are asked to contact Irma Francis, Joyce Swift or John Wall. Proceeds from the bingo will be used to reduce the debt on the curling rink.

Viking to play Tofield

Viking Shamrocks and Tofield Twins will be meeting for the championship of the two straight triumphs to take Provincial baseball League following completion of the league finals.

A playoff of the game against Tuesday's game, in Viking. The Shamrocks edged the Lawsons Cubs in an exciting game to win two out of three series two games to one. Clam time had won the first game, but the Shamrocks rallied for the two straight triumphs to take the series and gain a berth in the league finals.

A playoff of the game against Tuesday's game, in Viking. The Shamrocks edged the Lawsons Cubs in an exciting game to win two out of three series two games to one. Clam was made available was not kept in proper state so that it was impossible to determine such things as hits walks or errors.

The first game in the finals was scheduled for Viking this evening, but weather conditions will probably force a postponement and the game will probably be rescheduled for Tuesday in Viking with the second game in Tofield on Thursday. If a third game is needed, it will be played in Viking.

Lehman - Smith vows exchanged June 26th

A beautiful wedding took place at the Camrose United Church on Friday, June 26th, uniting in marriage Carol Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Smith of Camrose and Mr. Murray James Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lehman of Ryley.

Spring bouquets made a lovely background for the double ring ceremony, performed by Rev. Harvey.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Woothams and soloist was Mrs. Verna Giles, who sang "Oh Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride was given in marriage by her father and mother in a gown of peau d' elegance featuring slim styling, the shirt draping slightly from soft gathers at the empire waistline. A heavy lace overlay accented the bodice and the same lace formed the long full sleeves which were gathered into deep cuffs. Her bouffant shoulder length veil was held in place by a dainty headpiece of clustered daisies, complimenting the daisy trim at the waistline of her dress. Her only jewellery consisted of a pair of tiny pearl earrings, a gift of the groom and a ruby ring, given to her by her mother.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white stephanotis, centred by two orchids which later formed her going away corsage.

Attendants were her sister, Miss Shirley Smith, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Shelly Wood and Mrs. Donna Gardeck. The bridesmaids wore identical floor length gowns of taffeta with chiffon overlay in the slender empire line. The bodice featured white lace in an all over daisy design. The high waist line and cuffs of the elbow length sleeves were accented by white daisy trim. They wore white accessories and carried bouquets of daisies. Daisies were sprinkled in their hair.

The little flower girl, Miss Connie Roth, cousin of the bride, wore a full length yellow dress and carried a basket of white daisies.

Mr. Grant Clyde was the best man and the groomsmen were Mr. Reg Durand and Mr. Barry Gardeck, all friends of the groom.

Ushers were Master Grant Smith, brother of the bride, and Master Maurice Lehman, brother of the groom.

The wedding table was laid with white tablecloths and centred by a round three - tiered wedding cake decorated in white with clusters of yellow roses and crystal pillars. Guest tables were centred by vases of daisies.

Master of ceremonies was Mr. Ken Oldham, a very close friend of the Smith family. He also proposed the toast to the bride.

Miss Judy Cartier, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Report from Parliament Hill

by Don Mazankowski, M.P.

Ottawa, July, 1970

Dear Friends

The Second Session of Canada's 28th Parliament drew to a close amidst a mood of uncertainty throughout Canada, with many Canadians voicing concern about its future not only economically, but socially and politically as well.

The fact the very last sitting day of Parliament was allotted to an emergency debate on the continuing deterioration of postal services, is situation which has developed under this Government, concedes the fact that a fundamental service which Canadians are entitled to can be disrupted by a Minister who would rather engage in confrontation than consultation and co-operation. The result of this finds postal services and labor relations at the lowest ebb in Canadian history. Today, Canadians are wondering whether a simple and effective postal service will ever again become a reality.

The unemployment situation which is at its highest level in more than ten years will cost the Canadian economy some $5 billion dollars in revenue and welfare payments this year and raises many questions amongst those who are out of work. Many are wondering why they are being asked to bear the major brunt of this Administration's war on inflation. Student unemployment remains at its highest level in years and they, too, are wondering about their job prospects upon completion of their studies.

Paradoxically, while the Government is engaged in a war of inflation through deliberation of unemployment it is on the other hand engaged in a program of social adjustment under the Department of Regional Economic Expansion which will be earmarked $231 Million to provide employment opportunities in various parts of Canada known as "Designated Regions". The major portion of these grants to date have been awarded to a number of new multi-international corporations which is landmount to an outright subsidization of foreign controlled industry. Furthermore, of the approximate $10 Million that has been allocated to date, an amount in excess of $20 Million has been awarded to the Province of Quebec Alberta has received approximately $2 Million. The region which is designated is the Lethbridge Medicine Hat area.

The Government's anti-inflation measures have had little effect on alleviating the situation which inflation has caused on many Canadians, but equally affect the...

...dustry which has rendered well. The Government has commenced action in both areas. A number of legislative measures were introduced in the area of pollution prevention, and while some corrective measures were dealt with, it seems that much more needs to be incorporated in this area. Both matters of prevention and correction will require considerable effort on the part of all Canadians. While industry and Government must shoulder its share of the responsibility, every individual Canadian will be called upon to do his part as well.

In the area of Drug Abuse a federal enquiry was launched under the Chairmanship of Professor Gerald LeDain wherein a detailed study into all aspects of drug abuse was undertaken. Just prior to the adjournment of the House, a 600-page interim report was tabled recommending lighter sentences for possession of all psychotropic drugs and suggests that a simple possession should be punishable upon summary conviction by a fine not to exceed $100. It points out the lack of sufficient medical and scientific evidence presently available and recommends an immediate undertaking into a comprehensive research and educational program relating to the causes and the long term effects of the uses of all psychotropic drugs.

It suggests that control of drug abuse should be made not by suppression, but by freedom of choice of the individual based on detailed and comprehensive knowledge. This principle, if applied, would have far reaching implications, many of which I suggest the majority of Canadians would not be prepared to accept. Nevertheless this recommendation, as well as other recommendations made in the Report, sets the stage for a widespread public debate. I am sure that through such a process we will all become more knowledgeable and informed on this most complex and difficult social problem and hopefully arrive at some sensible and practical solution.

This Session saw the introduction of many White Papers One, which will undoubtedly receive consideration in the ensuing session, is the White Paper dealing with the affairs of our Indian people. The federal Government's White Paper proposed a phasing out of the Indian Affairs Department, the result of which would undertake the assimilation of the Indian population into the rest of Canadian society. The Indians, by and large, have categorically rejected this principle on the grounds that it abrogates many of their rights and privileges presently entrenched under the terms of their Treaties and, more importantly, would eventually lead to the destruction of their culture.

This has resulted in the presentation of a Red Paper under the auspices of the Indian Association of Alberta entitled, "Citizens Plus", which was presented to Cabinet in early June. It, for all intents and purposes, rejects the White Paper and hence its future disposition is unknown at present. In any event, the Indian community is becoming more organized and determined to undertake and administer their own affairs. They want to do something about job opportunities, about the 97 per cent high school drop-out rate, about economic and social deprivation, and under the leadership of the young and capable Harold Cardinal they are prepared to make their voice heard offering creditable alternatives to the paternalistic programs which have for too long kept them out of the mainstream of our society.

This session also saw major amendments to Canada's Election Act, which, among other things, lowers the voting age to eighteen for all Canadian citizens, to become effective as of the next federal election. There are many other changes, very much too detailed to discuss in a report of this nature.

In the foregoing, I have attempted to touch on a few of the subjects which have been dealt with throughout the past session, and some of the important issues which we presently face. Personally, I have had a very busy session and look forward to a rather busy summer recess participating in some parliamentary committee work and visiting throughout the constituency. During the past session I have continued to serve on the Standing Committees of Public Accounts and Agriculture, and periodically on the Committees of Transport, and Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs.

I do appreciate receiving the many letters and want to assure you that I welcome your observations and comments, critical or otherwise. If you have any problems or questions which you would like to discuss with me personally during the recess, please do not hesitate to contact me. You may reach me by telephone at Vegreville, 632-2258.

Again many thanks for your interest. All the best for a good summer.

Yours sincerely,
Donald Mazankowski

MacDuff Ottawa report

$60 million to farmers

OTTAWA, Aug. 17 - The federal treasury has paid out to the producers of western grain $60 million in excess of the market value of the farmers' crops, during the crop year 1969-70.

Otto Lang, Minister without portfolio in charge of the Wheat Board, called a press conference recently to review the grain situation on the prairies.

He said that during the crop year ended July 31 the wheat, barley and oats pools for 1969-70 were closed. There was a $10 million loss for barley and a $12 million loss for oats.

The wheat pool account was closed on June 30. At the time of his press conference final accounting had not yet been completed but a government cost of approximately $30 million was finalized including a special payment on durum wheat.

While assuming this $60 million responsibility in support of the low grain producers, the Government of Canada has also paid a record $71.3 million under the Temporary Wheat Reserves Act and $18.1 million in interest to permit cash advances to be made available to producers interest free.

HIGHER SALES

Happily Mr. Lang is quite optimistic about the outlook for this year's crop. In Canada's crop exports would be more than 100 million bushels higher than last year. The total is expected to be about 400 million bushels, a substantial recovery but as yet only a step in the right direction.

Of the total exports, wheat and flour will amount to about 350 million bushels, only the increase over last year. Barley exports have shown an encouraging increase to some 90 million bushels, about four times last year's exports.

Rapeseed exports will reach about 22 million bushels, compared to last year's 11.2 million.

Current exports of rapeseed are the highest on record in Canada, and the prices being paid for rapeseed are higher than last year. The farmers who gambled and planted rapeseed last year are doing very well, thank you.

Other crops - flaxseed, rye and oats are some seven million bushels higher than last year's 30 million bushels.

However the most significant figure is the total grain exports would be more than that producers have had an opportunity to market this year. The early decision to limit the general quota to four bushels per seeded acre made possible the delivery of the more than 150 million bushels of barley required to meet Canada's expanded domestic and export sales.

FEAT OF RAILROADING

Mr. Lang paid tribute to the railways and elevator companies because, he said, over half of the deliveries in this crop year were made during the past four months. The railways and elevator companies have responded to the requirements of the Wheat Board by moving an average of over 20 million bushels of grain per week through the country elevators between and terminals during the last three months of the crop year. This action by Lift, which the government announced at the end of February, has proved successful in achieving the goal it was aimed at; that is, to reduce the wheat acreage planted this year. The program was designed to reduce the wheat surplus without creating a surplus in other crops. It was not the aim of the Lift Program to reduce in crops other than wheat but to accomplish the wheat acreage reduction without creating unacceptable pressures for increases acreage in other crops. The final determination of the wheat carryover at the end of the current crop year 1970-71 will depend on visible and final sales figures. It appears that

Let's get some action

Our own poll of public opinion, taken privately and at random, indicates a very rapid hardening of public opinion in recent days over the retailing strikes and lock-outs in the Post Office. This hardening may possibly be affected by the disappointment felt over the stepped up pace of action this week, when it was hoped that new proposals and counter proposals from each side would have brought — at least temporarily — an easing of tension.

To some extent, too, it is probably a result of frustration on the part of the public, frustration that the government for its part hasn't taken a sterner stand and in one way or another forced action, and frustration on the other hand that the unions have not been more willing to lower their sights more than they have indicated. Especially when the opportunity was given by a reasonably substantial increase in the government's position, good enough to permit the union to move to a compromise position if it really wanted to.

What's bothering a goodly number of people is this ridiculous on-again-off-again type of operation which makes it a gamble every time you try to mail a letter. The government is being blustered for ever permitting such a situation to develop in the first place: what private employer would accept such an unpredictable service from its staff, for instance? Everyone knows the answer. Any private business would shut down operations completely until it had a guarantee that it could deliver to the public what it undertook to deliver.

On the other hand, the union is being blistered for double talk and for being unreasonably greedy. Union officials try to maintain their posture that they do not want to harass the public yet it would be hard to think of any more effective way of achieving just that. Their whole strategy is being planned around obstruction and harassment.

Worse still as the fact that any settlement achieved in the present difficult situation will be only a temporary one at best, and in a couple of years we'll be back to facing the same upset and disturbance in the mail delivery situation.

So long as the right to strike exists, it seems to us, it doesn't matter a whit whether mail continues under the present federal department or is transformed into a crown corporation — neither will really be that much more certain than the other.

Mail may not be an essential service, but it's mighty close to being one, and should be treated the same as other services called essential. When you come right down to it, we don't need automobiles or trains or aeroplanes — we can always go back to the horse and wagon. Hospitals, police departments and so on aren't really essential, either, we can revert to the witch doctor, the vigilentes, the brass shots and the mud huts. But we don't want to. We want to maintain and improve on our present high flown standards of achievement, of technology, of science and development.

But it can't be done with a postal service which can't be depended on and which is all the more frustrating because it could so easily fill the need. It's time to get some real action from the government, whether it abolishes the present postal service, [illegible] some new method whereby [illegible] the union members back to work — [illegible] it takes away the right [illegible] unions in the public service [illegible] strike or whether it simply locks up all the post offices. The latter stands don't seem too unreasonable when it's considered that fully a quarter of the staff were on strike or laid off a few days ago and no service is effect[illegible]

The real problem

[illegible] a year Canada ever had in wheat [illegible] exporting, and we can't com[illegible] it [illegible] date about that.

[illegible] is 675 million bushels [illegible] is a full crop most years, and [illegible] we can't expect to sell more [illegible] than we gross year in and year [illegible] out.

Barley exports for the year [illegible] are already about 77 million bushels [illegible] look certain to beat the [illegible] average of the 1960's. So are wheat [illegible] flour as well as growing if, [illegible] and that's not to make a good [illegible] year. Besides wheat and barley, we are setting a new record for rapeseed production [illegible] and sales.

The spring of '69 was a good one for the cutthroats. No late snowstorm, no unusual loss of calves. Good luck remained through the fall, too and the feedlots had a chance to buy a lot of heavy calves at prices the rancher had dreamt about for ten years. So the cattle man had a good year, and kept back a few more heifers, and his good luck [illegible] this spring. The calves are all galloping [illegible] should cost in relation to their regulations on buildings. This amount is usually very close to the actual cost of construction and is the amount that the Department of Education will authorize to be paid out of general revenue of the province.

If the new building is done at less than the approved cost, then we can use up to $1.00 per square foot for furniture and equipment. If the cost is more than that approved, the overage has to be paid by local property taxation.

The method of reimbursement by the Provincial Government is by way of Provincial grant. The amount required to pay the approved school debentures is refunded to us in our Foundation Program Grants. By this method of financing, all approved school construction and renovations is paid out of general revenue of the province and is not reflected in the local property tax.

The Secretary-Treasurer advised that it may not be possible to obtain debenture funds for any school additions for 1970. This would mean that we would have to borrow subject to the approval of the Minister of Education, while awaiting debenture funds for the Viking School 20up addition.

Moved and carried that application be made to the Minister of Education for approval to borrow funds for the Viking School 20up addition.

Moved and carried that we advise Municipal Financing Corporation of the need for debenture funds for 1971.

Moved and carried that we engage the firm of Aberdeen, Groves and Hodgson for the Ryley and Tofield additions and renovations.

The Secretary-Treasurer advised that approval had been received for driver training instructor for Robert Lysik to instruct in the Tofield school.

A letter from the President of the Beaver Local A.T.A. advised that the teachers had discussed the proposals that had been approved at this meeting and there were a number of questions asked. In view of the questions, it was recommended by the Local that the section dealing with the school opening date would be acceptable at this time and the remainder be left until fall for discussion. They agreed to accept September 1st as opening date for schools and that this be an operational day but not an instructional day. School opening date, then, for the schools of the County of Beaver will be September 1st, 1970, for teachers and the pupils would attend starting September 2nd.

Moved and carried that the last appraisal for buildings of the County of Beaver was dated May, 1968, and as there has been very little increase in construction since that time, no appraisal be made at the present time; and that the amount of coverage for County-owned buildings be increased by 8%.

Moved and carried that we increase the coverage on the contents of the County-owned buildings to 15% of the insured value of the buildings.

The Committee recommendations on the proposals for an agreement between the Regional Recreation Board and the School Committee was discussed at this time.

Moved and carried that the suggested recommendations be accepted in principle by the School Committee and that copies be supplied to the Regional Recreation Board.

A letter from Mr. Peter von Stackelberg, Chairman of the Local A.T.A. Teachers' Bargaining Committee, indicated that they wish to suspend negotiations until the fall of 1970.

A letter from Jubilee Insurances in regard to our advice that we wish to cancel student accident insurance was read. This letter indicated that there were other benefits, besides those covered by Medicare, which are available.

A letter from the Grade Six Class of the Tofield School, advising that they appreciated the School Committee's actions in allowing the trip to Drumheller, was read.

There was some discussion on the taking over of contract bus routes by the School Committee, and the ages of all of the present contract bus units were discussed. As all of these buses are getting somewhat old, the newest being a 1964, the School Committee felt they should decide how long it will be before they would take over these routes. Some alternatives were suggested.

Moved and carried that this matter be tabled until the next meeting.

The School Committee was advised that there is a small portion in the Ryley School Yard which is part of Lot 19, Plan 17, C.L., that is still in the name of the Village of Ryley. As this is part of the school yard that is presently being used, it was suggested that the County should try to get title to this property.

Moved and carried that we advise the Village of Ryley that we wish to purchase this property for the sum of $1.00 plus the cost of registering the transfer.

It was moved and carried that the following appointments be made to the County of Beaver School Staff, with duties to commence September 1st, 1970: Mr. T. B. Albrecht, Holden, High School English; Mr. Samuel A. Hulkovich, Tofield, High School and Jr. High School English; Miss Marie Charbonneau, Bruce, Grades 5 and 6; Miss Patricia J. Conboy, Ryley, Jr. High School English.

Moved and carried that the School Committee approve the transfer of Mrs. Elizabeth Mertz to a position as teacher of a Grade Three Class at Viking.

Moved and carried that the

The Superintendent advised the there are two vacancies at the present time; one for Tofield Junior High School in English and Social Studies, and Tofield Junior High School Science. He advised that he has some applications for these positions at the present time.

Moved and carried that the School Committee approve the appointment of Mrs. Grace A. Phillips to the Secondary Language Arts Curriculum for the Province.

Three members of the Tofield Teachers' Union and three members of the Tofield Staff had drawn up a policy handbook for High School. This handbook was passed out to the School Committee members at this time for their perusal and possible recommendations on action for the next School Committee meeting.

The School Committee was informed that it is not practical for us to enter into an agreement with Alberta Government Telephones in regard to the leasing of television equipment for the 1970 -71 school term. The leasing arrangements are too costly. The School Committee was informed of the equipment which had been approved in the budget and which would be required this year.

Moved and carried that Cr. Reddick, Barry Wilkie, Marvin Bruce and Keith Robson be a committee to interview bursary students for the 1970-71 University Year.

The cost for Grade 7 and 8 had been priced at $8 000 and possibly, approx. $4,000 would be required for supplies and texts for Grade 11 This would be a total of $12,000, and may exceed the allotment which we had authorized for the purchase of textbooks for 1970.

Moved and carried that we go into the new curriculum in Grades 7, 8 and 11 Social Studies and that the necessary supplies and textbooks be purchased.

John Allen advised that there is a problem with water on the Viking School Grounds Cr. Reddick advised that he would get together with John Allen and look at this problem and see what can be done to alleviate it.

It was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn at 9:40p.m.

Helmig-Lund vows are exchanged in Camrose

The Camrose United Church was the setting for a lovely summer wedding on July 18, when Beverly Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lund of Ryley, became the bride of Morris Eugene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ari Helmig of Rosalind Officiating at the service was Rev. W. J. Huston.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of lace over satin, trimmed with seed pearls on neckline and sleeves, and topped by a satin and lace train. Her headpiece was a floral design with attachable veil For her bouquet, the bride chose pink roses, and she wore a gold locket, gift of the groom.

Her bridal attendants were Mrs. Norma Sears of Tofield, matron of honor, Miss Elaine Helmig of Forestburg, sister of the groom; Miss Irene Salanedyk of Edmonton, friend of the bride; and Miss Jennifer Zimmerman of Bruce, cousin of the bride. Their dresses were in mauve, blue, pink and yellow, in dotted sheer voile floor-length gowns with long sleeves. Their bouquets matched the color of their dresses, designed of roses. The girls wore tiaras in their hair.

The groom was attended by Laurie Sears of Tofield, Bob Rumble of Alliance, Wayne Helmig of Forestburg, brother of the groom, and John Monchak of Tofield

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lund chose a coat-dress ensemble in pink with white accessories, and a corsage of pink orchids. The groom's mother wore a coat-dress of powder blue fortrel with white accessories, completing her outfit with a corsage of white orchids.

The church was filled for this happy occasion, with wedding music played by the church organist.

Ushers were Garry Lund, cousin of the bride, and Eddy Turlick, cousin of the groom.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for 250 guests at the Camrose Lodge. The bride's table was centred with a lovely seven tiered wedding cake, which was made and decorated by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Albert Lund, of Grand Centre. The decorations carried through the Rose theme Jack Napp of Carlston, cousin of the groom, very capably handled the duties of master of ceremonies Mike Nisenas of Edmonton, great-uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to the bride, ably responded to by the groom A dance followed the reception

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a yellow long sleeve dress with a lace jacket, setting it off with yellow roses The bride and groom left for interesting points in British Columbia, and parts of the States. The couple will reside in Edmonton where they are both employed.

The bride's great-grandmother was the scene of attraction when she was presented for the wedding She will be 100 years old in December Guests were from Vancouver, Edmonton, Forestburg, Portertash Alliance, Carlston, and surrounding districts.

BOOZE-CRUISERS CAUSE MONY TROUBLE ON ROAD

The social drinker, says Ed Belitsky, editor of Canadian Automotive Trade, isn't the one who causes problems on the highways. "It's the hard-core, dedicated drunk", he says. A recent study of 1,000 drunken driving convictions showed that 25 per cent had a previous criminal record, 37.5 per cent had a record of previous arrests for drunkenness, and 25 per cent were driving while their licence was suspended or who didn't even have a licence.

Recreation Ramblings

by H. J. Hartwig

This week, I would like to make a few comments on regional development. As you know, there are six districts within the County of Beaver, all having representation through district recreation boards, to the Regional Recreation Board.

The local boards are run mainly primarily with the development of recreation facilities and programming within their particular district, and are generally only concerned with their particular area. Representatives from each district, but necessarily, but function all, preferable, from the local boards, attend and work as a Regional Recreation Board. This group is responsible for overall development of the entire county, including the towns and villages.

The keyword in the operation of this board is co-operation, especially in the development of major recreation facilities, e.g. swimming pools, arenas and larger recreation centres. As an example let us assume that, through the provincial capital grant program, we could have monies available for construction of our permanent swimming pool.

The first problem, apart from design of the pool, would be a decision by the Regional Board as to location. Let us further assume that, due to geographical reasons only that a decision is made to build the pool in Holden. This then means that the farthest that persons within county limits would have to travel is approximately twenty-five to thirty miles or approximately thirty to thirty five minutes.

This is, I believe, no further than residents of Edmonton would have to travel to attend any major facility in the city, and possibly less time.

Going back to the idea of co-operation, all district representatives on the Regional Board would have to work as one group to approve design, to agree on the final location, to approve the letting of contracts and the spending of the monies and to agree on the staffing of the pool. Persons living within the county will also be responsible for co-operation in the pool when they use the pool, regardless of distance. No one town or village is large enough to support a pool on its own; it will require that everyone make use of it, otherwise the costs of construction and operation make this facility a "white elephant".

Now, let us consider programming. Many recreation activities, e.g. woodworking, sewing, ceramics require certain facilities, facilities that are available only in certain areas. I am speaking particularly of the schools in Ryley and Viking and the industrial arts and home economics areas. There should be no hesitancy on the part of any county resident to travel ten to fifteen miles once a week, in order to participate in some worthwhile activity which interests them. Many of the activities are specialized to the point where persons from throughout the county will have to travel to a central location in order to have a class or program offered at a reasonable cost.

In closing, I would like to direct this remark at any and all service clubs, special interest groups, etc. I am willing to be available for any meetings of your organizations to explain any problems or to answer any questions that you may have on area of recreation.

A flip of the fee to the young people who are doing a great job in the play grounds, supervising programs. Go and meet them.

Intended for last week

On August 4, playgrounds in Viking, Bruce Holden, Ryley and Tofield began a supervised program which will carry through until August 28 Hours for the program are 11:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday to Friday. All the supervisors have just returned from a four-week course at the Drumheller Recreation Leadership School and are well-qualified to teach arts and crafts, games, etc., and will be offering some special events during the month. Hopefully, anyone who drops into the playgrounds, regardless of age, will be involved in the program, either as a participant or a leader. Support the program as much as you can this year; if the results are successful a full two month program will be run next summer.

The Regional Recreation Board tentatively plans on starting some type of recreation program on or about the beginning of October. Possible activities include drawing and sketching, oil painting, water colors, leathercraft, fitness classes, badminton, broomball, sewing, woodwork, liquid emulsion, etc. At present, I am attempting to get an idea of all facilities within the county where some activity or program could be held. When possible, according to the availability of personnel equipment and facilities, similar programs will be set up in each centre. However programs such as sewing, woodwork and, at a later date ceramics will have to be held only in Viking and Ryley, where facilities are available.

One request I would like to make is for part time instructors. Any person who is interested in any of the above programs or any other activity that you are personally interested in is more than welcome to contact myself at either 663-3925 Ryley or 662-4106 Tofield or any member of the regional recreation board. We want to have qualified personnel available to teach various sessions.

PAIR HAMPER WINNERS

Well, it's that time of the year again, and the Fairs are now a part of the past. We hope that everyone enjoyed themselves at the Fair and saw what there was displayed. We from the Department of Agriculture would like to thank each and every one of you who came out to our Alberta Agricultural booth. It was a pleasure seeing you all there and hope that you enjoyed sampling our potato puffs deep fried in rapeseed oil, the carrot cake made with rapeseed oil, and the pork sausages covered with a honey catsup sauce. So far we've heard of no casualties!

We would also like to congratulate the following winners of the Alberta Products hamper: Mrs. Hallonquist of Tofield, July 19, at the Tofield Sports Day; Mrs. V. Wengrenhuk, July 27, Vegreville Fair; Mrs. R. Devost, July 28, Vegreville Fair; Mrs. Peter Paziuk, July 28, Vegreville Fair.

The products in the hamper were the following: Alpha Canned Milk, Chuck Wagon dinner, Honey (Charantais), Boy-all Luncheon Meat, Rapeseed Oil, Sport, Spam, Canned Ham, Burns-Gainers Campfire Sausages, Sunny Boy Cereal, Ogilvie Rolled Oats, Goodrens Mr. Canned Corn, Tiny Teddy Peas, Berry Sugar, Potato Chips (Tona), Cheese, Roma Macaroni, Rosebud Pancake Flour, Alpha Powdered Milk, Pet Barley, Perky Dog Food, Cat Food, Dark Rye Flour, Prairie Maid Puffed Wheat, Burns Spiced Ham Loaf, Spring Pack Wax Beans, and Spring Pack Peas.

Behind the people in the booth itself are those who made it possible. At this time we would like to publicly thank the following donors for their generous contributions: County of Beaver, County of Minburn, County of St. Paul, County of Two Hills, County of Vermilion River, M.D. of Wainwright, St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, Vermilion Chamber of Commerce, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Lloydminster Exhibition Association, Vegreville Exhibition Association, Vermilion Agriculture Association, Willingdon Agricultural Society, Alberta Egg and Feed Marketing Board, Alberta Turkey Producers Co-op Ltd., Alberta Potato Commission, Burns, Gainers Limited, Northern Alberta Dairy Co-op Limited, Wainwright Dairy, Western Canada Seed Processors Limited, Western Stock Growers Association, Alberta Institute of Agrologists N.E. Branch, Prairie Farm Women's Union of Alberta, Sydeham - Gerald Unitarm Local, Vermilion Agricultural and Vocational College, and the Vegreville Co-Op Store.

The Fairs may be over, but we hope that our attempts to promote Alberta products has reached a lot of people, so much so that the economical situation of the farmers may soon be improved.

Holden and district news items

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Intended for last week

Minnie Wolfe, a former oldtime resident of the Holden district was a recent visitor for a week and a half at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Rithand and has also visited for several days afterwards with Ethel Brekstad.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Smorte with Miss Lucille Pohrahs and Mrs. Bena Fjeldstrom were visitors last Thursday with Mrs. Bertha Chetsey who is still a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital in Vegreville. Mrs. Chetsey is not making as good a progress as hoped for, still having a great deal of pain in her liver.

Problem...

around by now, and no catastrophes this spring either.

That leaves hogs and dairy. The pork producers had a good year; no disease epidemics, no market upheaval, and hog prices last fall were the highest they had ever been. Hog numbers in Alberta were down from previous years, but farmers soon remedied that.

The milk and cream producers are adjusting their affairs steadily, but those producing fluid milk in Alberta last winter received top prices for nearly all production, cream prices are higher than in the 1960's.

So you see friend, agriculture is having a great year! Farming is in economic trouble, and rural districts are suffering, but not because of lack of sales, or adequate production. It is time to recognize the real problem, Mister.

Modern etiquette

Does a college girl properly introduce herself as "Miss Scott" or as "Betty Scott"?

A. She should call herself Betty Scott.

Q. When one has just taken a mouthful of food at the table and a question is directed at one, what is the proper thing to do?

A. Under no circumstances attempt to talk with food in the mouth! Wait until you have swallowed the food before responding.

Q. How do the wordings differ in the formal wedding invitation and in the invitation to the reception?

A. Wedding invitations "request the honour of your presence", while reception invitations "request the pleasure of your company".

Q. Would it be correct to have my monogram engraved on the envelopes of my personal stationery?

A. No. Your monogram correctly appears only on the note paper itself

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir:

There is so much talk of pollution, I think I may have found the first anti-pollution law on this continent. Reading the history of the colonization of New England, I found this "Marlborough was incorporated in 1663. Edmund Rice was elected as one of the Selectmen".

It was decreed "That all swine should be yoaked and rung". That all cows cattle of this Towne shall goe under the hands of keepers". "No person shall lay or put any flax or hemp in any brook or pond where cattle use to drink, on penalty of passing to the Townes use twenty Shillings for every offense".

This might have been an inconvenience to the women of the colony, as they would have to take their flax and hemp farther afield to be "retted" or soaked in water to reduce it to fibre, to card and spin into thread, to weave into cloth for some of their clothing

It was moved and carried that the financial statement for the month of June be accepted.

Cr. Kropielnicki reported that the previous minutes had been in error in reporting that the Tofield Hospital District had received $9,000.00 of the 1969 deficit. This figure should have been $6,700.00.

Cr. Reddick mentioned the situation as regards laundry equipment in the Viking Hospital. The cost of repairing the present equipment was exorbitant and the Hospital Board was considering purchasing equipment regardless of approval of the Department of Health. The motion was carried.

It was moved and carried that the accounts as presented at this time be approved and passed for payment with the exception of one bill.

BUSINESS FROM THE MINUTES

The Secretary Treasurer advised that, in response to our request to the Department of Mines and Minerals to assess the cost of moving the pipeline previously mentioned, a copy of a letter from the Department to Northwestern Utilities Ltd. indicated that the pipeline is to be moved at the cost of Northwestern Utilities.

It was moved and carried that the County does not assist in providing power in the residents of the Hamlet of Poe.

Correspondence from the Department of Highways and Transport, Bridge Branch, indicated that the Department would not be interested in upgrading the bridge at the West NW 17-47-14-W4th. They feel that the amount of traffic over this bridge does not warrant Department funds to be spent at this location.

In regard to the request for a bridge at the West NW 17-47-14-W4th., the same comments were made.

In regard to the West NW 13-48-15-W4th. the correspondence indicated that a 20-foot by 26 foot precast concrete bridge be installed at this location

In regard to the West NW 6-49-1-W4th, it was suggested that two culverts be installed at this location, and that one be moved from Plc 9677 "B".

It was moved and carried that the Council agree with the recommendations except for the West NW 17-47-14-W4th, and that the Department of Highways and Transport be notified that this does not meet more than farmer to land traffic and could be and possibly will be a school bus route shortly.

Correspondence from the Water Resources Division of the Department of Agriculture advised that the cost of cleaning Amisk Creek would be in excess of the benefits to be derived.

It was moved and carried that this correspondence be received and filed and that Mr. Allan Stinson be asked to attend a future meeting at his convenience.

A letter from Fountain Tire Ltd. advised that in response to our request they would service our equipment and that charges for mileage would be at the rate of 25c per mile calculated from the nearest tire shop, and also that they will inspect our tires on our equipment at our request providing they are not closer than two-week intervals.

CORRESPONDENCE

It was moved and carried that the notification from the Prairie Farm Assistance Branch indicated that Township 48-13-W4th was ineligible, Pt-15-W4th was ineligible, Town blp 32-16-W4th would receive payment on Section

CONSCIENCE AND CONSENT
SET AT PALL STREET
KAMLOOPS, B.C., CANADA
REV. E. NEILL FOSTER

Last April when President Nixon decided to send U.S. troops into the Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia, an epidemic of anti-war protest rolled across the United States.

In the resulting demonstrations students from Kent State University in Ohio were shot by the National Guard. It was the opinion of many that government policy was responsible for the killings.

However, there appear to be other factors in the Kent State affair. Mr. Samuel Hollander, in a letter to the Montreal Star published May 27, quoted a Mr. Jerry Rubin, well known radical, who had addressed an audience of 1,200 a month earlier at Kent State.

Said the raving revolutionary, "Until you people are prepared to kill your parents you aren't ready for the revolution. The American school system will be ended in two years. We are going to bring it down. Kill your parents. Become criminals. We have to disrupt every institution and break every law".

Comrade Rubin may be mistaken on many things, but one thing he urged will happen . . . young people will assassinate their parents.

Christ predicted that in the time of the end, "the children shall rise up against their parents, and cause them to be put to death".

In fact, the outlook would be bleak indeed if the Saviour were not coming back to rule in righteousness.

But He is coming back.

TO EXAMINE WHEAT MARKETING

Former Alberta Wheat Pool General Manager A. T. Baker has been named one of a six man committee, announced last week by the Canadian Wheat Board, to examine Canada's wheat export marketing system. Beginning immediately, the group is expected to take from three to six months to complete a study which will include evaluation of the effectiveness of our Canadian wheat selling system.

Making the announcement, Wheat Board Chief Commissioner W. McMaharn said that changing world wheat market conditions make it necessary to continually examine wheat marketing policies.

Heading the committee is Dr. M. W. Mcnzies, well known as an economics and grain policy consultant. Joining him, Quit help students. Become along with Mr. Baker, is Dr. John Schelltze, Professor of Economics, Kansas State University and former U.S. Undersecretary of Agriculture; A. P. Van Sloth, grain market advisor to the European Economic Community; V. Lester, president of Powell - Lester Grain Exporters; and Dr. J. L. Ledfried, Executive Assistant to the Canadian Wheat Board.

During its examination of Canadian sales policies and operations, the committee will hold discussions with representatives of the grain industry in Canada and in countries abroad.

19, 30, 31, 33 and 36, be received and filed.

A letter from the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties advised that they will provide a bulletin advising of municipal equipment that is free for rental from each of the individual municipalities. They request that if we have any equipment we advise them so that it can be placed on this bulletin.

It was moved and carried that the correspondence from the Division of Vital Statistics, advising that it will not be necessary for a monthly return for cemetery operation to be submitted to that division.

It was moved and carried that the County Council concur in the recommendations of the Fairview Regional Agricultural Service Board Conference in that they agree that a maximum charge of $5.00 per acre be allowed for control of Class B weeds.

It was moved and carried that the County Council approve payment of a grant of $100.00 as requested by the District Home Economist to help sponsor a project advertising Alberta agricultural products.

It was moved and carried that we accept Mr. Robert Fowler's bid of $551.00 for the Haight grader shed and advise him that the shed must be moved off the site within 30 days.

A request for subdivision of three acres out of part of the NE. 12-51-20-W4th by Mr. C. McLeod was presented.

It was moved and carried that the County Council has no objection to this subdivision provided that we are not required to build any access roads in or to the subdivision.

A proposed powerline extension into the Hamlet of Poe was presented by Calgary Power Ltd.

It was moved and carried that the Council does not have any objection to this extension of the line into the Hamlet of Poe.

There was a discussion on the necessity of having street lights in the Hamlet of Dodds.

It was moved and carried that we request Calgary Power to remove the three street lights in the Hamlet of Dodds.

It was moved and carried that the Council has no objection to the extension of the powerline in Section 35-52-19-W4th as submitted by Farm Electric Services Limited.

The County Council was advised that the Board of Industrial Relations Order in regard to the restriction on hours of work for construction employees would be effective from November 1st, 1970.

A letter from the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding the Holden Hutterite Colony was referred to the Council. This letter indicated that the Hutterite Colony had received approval from the Communal Property Board to lease the following property: NW. 20-49-16-W4, part of SE. 20-49-16-W4, part of SW. 29-49-16-W4, and SE. 32-49-16-W4.

There was some discussion now on the operation of the County Recreation Board. The County Council is concerned that this Board is not providing the service that was originally intended.

It was moved and carried that we advise the County Recreation Board that the County Council wishes to meet with them at their next regular meeting.

Cr. Scott mentioned that there is another piece of road which he would like to build to provide a farmer access to his building. Presently, the farmer is going through his own field. It involves an extension of about 300 feet of road. It is on a road allowance, but presently there is no road constructed there. He asked the permission of the Council to hire a private contractor to do this in view of the fact that it may be quite below our own construction crews would be on the job.

It was moved and carried that Cr. Sears be authorized to do this bit of road construction by outside contractor.

Cr. Bodnick mentioned that he and Cr. Dix and Lad Clark had looked over the Haight shed and it is in good condition.

It was moved and carried that the meeting be adjourned at 3:15 p.m.

Announce new grain quotas

Quotas of two bushels per quota acre for oat grade wheat and three bushels for barley were announced last Tuesday by the Canadian Wheat Board. The quotas were effective Monday of this week. No oats quota is effective for this part of Alberta.

Wheat grading No. 1 North ern or lower, including Garnets and Alberta Red Winter, have been included for all blocks in this region. The all wheat quota for lower grades is intended to encourage deliveries of wheat urgently needed to meet early sales requirements, and are to be applied against regular wheat quotas announced later.

Alberta was not included in the supplementary quota on barley during the final two weeks of last crop year, and the new quota will give Alberta producers a chance to deliver additional quantities of barley.

21 Beaver Voyageurs tour La Belle Quebec

by Ruth Davies

On Sunday evening, August 16, twenty-one "Young Voyageurs" from Beaver County, accompanied by their escorts, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Newcomb of Viking, were welcomed in Montreal, Quebec.

The group, including Shirley Jensen, Monica Knudsden and Carol Manderson, all of Ryley, had spend Saturday afternoon touring Edmonton, and on Sunday they were in Ottawa, where many places of historical interest were visited.

The week was packed with tours and activities which kept the Young Voyageurs and their host families busy.

A tour of picturesque Old Montreal enabled the Albertans to see how the preservation of historic places further enriched the culture of the Montreal area. The group visited such places as Notre Dame Church, Cartier Square, In New Montreal, the Young Voyageurs saw the famous Botanical Gardens as well as the International Radio-Canada Centre and St. Joseph's Oratory.

The group saw innumerable French Canadian displays of culture. The locks of the St. Lawrence were found to be very interesting.

The Young Voyageurs stayed in Quebec City for two days, where they saw many historic sites, including the Plains of Abraham, where Wolfe and Montcalm fought in 1759.

The Parliament Buildings in Edmonton, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City were also visited

The County of Beaver group acquired many friendships and numerous memories that will never be forgotten.

The Young Voyageur program is jointly coordinated by the federal and provincial governments to promote better citizenship in Canadians, as well as an increased understanding between the provinces of Canada. The Young Voyageur group from the County of Beaver felt that the full purpose of the program had been well achieved.

Firmly Canadian

Despite the much publicized takeover of so many Canadian companies in recent months, the Canadian banking industry remains very strongly Canadian, and of course, following the legislation of a couple of years ago, it will continue that way. However, it's interesting to note that a recent survey of the nine banks in Canada, including the latest Bank of British Columbia, show ninety-three percent of the shareholders are Canadian residents, and they own 84 percent of the outstanding stock.

This is particularly interesting since both figures are up from either last year or the year before, both in terms of percentages, and also in raw figures. Other countries of the British Commonwealth account both for more shares and more shareholders than does the United States, although the Commonwealth proportion has been dropping in both respects. It's quite interesting, too, to note that there are a couple of hundred additional shareholders in the United States than there were two years ago, but even the larger number own fewer shares than they used to.

The report goes on to suggest that banking is second only to the telephone companies, both in the number of shareholders and the proportion of stock held in the country. The Toronto Stock Exchange estimates that about a million Canadians now own equities of one kind or another, and on this basis, better than one in six of all Canadian shareholders now own bank stock. Or another way, roughly one in every 33 families owns some bank stock

Taking into account fairly substantial holdings among various mutual funds, too, it can be said that many more Canadians have a direct financial interest in the chartered banks.

Interestingly, the big public participation started with the 1944 revision to the Bank Act, when par values of stocks were reduced from $100 to $10, making it possible for the "little man" to get into the game. Since that time, his number has grown tremendously.

What about his influence? Well, it's a bit hard to read from the figures, but the so-called little man still doesn't count for much, really. There are some 144,268,430 shares out, says the report, among 173,466 shareholders, and even making allowances for the Communist-with, where the proportion of shares is away up, the "average" Canadian shareholder would own 750 shares. Which would hardly put him in the category of the "little man". It's more likely the average holding is a great deal smaller, with a few hundred fairly concentrated holdings which exercise the real control

Distressing precedent

The move of the United States to "bury" its unwanted stocks of poison nerve gas in the middle of the ocean seems a distressing concept, setting a dangerous example which may be followed by other nations, with ultimately disatrous effects. Sooner or later it seems, the containers must eventually break down, and the gas may be diluted to the point of nothingness

Or it may not Just possibly it could affect huge areas of the ocean, and eventually come right back home when the nations of the world are more dependent on the harvest from the seas than they are now.

For our own part, we'd feel at least as secure if the stuff were buried in some desolate mine in the middle of the country where such it

by Don Mazankowski

I have recently returned from hearings conducted by the Standing Committee on Finance, Trade and Economic Affairs, which is currently examining the proposed reforms to the Canadian taxation as outlined in the White Paper for Tax Reform. While my participation on the Committee was only in the province of Alberta and British Columbia, it was made abundantly clear, through the evidence received that the White Paper proposals will stifle economic growth, critically affect the availability of risk capital and re-orient the tendency of Canadians to become a spending society rather than a saving society. This will result in irreparable damage to the economic and social climate of Western Canada.

The major primary industries of the West, namely the agriculture industry, the oil and mining industries and the forest industry, all presented well documented evidence of the severe handicaps which the White Paper will create to their respective operations. In addition, the impact on small business, which makes up a major portion of the Western economic community and particularly the rural community, will be devastating. As Mr. Thatcher, Premier of Saskatchewan said, he sees the proposals in the White Paper as a funeral march for small businesses in Western Canada.

In light of the voluminous evidence presented to the Committee, expressing concern over the adverse economic affects, one wonders just how much credence can be placed in some of the statements contained in Mr. Benson's proposals. For example, Section 1.1 of the White Paper states:

The government's proposals are the result of careful study of tax principles, practices and [illegible]

In Section 8.35 it states further that

"The tax reform proposals set forth in this paper are expected to have relatively little net impact on the Canadian economy."

It seems obvious in view of the submissions presented to the contrary, that the government has underestimated its impact the net result of which will be [illegible] ...ship to the public ... The intention for economic growth [illegible] otherwise ... which could only ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]

ALBERTA POTATOES ARE BEST

Alberta potatoes have won international awards for many years because of their high dry matter content. This means they have more nutritional value and contain less water.

Because of this high dry matter content they don't slough or fall apart when you boil them. Excessive heat or too much moisture will cause sloughing.

Boil potatoes of the same size in just enough water to prevent sticking. Boil at lowest possible temperatures — stop boiling as soon as potatoes are done. Drain immediately.

It is not recommended that potatoes be boiled in a large amount of water, at a high temperature, as this will tend to boil vitamins and nutrients out of the potato.

It is a common fallacy that potatoes are fattening. One medium potato supplies less than 100 calories. Actually, potatoes are included in many weight reducing diets. It has been proven that potatoes are not fattening unless eaten with rich sauces, fatty meats or thick soups. It is these accompaniments which add the calories and not the potatoes! Potatoes are an important source of Vitamin C and the B Vitamins. It also supplies an appreciable amount of minerals, especially iron. The protein found in potatoes is readily assimilated and wholly digestible.

The Alberta Potato Commission recently published a booklet containing 112 new potato recipes. The booklet, which costs 25 cents is available from the Alberta Potato Commission B2, 1330 - 8th Street S.W., Calgary 3, Alberta.

CARROTS

A root vegetable grown in Alberta is the carrot. This vegetable is also low in calories, but packed with nutrients. It is an excellent source of Vitamin A which helps our eyes adjust to light changes.

Carrots should be boiled in a small amount of water or they may be baked, broiled or fried.

Services held in Holden for Elna Marie Parsons

Mrs. Elna Marie Parsons of Holden, passed away on Sunday, July 12 at the Good Samaritan Auxiliary Hospital, Lacombe.

A member of a well-known pioneer family, Mrs. Parsons was born in Denmark in 1901 the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Christensen. She came to Wisconsin and then to the Holden district in 1937, and lived there for the greater part of her life.

Alberta's Great Moments

Raising the Bag on Mt. Norquay

A mere mountain won't stop that crazy cast of characters from the Lethbridge label. They've all had a rough day. The Lethbridge Pilsner personified, but it's the peak of good old-fashioned flavour in every glass. That's the way it's been for nearly half a century. And that's the way it'll stay — as real and rugged as our pioneer tradition. So next time call for Alberta's original Pilsner. Enjoy your own Great Moments with Lethbridge Pil.

Police enticement "unfair, oppressive"

For the first time in Canada, a criminal prosecution has been stopped because police instigated the commission of the offence Judge P. J. McAndrew ruled in Ottawa, at the opening of a hashish-trafficking trial. But it was "unfair and oppressive" to try an accused for an offence which state officials rotted him to commit.

An RCMP undercover agent had cultivated the friendship of a Carleton University student for two months, trying persistently but without success to have the student sell him drugs. The student neither a user nor a pusher himself, had told the constable he knew suppliers. Finally, the agent borrowed $15 from the student and said later he would repay when the drugs were obtained. Only then did the student sell him the hashish.

In the U.S., entrapment of this kind has been recognized as a valid defence in criminal cases for more than half a century. The rule there, as stated by the Supreme Court, is that a defendant is entitled to acquittal "when the criminal design originates with the government and they implant in the mind of an innocent person disposition to commit the alleged offence and induce its commission in order that they may prosecute"

Judge McAndrew's bold ruling does not explicitly recognize entrapment as a defence under Canadian law. Indeed, it hardly could. Only two years ago, the Supreme Court of Canada stated in a burglary case that "solicitation of an agent provocateur (is) irrelevant to the question of . . . guilt or innocence". Instead, relying on an Ontario judgment now itself under scrutiny by the Supreme Court, Judge McAndrew decided that in the circumstances of the case before him, trial of the student would be an abuse of process because it would subject him to unfairness and oppression.

Whether or not the judge's ruling is confirmed by higher courts, it may still seriously affect our law. It has focussed attention on a matter of deep public concern. In its recent report, the Ouimet committee on corrections reflected this concern in its plea to Parliament for a clear declaration that "the policy of the criminal law is opposed to instigation by public officials of persons who might otherwise have obeyed the law to commit offences in order to obtain evidence upon which to base a prosecution."

The committee suggested legislation to provide that entrapment be recognized as an excuse of crime where the defendant had no "pre-existing intention to commit the offence" . . . where the official incitement does not merely provide opportunity, but actually provokes a crime which otherwise might never have been committed. The defence would not apply to charges involving bodily harm or danger to life.

Where specific offences are so widespread that special measures must be taken to suppress them, and where they are so serious in their consequences that ordinary citizens must perpetually be tested, and where evidence can be obtained in no other way, there is a cogent argument for the agent provocateur. But otherwise, in preference to the distasteful mess of widespread entrapment, society must depend on more palatable methods of effective law enforcement.

To reduce moose at Cypress Hills

The Cypress Hills Provincial Park moose population is too numerous for its food supply and will be reduced over the coming weeks in order that remaining animals can survive in a more reasonable manner. Ultimately it is hoped to control numbers; however, immediate reductions are necessary in order to allow range conditions to recover.

Four moose were introduced into the Park in 1956 and have since increased to more than 100 head. Moose are browsing animals and the food supply has been so heavily used in the past few years that it is no longer sufficient to properly nourish the animals. A downward trend in range condition as well as condition of the animals is apparent.

Some undesirable damage by moose to some areas of park vegetation is occurring. A number of moose have starved to death in recent winters while remaining animals have survived the winter in poor body condition and heavily infested with various parasites.

As there are no natural predators of moose in the Park, the only remaining natural controls are starvation and disease, neither of which is desirable.

Every penny for relief

The Canadian UNICEF Committee is launching a Canada-wide appeal for funds to continue the feeding and rehabilitation of children in Nigeria.

On January 15th, Mme Marguerite Lamothe, Canadian UNICEF Committee Chairman, said "EVERY Canadian penny contributed will be forwarded for relief activities without reduction for administrative costs."

As little as 4 oz. of a high-protein food at a cost of less than 6c per day will rescue a child suffering from kwashiorkor—even at the 11th hour.

UNICEF and the Red Cross are the only agencies recognized by Nigeria at the moment. In announcing this on January 14, the Nigerian Ambassador to the United Nations, E. O. Ogbu, said in New York: "UNICEF has provided invaluable assistance to Nigeria and has continued its very good and altruistic humanitarian work which my government deeply appreciates."

Mr. Lobsinger, Executive Director of UNICEF, went to Lagos on January 16 to make a first hand survey of needs and to meet representatives of go...ernment and volunteer Agencies. Before leaving he said "UNICEF can and desires to continue to play a role in the overall effort which we consider of total importance to mothers and children. We are particularly qualified to continue and expand the flow of drugs, medical supplies and special children foods."

Donations may be made to the Canadian UNICEF Committee, 67 Church St., Toronto.

Father-Son deals

Fathers selling property to their sons in future, The Financial Post comments may appear much tougher about how they are to be paid. In particular they can be expected to make increasing use of the demand note. The probable change has nothing to do with the traditional father-son relationships. It is all the doing of the National Revenue taxman. In a recent interpretation of the gift tax provisions of the Income Tax Act which came into effect July 1 National Revenue declared that from now on if wealthy man disposition of property from father to son this way. Were a father sells to a son, all payment is to be made by a date in the future no gift tax will be applicable if the full debt is payable on demand even though interest is not to be charged. On the other hand if the note or other obligation calls for future payment without a demand note, National Revenue will consider the difference between the discounted value and the face value as a gift subject to gift tax. The moral is fathers can avoid paying gift tax and avoid charging interest if they make sure they receive demand note from their sons. This would leave the onus of the repayment indefinite. It also enables the debtor could settle the debt at his convenience, so long as his father was careful not to demand immediate payment. The Financial Post comments the demand note device is ready to win a new level of popularity in property disposition from one family generation to the next.

Vows exchanged

An early spring wedding was solemnized at Grace Lutheran Church in Edmonton when Mildred Pankiw of St. Paul, Alberta was united in marriage to Alan John Tiedemann of Holden. The couple left on a honeymoon to the United States, after which they took up residence in Edmonton, where both are employed.

Responding to change

The single most compelling fact of our time is not so much change as the speed of change. The late lady of man's knowledge so she told, is doubling every ten years and by the end of the century will be doubling every five years.

Can man cope with change at such a rate? Can he adapt to it?

Some have become concerned that the rate of change will increase to the point where man will become simply the creature of all this knowledge rather than its master. If this invokes in you a vivid sense of disaster, take courage . . . man does not live by dread alone.

Consider these possibilities:

1. a world population of six billion;
2. a Canadian population of 34 million,
3. a world GNP of 11 trillion dollars;
4. a Canadian GNP of 371 billion dollars;
5. a "post industrial" society in North America where a typical citizen might spend 40 per cent of his days on his vacation — or a four day work week, with 13 weeks of holidays a year.

Are these fantastic dreams? Not on your life. These are sober predictions by the Hudson Institute for the year 2000 and many equally provoking predictions are contained in a recent book, "The Year 2000" by Herman Kahn and Anthony Wiener, published by MacMillan.

The year 2000 is but 30 years away. Thirty years ago this coming summer Hitler's armies entered Paris, an event still vivid to most of us. Since that time we have had to cope with such changes as the development of atomic weapons, nuclear energy, television, intercontinental jet travel, interplanetary projection, the dramatic rise of labour unions and wide-spread introduction of social security programs.

The computer age was not even within the conceptual ability of the science fiction writers of the 1930's. Who on looking back over this short span of our history will dispute that the next 30 months will produce less changes? Indeed the collective expenditures on research and development practically guarantee the advance of change. To deny this challenge is our heritage.

Man's ingenuity and inventiveness and in certain free choice upon his society. Perhaps such man also holds the freest choice.

Beaver Council meets

Following are the minutes, in part, of the regular meeting of the Council of the County of Beaver No. 9, held Thursday, August 13:

Present were Crs. Brissard, Gibson, Johnston, Kmudalien, Krupielnicki and Sears.

The meeting was called to order by the Reeve, Cr. Hodgson, at 10:00 a.m.

It was moved and carried that the minutes of the meeting, July 9, 1970, be accepted.

Cr Roddick reported on the hail damage which had been received by the hospital and the sense citizens home in Viking.

It was reported that the Town of Tofield is still endeavoring to get a sense citizens home in Tofield and that a meeting is being arranged with the Department of Welfare and with other municipal bodies to try to arrange for this home.

Cr Roddick reported also that the occupancy in Vialta Lodge is quite low. There were 42 occupants at the end of July.

A letter from the Department of Highways and Transport Bridge Branch was read, indicating that the Bridge Branch was still not in favor of supplying a bridge at the W.S.W. 17-47-14-W4th. They felt that there was not enough traffic over this road to warrant a bridge at this time.

Representation from the Department of Agriculture Water Resources Branch, consisting of Mr. Allan Simone, Mr. Glover and Mr. Williams, attended the meeting at this time in connection with our request to have something done with Amisk Creek to clear the channel so that there would not be so much flooding up stream. This was discussed quite thoroughly with the representatives from the Water Resources Branch and it was decided that they would take another look at this water course later this fall to see what can be done with it.

A letter from the Provincial Planning Department advised that Mr. McLeod's application to subdivide a portion of the N.E. 12-51-20-W4th had been refused.

It was reported that Mr. Olaf Bruce, representative of the Federal Grain Company, had been in with regard to our decision to remove the street lights from the Hamlet of Dodds. Mr. Bruce had been advised to that effect in writing; however, this had not been received to this time.

A letter from the Board of Industrial Relations advised that the Board order governing hours of work and minimum wages for road construction and maintenance indicated that this order would not become effective until November 1, 1970. The letter indicated also that there had been an increase in the number of general holidays and that who is this is paid on the basis of a percentage of the wages, this percentage had been increased from 2% to 2.8%.

In regard to our request for information about using the Calgary Power poles for a fire alarm system in Bruce, a letter had been received from the divisional supervisor, Mr. G. A. Hay, advising that he would contact us further on this matter.

A letter from the District Engineer, Mr. L. S. Werbowski, advised that in response to a request for approval for a sign on the highway near Tofield, the Department of

Recreation Ramblings

by H. J. Hartwig

In the future, all agencies and organizations will be receiving notification about workshops to be held in each area, to prepare for the Minister's Conference on Recreation.

The conference, called by the Hon. Robert Clark, former Minister of Youth, is being held "to provide an opportunity for those agencies and organizations involved in Recreation throughout the province to consider the direction and scope of Recreation in Alberta for the ensuing decade."

Each of the six centres with in the county will be allowed 2 delegates to the conference. In order to prepare these people to speak with authority on their particular situation, it is necessary to hold local work shops to familiarize delegates with problems and opinions in his locality. The workshops may bring up such questions as: what objectives govern the various agencies? are they being met? if not, why not? is there any overlap of objective? Such questions will require serious thought before the workshop so that these and other issues can be handled with authority.

The conference is scheduled for the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton, October 16 to 18, so local workshops should be held this month. Please come prepared and do some serious thinking. The workshop may be a dull day, but it be your future in recreation that will be discussed and well worth the time and effort.

Expert speaks to UNICEF conference

A provincial meeting of UNICEF representatives is expected to be addressed by the past chairman of the FAO (Food and Agriculture Organization), as what objectives govern the various agencies? are they being met? if not, why not? is there any overlap of objective? Such questions will require serious thought before the workshop so that these and other issues can be handled with authority.

The conference is scheduled

Where education is a privilege

When the Unitarian Service Committee's social workers in Mokpo, Korea, announced they were opening a night school they expected about 10 children the first day, instead 172 arrived! It was a sad task to choose the final 120. The teachers are all volunteer students from the Teacher's College. Since the USC's Social Service Centre won't hold them all, the oldest children met in a nearby church hall. In the beginning they sat on Canadian quilts, but now they crowd onto narrow wooden benches. Some of them work as shoe shine boys during the day, or in local factories. The classes were begun because a USC survey among 350 poor families showed that 91 children between 7 and 16 were not attending school, due to poverty. This year the Unitarian Service Committee is appealing for $1,265,000 in funds and gifts-in-kind. USC headquarters is at 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa.

A letter from Calgary Power Ltd. set out that the estimated cost of moving Pole No. 1282 on the NW 31-48-14 W4th was $200.00. The Council considered that this was an excessive cost to move one pole; however, it was necessary to get this pole out of the road in order to construct the road.

HATE SUMMER HOUSE-WORK?

People have different amounts of physical strength. They also differ in the way they use their quotas of strength. They differ in their attitude toward the work that must be done.

Since there is so much physical work to be done in the home, it is sensible to do it in ways that will save strength, and in ways that are pleasant. There are six rules that can help anybody get her work done efficiently, and it is hoped with enjoyment.

1. Tackle Unpleasant Jobs First. A job you do not like is a hard job, no matter how easy other people find it. So do it at a time when will power and energy is running high. Be firm with yourself and do it promptly, for the dislike builds up with time.

2. Divide Long or Hard Jobs Into Parts. Because a person gets tired before she finishes a long, hard job divide it into parts. In cleaning a kitchen cupboard, do one section each day. Changing jobs avoids fatigue.

3. Stick to the Task that You Have Set for Yourself. When you start a job keep at it until it is finished. Try to eliminate interruptions.

4. Work With Company When You Can, or Work to Music. Work togeth with members of your family or with friends. Ironing and dusting can be done to the radio. Routine tasks can be done better to a background of music. Jobs that require concentration can be done better without a musical accompaniment.

5. Give Yourself Things to Look Forward To. Virtue is its own reward, But just to make life pleasant, When I've been good or labored hard

I buy myself a present.

It is always easier to work hard if there is a reward at the end of the job. A reward may be eating, a movie, going shopping, etc. Keeping your eyes on a reward helps get a job done.

6. Learn to Do the Job the Most Efficient Way. Vast amounts of energy are wasted by making hard work out of something that should be easy. Learn a quick way to iron a shirt, set a table, make a bed, doing dishes, etc. By analyzing what you do, you can often improve your efficiency. Be looking for ways to save time and energy in all that you do. Two more energy saving tips are:

Good equipment saves energy. A piece of equipment which you use often and which does what you want it to do is usually a good purchase. A piece of equipment which you seldom use may not be worth what it costs.

Good arrangements simplify tasks.

Where equipment is kept is almost as important as what equipment is available. Have it close to where it will be used.

Are Your Beans Producing?

At the Vegreville 4-H Garden Tour it was observed that one member had beans that were not producing. Now this seems to be a general problem around the Vegreville district, Gregory Wood, the 4-H Summer Assistant at Vegreville, was asked to look into the situation.

This is what he reported:

"The condition apparently is quite common in beans and is characterized by heavy green foliage and excessive growth, with no beans being produced. According ot the Regional Agricultural Staff at Vegreville, it is caused by certain soil and moisture conditions mainly, and over abundance of nitrogen. The same soil may produce beans in future and other vegetables. The beans may develop later in the season, with the right conditions".

Did You Know?

Although Canada's exports in 1969 climbed to a record $14 billion, more than 92 per cent of the total went to four markets U.S.A., Britain, the European Economic Community and Japan, leaving a mere eight per cent for the rest of the world.

In 1969, the U.S. farmers' share of the consumers retail food dollar was 41 cents. U.S. observers say this was a rise of two cents from 1968.

Labour Day message

As we enter this new decade we will be confronted with many new and unfamiliar experiences. We will see, hear, and do things which were once beyond one's imagination. The pace established in the Sixties should be continued on into the Seventies, accompanied by its attendant problems, but perhaps we can, through hindsight, avoid some of the pitfalls and prevent them from recurring.

Perhaps we should take advantage of this day to reassess our approach to this new decade, in the light of experiences we have had thus far and to reflect on past achievements and shortcomings. For this is the purpose of Labour Day. It is essentially a day set aside to lay down our tools, relax, and ask ourselves drive questions: Where have we been? Where are we now? Where are we going?

We have developed machines and systems to relieve much of the dehumanizing and routine work of the past, but possibly we haven't used the extra time thus gained, to enrich ourselves in considering where and to what end, it was lead for. We have been so absorbed by our capacity to produce that we have become remiss when it comes to solving the human problems this power has created. As a consequence, we tend to lose sight of our original objectives, making it necessary to look back a bit, examine our findings, and attempt to gain some perspective on our present lot.

At the present time, we have reached a plateau in our climb up the "ladder of progress", making NOW an opportune time for looking back and explaining the problems of unemployment, inflation etc. This plateau affords us opportunities to consolidate our positions on these issues, thereby providing definite guidelines for future programs of action. If we are serious about the future of our country, we must work together now in a joint, concerted effort to discover the means of reconciling our vast material wealth with our growing social conscience.

It is the firm belief of myself and staff that the spirit of co-operative responsibility exhibited by those parties involved in the industrial-relations process (labour, management and government) to ensure the realization of values inherent in such a reasonable management attitude bodes well for the future; that of continued "Industrial Peace and Harmony". This tripartite concept of problem-solving has been well established in this province through continued consistent use over many years, and it is on this solid foundation that we will build toward that flexible framework for the 1970's.

In this connection, I would like to pay tribute to the [illegible] of all workers [illegible] I sincerely appreciate the co-operation of management and labour towards [illegible] this end we will in the future endeavour to maintain a constant interchange of information [illegible] mutual benefit. The key [illegible] communication [illegible] and I am confident [illegible] Alberta [illegible]

Knudslien-Harris vows are exchanged at Ryley

A pretty wedding took place in the Calvin United Church, Ryley, on August 15, when Gayle Marie Knudslien and Mr. Ross Harris of Grimshaw became the bride of Robert Anton Knudslien, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Knudslien of Ryley. Bouquets of gladiolas made a lovely background for the double ring ceremony performed by Mr. Jon Wilson.

Mrs. Peter Good, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music and Mr. Dwight Dewar sang "A Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Henry Buhnler of Grimshaw, wore a floor length gown of sheer nylon over double rayon taffeta, with vertical rows of lace and a detachable train, held in place with white roses and white Star of Bethlehem. She carried a bouquet of orange roses.

Bridesmaids were the bride's three sisters, Mary, Theresa and Bernadette Harris. They wore identical mint green dresses, floor-length style, and trimmed with lace. They carried bouquets of orange and yellow carnations, and wore gold bracelets, gifts of the bride.

Rhonda Knudslien, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress, similar to the bridesmaids, and carried a basket of orange and yellow flowers.

Brent Knudslien, nephew of the groom, was the ring-bearer. He wore a brown suit, and carried the ring on a white cushion, with green and white ribbon trim.

The best man was Ronnie Pepper, and the groomsmen were Tommy Annebo and Gordon Pope, all friends of the groom. Ushers were Warren Kushnir and Barry Albrecht.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Harris wore a pale blue dress and aided with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and pink roses. The groom's mother wore a deep blue, long-sleeved dress with matching blue and silver accessories and her corsage was also of white carnations and pink roses.

A reception was held at 6:00 p.m. at the Ryley Community Hall. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, made by the groom's mother. The guests tables were centred with vases of sweet peas. George Knudslien, cousin of the groom, was master of ceremonies. Mr. H. Buhnler proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom very ably responded. Tommy Annebo gave a brief review of Robert's past. As the bride and groom passed the wedding cake Rod Knudslien played a number of selections on the piano. Mrs. George Knudslien and Miss Denise Good were in charge of the guest book.

For going away, the bride wore a sky-blue lace pant suit. Following the honeymoon to Southern Alberta, Banff and Jasper, the happy couple will reside in Grimshaw.

Out-of-town guests were from Edmonton, Calgary, Peace River, Grimshaw, Byemoor, Fort Macleod, Camrose, Kitscoty, Kitsman, Holden and Nanaimo, B.C.

FALL WARDROBES

These past few chilly evenings begin to remind us that Fall is just around the corner. It is time to check your wardrobes, too, and get them into shape for next season. With the fashion industry in such a turmoil, it is hard to know what to buy for fall. Many people have decided not to buy any new clothes at all until they get some more definite information as to what the rest of the world may be going to do. It is hard to believe that we have to depend on those out in the world of fashion and buy what they want us to wear. The best way to judge what is going to be fashionable is to read fashion magazines. Look at the pictures and see what appeals to you. Then you will be able to tell your dressmaker what you want done, if you have one, or what ideas you have.

When shopping for this purpose, be sure to look at the back of the garment as well as the front. Look at the seams, the hems and the buttonholes. Check to see if the garment is lined and if the lining is of good quality. Check the fabric to see if it is suitable for the garment you have in mind. Beaver "Voyageurs" hold get-together

by Lyle Jacobsen

On Sunday, September 13, Kim Eastick, Greg Obertas, and Lyle Jacobsen (Ruth Dickson and Judy Moore were unable to attend) motored to Viking, to greet, attend a re-union of the twenty-one voyageurs who travelled to Montreal last week of August-15 and who represented the County of Beaver in the Young Voyageur Program. This program is a youth exchange program established at the federal level and is supported by the provincial and municipal governments.

At the reunion, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Newsome (chaperones for the trip) the group had a pot luck supper, and later viewed pictures of their trip.

There were many good photographs of Drumheller, Montreal and Quebec City, and the group is planning on meeting again next month to organize a slide presentation, which will be circulated among towns in the county.

The group departed later in the evening, and everyone was in agreement that the exchange had been an educational and fulfilling experience. During the all-day bus trip, the group continued to work on projects assigned by the provincial and municipal governments.

The Tofield students are grateful to the local merchants and Chamber of Commerce for their generous contribution of sweets and lollies, and future about the Toronto area.

Old fashioned virtues

Presenting Junior Citizen awards to several young Albertans last Friday at the annual meeting of the Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association, Lieutenant Governor J. W. Grant MacEwan warmly declared that these young people were displaying the old fashioned virtues as they built up the short term or sustained period of activities for which they had been nominated and selected.

"I suppose it could be said that qualities such as courage, resourcefulness, industry, neighborliness were never more important than they are today" said Mr. MacEwan, referring to the pressures which face the world.

Well known for his personal feeling and individual interest in people, he went on to say that it brought a lump to his throat as he looked at the accomplishments of these young people, then wound up by saying that possibly it was good in these days if we could still involve ourselves enough to develop a lump in the throat.

It was only natural that Dr. MacEwan's audience should completely agree. Most had lumps in their own throats, and not a few had tears in their eyes as well.

Real Westerner

British Columbia Premier, W. A. C. Bennett probably is a Canadian, and thinks as a Canadian, but there's never any doubt about his loyalty to his home province. Which hardly seems surprising, of course.

His latest gambit is to suggest that Ottawa should pay B.C. five hundred million dollars in lieu of other benefits which it does not derive from national policies. For instance, says Mr. Bennett, B.C. derives no benefit from the national tariffs, which are programmed more for the Eastern manufacturers.

In this argument, Mr. Bennett is quite correct. And furthermore, his argument is just as valid for Alberta as it is for B.C., if only it could be made to stick.

One of the major sources of discontent in the West comes from the fact that much of our operation is geared to what benefits the East. Mr. Bennett might well have pointed to the freight rates, for instance, although the ocean transportation to B.C. puts that province at a major advantage over Alberta. And there are many other disparities.

We wouldn't want Alberta or B.C. to get the name of sounding off as frequently and as irrationally as many of us think Quebec does. But neither would we want the impression to spread that because we're not always complaining there is nothing to complain about.

Revolving fund for housing?

What's the matter with a revolving fund for housing, operated under CMHC, rather than the present feast or famine type of operation Ottawa has adopted for so many years? One of the objectives of the old method of seasonal injections of money used to be to promote winter works projects, by releasing more money at that time in the year. Yet surely technology and building pressure has to a large extent overcome that necessity, as well as the simple fact that it often tended to make buildings more expensive simply by delaying them into the higher cost season, rather than encouraging low cost summer construction.

Central Mortgage and Housing has been lending money for house construction for years and years, always with huge sums of money set up by the government, which covered the "needs" or the demands for a few months, until new funds were voted. Then as the monthly payments started rolling in, the government either repaid some of its indebtedness, or made the money available in other areas.

But what's wrong with the concept of setting up a revolving fund, more or less on a once-and-for-all basis? As the monthly payments came back in, they could again be loaned out, and there would be a sustained steady flow of funds in and out, without all the upset and distress caused both to would-be homeowners and would-be housebuilders under the present grab-it-while-you-can basis.

Unorthodox? Well, maybe, but not so unorthodox that the City of Camrose haven't been doing it for years with their land funds. And surely it would simplify the job of the politicians and leave them time for other important but non-recurring matters.

Far too serious

The Pope seems to have expressed the feeling long since reached by nearly all thinking people when he said recently that hijacking of airplanes has reached an intolerable level, and one which cannot be permitted to continue. It has reached the point where most people feel a definite concern that some disastrous incident will occur unless the whole program is checked.

The Israelis, it seems to us, have set up the most intelligent and practical program of combatting the problem with their announced intention of treating fire with fire, of arming guardsmen with rifles and machine guns, and [illegible] recommended [illegible] with what a commercial pilot means, and by assuming that neither [illegible] would [illegible] the point of [illegible] hijacking [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for a [illegible]

From the mail bag

Throws light on covered arena

Tofield, Sept. 12.

Dear Sir:

In the September 10 edition of The Mercury, the Mail Bag carried a letter from someone "In the Dark" in regards to the covered arena. The points raised in that letter were very good. It seems to me that most, if not all, of us are also in the dark.

I would like to try and answer some of the questions presented in that letter.

1. The organization referred to in the first point is correctly named, the Tofield Senior Hockey Club, and was formed last spring. It is a group of men who are concerned about both junior and senior sports in this area, particularly hockey and other ice games.

At present the officers of this club are as follows: Robert Moss, president; Leonard Schacher, vice-pres.; Laurie Weatherill, sec'y-treas.

At present, the club has a savings account, which is where their arena funds are put. At this time the balance in that account is $860. All of the money in this account will be used directly toward the arena, or as a base on which other fund-raising projects for the same purpose may be operated. A meeting of the club is forthcoming, and everyone interested in the organization is welcome to attend. Watch The Mercury for the date and time.

2. The Tofield Lions Club have indicated that they do not intend to be the operators of the arena.

3. I admit that I know very little about the operation of the Viking Carena; however, I do believe that a comparison between the Carena and a new arena in Tofield is completely across-the-board at this time. There are so many things that must be considered. For one we must look to Viking to determine WHY they have an operating deficit and WHY that deficit is becoming less each year. The Carena contains many mistakes that Tofield should not copy. We will make mistakes, but let's keep them at a minimum by carefully observing arenas in a large number of Alberta towns and cities.

At this point in order is this: the people of Viking have taken on the responsibility in regards to the Carena. At the present time Viking is thinking of extending that financial system to include the operation and possibly the building of a swimming pool. The people of Viking must be very quick to notice the economic value such facilities have in a town of this size.

I wish to point out another fact that somehow every one seems to overlook when they become concerned about their taxes. Tofield hosts hail and arena coal are curling rink. Both of these facilities have NOT cost the taxpayer any increase of the mill rate, because tax money has NOT been used on these projects. Public organizations have taken on the responsibility of providing these buildings and have in most them very successful.

4. This thing of grants is something that very few of us know very much about. If each of us took more time and trouble to at least become a little more familiar with the system, it would be a big step in doing that communications gap that we all seem to have.

Yours truly,

Laurie Weatherill.

1st one grant every five years. Tofield's share for this five-year period is $14,000 to $15,000. As of yet only $5,000 of this has been applied for. This five-year period ends in 1973.

So you can see there is some money available for projects such as grants. My figures are very rough, which, I am sure, will tempt the local recreation board to present to the public complete and accurate figures on this subject.

In closing, I wish to stress the importance of the entire community becoming involved with this project. Regardless of your view on this arena, you should let those opinions become known. You may have points which no one has thought of. Your participation could influence the entire project. I am sure that within the next couple of weeks an announcement will be made in regard to a public meeting on the arena.

Yours truly,

Laurie Weatherill.

Slice of life.

Bread is a basic staple in the good life Albertans lead. And living in a province that grows the world's best wheat, we tend to take it for granted. Of course, for the farmer it's a little more complicated. It means an investment in labor, machinery, good soil management. Then markets must be found, transportation undertaken . . . even before milling and baking play their part. All in all, a skilled and complex business — comparable in many ways to the supply and distribution of electric energy. Here too specialized skills and complex processes are required to ensure that all the electricity you want is ready for instant flick-of-the-switch availability. While the overall cost of living has increased dramatically the price of electricity is still one of today's best bargains. Did you realize that the power used on a farm is, on average, less than one per cent of the total operating costs? That's something to think about when you consider inflation — or watch the toast pop up!

Vegreville family are Master Farmers

Alberta Minister of Agriculture, Hon. H. A. Russell, announces the names of five families who have received Master Farm Family Awards for 1970. They are the Leon Pentaluk family of St. Paul, the Alex Gyarfi family of Bow Island, the Ed Newton family of Del Bonita, the Harris Ramsay family of Markerville and the Arthur Ziegler family of Vegreville. Each of the families selected will receive a cheque for $1,000, a suitable engraved plaque and a gate sign. Their names will be added to the list of former Alberta farm families who have received the coveted award since 1949.

To be eligible for the award a farm family must have spent at least 20 consecutive years in agriculture. The farm must be Canadian owned and must be operated by a married couple. Nominees must also be considered leaders in their home town by a regional committee appointed by the Minister of Agriculture.

These awards are intended to honor Alberta farm families who have achieved notable success in farming, homemaking and citizenship. They are also intended to emphasize the advantages of farming as a way of life.

The Arthur Ziegler Family

The Ziegler name is well known among livestock breeders in Alberta and Arthur Ziegler, this year's Master Farmer, for over one-half Alberta — following a family tradition. He maintains a herd of pure-bred Polled Hereford, which — like all — indicated by the many trophies, ribbons and awards visible throughout the home — last year 22 cattle from his herd were selected as part of an export shipment to Japan.

Mr. Ziegler is active in cattle breeding circles, being president of the Vegreville Beef Breeders Association, and a member of both the Alberta Polled Hereford and Northern Alberta Hereford Associations.

Locally, he is a steward in the local United Church, and past president of Unifarm a chair officer of the Elks Lodge, a member of the local Legion, and a former member of the Home and School Association.

In his own circles, Mrs. Ziegler has been equally active in community affairs. She and her husband have been strong supporters of the Park Grove Community Centre and she has held several offices in the Park Grove FWUA. She is an executive officer of the local United Church Women's Organization, president of the Legion Auxiliary, a director of the Vegreville Exhibition, secretary of the local Graphene compers for eight years and was secretary of the Royal Purple.

Nils Haugejorden, Norris McIntyre and "Lonesome"

* * * * * * * * *

Donalda doa named to Animal Hall of Fame

A news report in The Canadian written by Mrs A. Norman of Donalda last March resulted in the election of a local dog to the Animal Hall of Fame sponsored by Ralston Purina of Canada.

Mrs Norman described how "Lonesome", a dog owned by Norris McIntyre, helped to awaken tragedy by preventing the freezing death of his master's friend, Nils Haugejorden, and the news story was picked up nationally, resulting in "Lonesome" joining two other animals also accepted for this year's hall of fame. The award carries with it a year's supply of pet food.

The report in the March 11 issue of The Canadian describes how on the Monday night, March 8, Mr. Haugejorden fell while walking home at midnight. No one heard his cries for help except the dog, who stayed with him through the next four hours, although it was eight degrees below zero and snow was falling.

The dog barked and whined until finally it aroused Mrs Bobby Critchlow at four o'clock in the morning. She went to the window to look for the cause of the dog's barking, then heard Mr Haugejorden's cries for help. After awakening her husband to help, phoned for an ambulance and got the injured man off to hospital in Radway for treatment, where the only problem was a frozen hand.

Had "Lonesome" not remained with Mr. Haugejorden licking his face and keeping him awake by his frequent barking, he would undoubtedly have frozen to death in the snow long before being found.

The dog was a young stray, given the name "Lonesome" because he had no home until he was taken in about three years ago by Mr. McIntyre, and at the time of the incident described above, had only recently recovered from shotgun wounds.

He also seems a self-appointed guardian of the children in the town, sensing something wrong when they wander off alone, and bringing them back or alerting their parents.

He is now receiving national publicity for his action.

2.4D ADVICE

Homeowners using the standard lawn herbicide 2,4D can damage newly seeded lawns and fail to kill weeds if they aren't careful.

R. M. Adamson, a scientist at the Canada Agriculture Saanichton, B.C., Research Station, found the worst 2,4D damage was to bluegrass when the weed killer was used either three or six weeks after seeding at the rate of one pound of 2,4D per acre.

Exciting things are happening at Calgary Brewing!

Our water is nearly as famous as our beer!

The best water makes the best beer. And throughout Canada beer lovers know about the water used in Calgary Export Lager. It flows to us through 70 miles of underground streams bubbling up through seven deep springs with a crisp, tingling flavour that has to be tasted to be believed.

In the whole world, only a handful of breweries — the great ones — are fortunate enough to be located atop such a magnificent water source.

You of course can enjoy the result of this . . . Calgary Export Lager, brewed with it. Its flavour is always perfect because our Calgary brewmaster (who loves beer) is just as careful of his brew as he is of the pure water malts, malts and choice hops which go into them. Next time you have a thirst for pleasure, enjoy the famous taste of Calgary Export Lager.

Brewed by beer lovers for beer lovers.

IN MEMORIAM

EATON.- In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Owen Richard Eaton, who passed away September 24, 1959.

Twelve years have passed away
Since that September morn,
When God took Owen home to stay,
And left us here alone to mourn
It's still lonesome without you, Owen,
And silent tears still flow;
For what it meant to lose you.
No one will ever know.
He whom we loved most 'tis not of sight,
But never out of our mind;
He will always be cherished
In the hearts
Of those he left behind.

-Ever remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Ellen, and his sons, Walter and Evelyn Eaton and family, Brenda, Donnie, Kevin, Brian and Karen, Leroy and Shirley Eaton and children, Margie and Ronnie and his daughter, Rita and Herb Nuemetz and girls, Linda and Sherry.

Rebekahs finish testing of eyes in County of Beaver

In co-operation with the Public Health Nurses, appointments for pre-school children were set up in August for the purpose of Amblyopia or lazy eye testing.

Members of Cavell Rebekah Lodge, instructed in the operation of the machine, tested 219 children from 1 to 6 years, in Ryley, Tofield, Viking and Holden. Of these only 11 were referred for further examination. Parents of these children will be contacted again from Head Office in the near future.

Tests have indicated that three per cent of all children suffer from Lazy Eye, the result of two eyes not developing at the same rate. However if detected in the pre-school age and treated professionally, the condition can be corrected more easily than at an older age.

This project is a new venture for Oddfellows and Rebekahs of Alberta.

Three Beaver centers lauded on housing

"Without question, the centres of Tofield, Holden and Ryley are to be commended for their efforts in housing", said R. R. Cysiuk, executive director of the Alberta Housing and Urban Renewal Corporation, speaking on Friday at the general meeting of the Edmonton Area Industrial Development Association in Tofield.

Mr. Cysiuk said that $50,000 will be allocated this year in the municipalities of Tofield, Holden and Ryley for expansion of rental housing units.

The Corporation will also turn its attention to housing for senior citizens and student housing. A high-rise building is to be constructed for the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology.

Direct lending programs are going on in Edson, Lac La Biche and the Slave Lake areas. This is part of a joint operation with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Loans are tailored to the capacity to repay.

The Corporation is also giving consideration to mobile home parks, and is considering the financing of mobile homes and parks and now has a recommendation before the federal government.

Mr. Walter Van de Walle, 1st vice-chairman of EAIDA, challenged the members to take a critical look at the Association.

"I believe that we are at the crossroads", Mr Van de Walle said. "We have just scratched the surface. Alberta has tremendous potential growth. We owe it to our people to get part of the action" he said

"The Association has a role to play. Tofield hasn't sat back just look at the building that has been going on here", he added.

Mr. Van de Walle said that the executive wants to hear suggestions about changes for individual areas. He urged that members be critical but constructive.

"This association has a challenging role. Let us go forth and accept that challenge", he concluded.

John E. Taylor, Acting Manager a Director of EAIDA, also spoke to the meeting. He said that he did not like the term "industrial development".

"It goes deeper than that" he said. "It's a matter of social and economic development. It is vital that we deal with people—not smoke stacks".

A social hour and reception was held, courtesy of the Tofield and District Chamber of Commerce. Luncheon was hosted by the Town of Tofield and served to the ladies at the Methodist Church.

Earlier in the day members enjoyed coffee courtesy of the Bank of Montreal, and tours of the H. Brown Hereford Ranch and Vetter's Bakery.

The luncheon, hosted by the Chamber of Commerce for the Edmonton and Area Industrial Development Association, was successful

Mr. Ramsbottom informed the meeting of the visit of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Field Representative Investments took place regarding several matters concerning various property under taken by the Tofield and District Chamber of Commerce.

—Where Are They Going?—

Does your organization need a shot in the arm? Take a good look at your community groups and it is very likely you will have to answer a definite "YES!" As my job involves attending a large variety of meetings in many districts, I get an excellent opportunity to observe groups in action.

The most obvious problem is that of over-organization. The rural population is shrinking and yet the same groups still carry on. I often thought it would be a good idea for all groups (men, women and youth) to select two representatives to attend an annual meeting of the community. Each group should decide the programs they would like to hold in the coming year and take their proposed agenda to this annual meeting. Groups planning similar events could then work together on these and conflicting events could be rescheduled. In fact, the community would likely recognize that it would be much better to amalgamate two or three organizations which serve the same purpose. Several communities have been exploring the idea of using one church building to serve the three main denominations in the community, thus eliminating maintenance costs on these buildings. The ladies' groups in that race may decide to amalgamate as they have much the same purpose.

The second important observation is that of declining membership. This is not a problem in itself but a symptom. Does your group attract new enthusiastic members? If you do, it is a good sign that your group is going ahead. If not, why not?

Today, with mass media and improved transportation, so many events are vying for our attention it's activity must serve an important purpose in order to compete for an individual's time. How many of your activities actually serve an important function? Are many of these purposes no [illegible]

Farmers urged to be on the alert for rats

Farmers along Alberta's east-central border are urged to practise vermin-proofing into this year in keeping plenty of warfarin dry bait around their buildings and feed stacks between now and the first snow fall.

Dale Alsager, animal pest specialist with the Alberta plant industry division, points out that there is always an increase of fall migration at this time of year, and that it has been in Alsatians of farm animal pest control officers along this border that has helped Alberta rat tree for 18 consecutive years.

As soon as the cool fall weather begins the young rats start migrating. These bait in large quantities over a few days will be the established pattern of rats' movements for the winter months, would have to eat about 100 pounds of this bait before it would poison her.

Farmers have Mr. Alsager, should be particularly watchful for signs of rats around their barns, chicken houses and pig barns. Holes under build ings with no foundation and dogs or cats digging under buildings are very often a sign that rats have recently moved in.

Dry warfarin bait stations should be put in, and around, all buildings that are accessible to rats and in feed stacks. Other packages of bait put between the bottom outside row of bales will prevent rats from getting established in hay or straw stacks.

Since warfarin dry bait has been designed specifically for rats, it will not harm humans or animals, unless taken in large quantities over a long period of time. A few rats would have to eat about

Modern etiquette

Q. When a divorced couple has remarried and decided to remarry, is a large wedding with all the trimmings in good taste?

A. No. Such a remarriage should be performed as quietly and with as little display as possible.

Q. Are dessert forks or spoons placed on the dinner table with the other silver ware when setting the table?

A. No. These implements are brought to the table with the dessert course itself.

Q. We are planning a big reception in our new home, and are wondering if it would be all right to send invitations to some of our new neighbors some of whom we haven't as yet had the opportunity to speak to or meet?

A. No. Properly, you wait for your new neighbors to call on you before extending them any social invitations.

Q. I've been dating a young man for some time, and now he has invited me to his home for dinner. Is it proper for me to take his mother some kind of gift, such as perhaps a box of candy?

A. While not improper, this is not necessary—nor expected.

Q. Just what is the distinction between "a la carte" and "table d'hote" on a restaurant menu?

A. When ordering "a la carte" you select any dish that appeals to you and pay for each a parate item, whereas in ordering "table d'hote" you pay a set price for the entire meal.

New Canadian stamp honors builder of CPR

On November 4th Sir Donald Alexander Smith, a man whose perseverance was vital to the completion of a promised ribbon of steel linking Canadian confederation, will be the subject of a commemorative stamp marking the 150th anniversary of his birth in Scotland in 1820.

Appointed to the Hudson's Bay Company, Smith emigrated to 1838. By the time of the Red River Uprising of 1869-70, Smith was senior officer of the Company and served as envoy to the Indians and Metis during Canadian Government during negotiations for the transfer of the Company's western territories.

Always interested in railways, Smith realized the Canadian west needed immigrants to fulfill a great potential. British Columbia had entered Confederation on the promise that a railway would be built and Smith, although not officially a member of the 1880 syndicate formed to build the line, risked his personal fortune to keep the venture afloat. The honour and recognition of his years of service came with an invitation to drive the last spike in 1885, a year before he was knighted by Queen Victoria. He was raised to the peerage as Baron Strathcona and Mount Royal in 1897 while serving as Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain a position he held until his death in 1914.

C.A.'s to need university degree to start

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Alberta has upgraded its minimum educational qualifications so that only university graduates are accepted as students of the Institute.

Mr. Lorne Baxter, president of Alberta's 1,800 chartered accountants, explained that the bulk of knowledge required of Alberta's chartered accountants has expanded many times. And to complete these ever sophisticated many accounting matters are very complex and our various tax laws (Estate tax, Excise tax, Income tax, Sales tax etc.) are becoming increasingly complicated.

Mr. Baxter added that chartered accountant services also include such things as management consulting, bankruptcies and liquidations, estate planning and assistance in preparing corporates and computer services.

There are no restrictions as to the sex of Arts faculty graduates, Carnegie Books in Administration, Law, Arts, Science, Education and Engineering are all available.

Rebirth of Our Past

by C. J. Harris

What country in the world has had the longest continuous series of birth records?

Canadians might reasonably guess it would be one of the cold countries France, Belgium, Germany, Russia, Finland, Wales, Surprisingly, the answer is Canada. A register of births, deaths and marriages was opened in Quebec in 1621 — the year when such records have been kept for more than three centuries.

What's behind the set item is that the Library is now collecting records of the province of Alberta. Search for documents of the Four generations from three angles

Four generation pictures are noteworthy enough to cause a certain amount of comment, but Hans Huseby of Holden recently found himself at the head of three different sets of four generations. Seated right is Mr. Huseby's daughter, Mrs. Paddy Francoeur, with three of her sons ranged behind: left to right, Raymond, Greg, and Jim. Standing beside Mr. Huseby is his great-grandson, David, son of Ray, with great-granddaughter Tracey standing beside her sister, three-months-old Shawn, daughters of Jim, while Mr. Huseby and Greg are holding the two-months-old twin sons, Doug and Dan, of the latter.

Ryley couple celebrate their 50th anniversary

(Mrs. Ruth Davies)

Friends and relatives gathered at the Ryley Community Hall on August 8th to honor Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pudlarcuzy on their 50th wedding anniversary.

The room was tastefully decorated with streamers and the table was centred with a three tiers of wedding cake which was made by Mrs. Marylin Pudlarcuzy and decorated by Mr. Marvin Kolenko.

The happy couple was seated at the table with their attendants Mrs. Nancy Lukkien of Edmonton, and Mr. Dan Sonnichsen also of Edmonton. Father Switen, Father McCarthy, Mike Kushnerick and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Krupchicki were the other guests at the head table.

Walter Krupchicki was master of ceremonies for the evening and Robert Whitford took many pictures.

Mrs. Pudlarcuzy chose for this special occasion a peau-de-crepe dress with corsage of yellow roses. Her bridesmaid, Nancy Lukkien, chose a blue lace dress with a corsage of pink roses.

Curlers meet on October 9

The annual meeting of the Tofield Curling Club will be held on Friday October 9th, at the curling rink. Reports will be given and election of officers will be held for the coming year.

Plans will be made for the coming year as to how curling will be carried on this year. It was never satisfied with the powerline last year. It is the meeting for everybody to come and voice their opinions. It is hoped to get curling underway by November 1st for Journalism Administration.

Guest speaker for the occasion was the Hon. A. O. Aalborg, Provincial Treasurer, while SAIT's president, P. C. Jorgenson, presented the diplomas.

Another important issue to be discussed is whether the club will be prepared to put on a league again the third week in November.

27 Tofield students honored at graduation

On September 19 the Community Hall was the scene of the Tofield High School graduation ceremonies for 1970.

After a delightful banquet, served by the graduates and their parents, ladies of the Tofield Legion and Canadian Legion, the graduates were ushered in to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" played by Mrs. Ken Lukkien.

Master of ceremonies Mr. Floyd Dixon introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. Clifford Disley, Manager of Consumer Relations of United Farmers of Alberta, Calgary.

Mr. Disley pointed out that the theme used by the Graduation Committee "Where Are You?" is particularly appropriate in 1970, with so many questions and anxiety raised upon the high school graduates. A sense of direction has become more vitally necessary. Gone are the days when parents could continued, more or less, the pattern of education laid down by their parents. Today's graduates are confronted with a different set of circumstances which seek to upset traditional values.

There is evidence that the hippy movement is declining, he claimed, but the rapid increase in the use of drugs is increasing.

He asserted very strongly that it is possible to achieve happiness and success in one line of work, if initiative and perseverance are applied. Success in one's chosen field will depend upon their efforts, the graduates were urged to meet the challenges of the future with enthusiasm and confidence.

Mr. Eastlick then awarded diplomas to the graduates giving the audience a brief outline of each graduate's future plans. Ed Wiens, Students' Union President for 1969-70, presented class pins and congratulations on behalf of the SU.

Under the direction of vice-Principal Mr. Jack Lampitt, a very capable committee of grade eleven students took complete charge of all arrangements for this year's graduation ceremonies. Chairman was Miss Judy Skinner, with the committee comprising Rita Dickson, May Dykeman, Judy Langhans, Jan Murray, Linda Nesbitt, Kathy Reid and Barb Dawson. Also to be congratulated in their outstanding success family were presented by their son, Frank. A bouquet of flowers from the grandchildren was presented by Terry Reid, and many cards were received from relatives and friends.

All of the family were present. Frank and John came from Waiham, Henry from Ryley, and Bert from Calgary. Also present were Anne Shuld of Dayland, Sister M. Bruno from Indiana, Sr. Bernice Kozlowski, and 22 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Pudlarcuzy came from Poland in 1936 to make their home here.

Dorin leads rodeo riders

Eyde Dorin of Bruce has an excellent chance to repeat being his 1969 triumph as world house racing champion on the rodeo circuit.

The Bruce native has collected $1,417 in winnings to date this year to lead Pat McHugh who has earned $1,077 with Dorin more modest sum of $1,060 in 1969 season.

Ten of Bruce rodeos are scheduled for Lacombe, Viking and Vermilion.

MacDuff Ottawa report

Trudeau trouble

OTTAWA, Sept 28 The problems of the Progressive Conservatives with the leadership of the Party have attracted so much attention in recent weeks and occupied so much newspaper space as well as getting prominent mention on TV and radio, that little attention has been paid to the Liberals. They, too, have a problem.

However, the Liberals are always much more clever at keeping their problems under cover than the Tories. The Grits fight their battles in private, behind closed doors. They don't like to wash their linen in public.

But the Tories have no monopoly on leadership squabbles. Now that Lester B. Pearson is safely retired and travelling around the world keeping busy in an international job, as well as occupying the chancellorship of the University of Carleton, Liberals talk freely about the worries they had over his leadership of the Party. Members of his Cabinet notably one lady in particular have talked in private and written in public of the battles that went on behind the walls of the East Block.

NOT ALL PEACHES AND CREAM

It now appears very evident that there were many Liberals in high places who were very dissatisfied with Mr. Pearson's leadership. However, they confess that everytime they got to the point of raising a big beef in caucus, the charm of the man overcame them and like the rest of the Liberals they applauded and cheered to show their support.

Among themselves, however, they complained and argued. They did not like many of the policies developed by the Liberals under Pearson, but like sheep they went along with the government. At election times, however, when Mr. Pearson and his government failed to win majorities, they both acheed and muttered that the party needed a bold new leader, able to capture the imagination of the Canadian electorate and win a substantial majority.

FITTED THE BILL

So it was that when the media began to publicize Pierre Elliot Trudeau as the most likely successor to Pearson and the "swing pass" across the country adopted "P.E.T." as the kind of political leader they liked, the rank and file Liberals began to go along with the idea. In addition he was a French-Canadian and it would be in keeping with the Liberal tradition to have a French-Canadian succeed an English-speaking Canadian in the post of leader.

Added to that was the suggestion not made by Trudeau but, circulated by his followers, that Mr. Trudeau could resolve the Quebec problem and keep that province inside Confederation. Many English speaking Canadians decided themselves with the thought that he would "put French Canada in its place". Mr. Trudeau to give him his due, sought to discourage this notion during the election campaign, but with little success.

SAME OLD STORY

Now that Mr. Trudeau has been in office for over two years leading a majority Federal Government, there are many Liberals who are beginning to wonder if they made a terrible mistake when they selected Trudeau as leader. The problem Separatism has not faded away under his leadership. [illegible]

Beaver Council meets

Following are minutes in brief, of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 held Thursday, September 10:

Present were Crs Brissard Gilmore Johnston, Knudsleve, Krupelnicki, Rudelich and Sears.

The meeting was called to order by the Reeve, Cr. Rudelich, at 9:00 a.m.

There was some question from members of the Council when or on hospital boards as to what should be done with the requisitions now that the Department of Health has picked up the 1969 deficit.

The Secretary-Treasurer was ordered to get the opinion of the Department of Municipal Affairs on whether or not the balance of the requisition for 1970 would be paid.

Cr. Roddick mentioned that Viking Lodge is filling up again. The rates were increased in August, however, there is still an operating deficit.

A letter from the Department of Agriculture, Water Resources Division, indicated that they have contacted Mr. Lou Krueger of P.F.R.A. in regard to the gates on the Beaverhill Flood Control Project. The letter indicated that Mr. Krueger would be contacting us in this matter.

A letter from Mr. Olaf Bruce District Manager of Federal Grain Limited, was read objecting to the removal of the street lights in the Hamlet of Duffield. He suggested that they would like to have at least one light left at this station.

The County Council felt that it has some obligation in providing light in this place; however, Calgary Power will not supply street lights for less than three lights, and this is too much for one resident.

The Council suggested that possibly it could supply a farm yard light, and it could be hooked to Federal Grain's power supply. The County would supply the light and the operation would be the responsibility of Federal Grain.

Moved and carried that we contact Federal Grain and see if they will accept this type of arrangement.

The Secretary-Treasurer advised that he had contacted Calgary Power Ltd. with regard to the use of Calgary Power poles for a fire alarm system in the Hamlet of Bruce. Mr. Gordon Hay, Manager of Calgary Power in Camrose had advised that they would have no objection to us using their poles providing their men do the installation.

A letter from the Workmen's Compensation Board indicated that the County had received a maximum merit rebate of 33⅓% of the assessment as they had a very good year in regard to claims. The rebate amounted to $1,495.66.

A letter from Jubilee Insurance Agencies Limited advised that the county and municipal councils should be using the Bridge Branch engineers in checking their off-highway bridges.

A letter from Whistler Petroleums Limited advised that they are going to do some drilling in Township 52, in Ranges 16-17, 18 and 19.

A copy of a letter was presented from the Department of Highways advising that permission had been received from the Alberta Gas Trunk Line Ltd. for permission to build a compressor station in Sec. 5-51-16-W4.

A letter from the Viking Curling Association requested help in replacing the roof on the Viking Curling Rink, which had been damaged in the hail storm.

As far as no help is available from the County Council it was moved and carried that the correspondence be received and filed.

A report from the P.F.A. showed that the anticipated yields in the County for 1970 would be 15 bushels per acre, with the exception of that portion of the County which was hailed out, and that this portion would be nil.

Cr. Knudsleve had requested assistance from the Water Resources Branch for technical assistance for a drainage project in the N.W. 16-50-17-W4th. He had had Mr. Williams of the Water Resources Branch check this project, and they would like to drain the water through the east ditch of the road allowance from the N.W. 16-50-17-W4th to the S.W. 28-50-17-W4th. Mr. Williams had checked this and felt that there should be no particular difficulty in this project, providing the owners of the property are in agreement.

Moved and carried that the County Council has no objection to this drainage project.

Cr. Knudsleve had contacted the Water Resources Branch in regard to the cleaning of the Round Hill Drainage Ditch. This had been referred to the County Council some time ago, and the Council felt that they had some responsibility in keeping this ditch clean. Cr. Knudsleve had the Water Resources Branch engineers check this out and they would provide information on it at a later date.

Moved and carried that this matter be referred to a later meeting, when the estimate given from the Department of Water Resources is received.

A letter from Jubilee Insurance Agencies Ltd requested the County Council to advise them if they are in favor of a group life insurance policy for the County employees.

It was mentioned that this had been discussed before and no interest appeared to be evident among the public works employees.

Moved and carried that this correspondence be received and filed, and no action taken.

A letter from Mel Warren and Garnet Burnstad advised that the towns and villages along Highway 14 in Alberta and along Highway 40 in Saskatchewan were interested in getting together to try to put some pressure on the provincial governments to complete the paving of these two high ways. A preliminary meeting was called for September 30 at 8:00 p.m. in the Wainwright Town Office.

Moved and carried that Crs Johnston, Brissard and Roddick attend this meeting.

A letter from the Canadian National Railways in regard to the closure of Tofield was read. This letter indicated that the C.N.R. would be prepared to accept $734.00 for their property on the north side of the track in the hamlet site of Tofield.

Moved and carried that we proceed to purchase the property from the C.N.R.

By-law No. 318 in regard to the purchase of the C.N.R. property in Tofield, was presented, and three readings

Moved and carried that the following amendments to the Form A's be approved: S.E. 22-50-16-W4, North 3 miles and East ½ mile, regravel, $9,000; S.E. 23-16-W4, North 2 miles, regravel, $2,000; S.E. 26-50-16-W4 East 4 miles regravel, $4,000; South of 2-51-17-W4 1 mile regravel, $375. South of 15-51-17-W4 1 mile regravel, $400; S.E. 16-51-19-W4 North ½ mile regravel, $375.

GOT A COMPLAINT?

Consumers are wise to adopt a constructive attitude when registering complaints against their purchases.

An important point has been brought forward by the Consumers Association of Canada (CAC). As consumers perhaps you'll find it valuable.

A consumer should not neglect to lodge a complaint when one is due. A responsible manufacturer will not knowingly produce unsatisfactory merchandise; a responsible retailer will not knowingly sell it. You will be doing both the manufacturer and other consumers a service when you make dissatisfaction known to them.

Adopt a constructive attitude when registering a problem. The attitude of all consumers, whether CAC members or not, determine the public image of the Consumers' Association of Canada and the influence of this organization.

Following are some tips on how to register an effective complaint:

1. If you are angry, cool off.
2. If possible, return the merchandise to the retailer from whom you bought it.
3. Explain your problem personally or by a pleasant letter to the manager, buyer or other person in charge not the sales clerk. Be fair and honest, exaggeration defeats itself.
4. If necessary, write to the manufacturer.
5. If reasonable settlement or explanation is not obtained from any of these sources, write to CAC Consumers' Association of Canada, Box 5112, Edmonton, Alberta, or The Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department, Box 99, Ottawa, Ontario.
6. Keep a copy of all correspondence. When writing about unsatisfactory merchandise know and state clearly: (a) the correct name of the product the manufacturer and his address (b) any model serial or batch number, (c) size, quality or grade where applicable, (d) if canned or packaged, the code number from the can or package (e) store where purchased with address (f) date of purchase (g) price of merchandise (h) the nature of your complaint (i) and how you have handled it so far (with copies of correspondence if possible).

As consumers, we all have obligations to ourselves and our nation to be informed and to be discriminating in our purchases. The demand of consumers determine the quality of goods and services we receive.

TO LITTLE BLACK BOX

A little black box which warns a driver whenever he deviates from his driving norm promises to become an important factor in highway safety. The robot gadget beeps a drowsing motorist into wakefulness and flashes an amber caution light when he drives recklessly.

How does it work? The developer of the unit found each driver has a definite pattern of steering wheel reversals as personal as a fingerprint. The reversals slow down when you drowse and speed up considerably when you're tense. The pattern is so distinct, drivers tend to adjust their speeds according to their rate of wheel reversals rather than the other way around.

The robot simply picks up a pattern during the first few minutes of operation stores it then measures up the rest of your driving against it.

Mrs. Plumptre's list of qualities that an ombudsman should have is the same as those listed by the Canadian Consumer Council and a Member of the Canadian Consumer Council.

Mrs. A.F.W. Plumptre says:

"Advertising can be helpful or harmful, economic or wasteful?"

"Consumers and housewives," says Mrs. Plumptre, "surrounded by the opportunities offered by new and improved products, need all the help that advertising honest, informative, imaginative advertising can offer.

"They need more knowledge about the qualities of the goods they are buying, and in a form that helps them to make sensible choices between one product and another.

"Much advertising does this, but much does not. All too often advertising obscures the real qualities of the product, while appealing to strong but largely irrelevant motives, such as vanity, cupidity and sex. A product that has been sold on the basis that consumers are morons is unlikely to command continuing consumer respect.

"The advertising industry has a great opportunity and a great responsibility to guide advertising TOWARDS forms where interests of producers and consumers coincide . . . and AWAY from forms where they are in conflict."

Do you agree with Mrs. Plumptre's views? Here's how you can add your voice to hers:

Below is a coupon addressed to the Advertising Standards Council in Toronto.

If you mail it to them, they will send you back - free - a copy of the Advertising industry's Code of Ethics.

These "rules of good behaviour" have been adopted, by advertisers, to serve as a guide to truthful, sensible advertising practices.

Each copy of this Code contains a complaint notice.

If you see an advertisement that you think breaks or seriously bends the rules in the Code of Ethics, do the advertiser a favour: send in a complaint notice.

If there seems to be a violation of the Code, the complaint notice will swiftly be brought to the attention of the Company's officials, and if necessary, corrective action will be taken.

Mail this coupon today. It is your chance to do something positive about advertising.

County School Committee briefs

Following are the minutes, in part of the regular meeting of the County of Beaver No. 9 School Committee, held September 8.

Present were: Cy Bittsard, Gibson, Johnston, Knudsen, Kuzniehkl, Reddick and Sr. s. t. Nord. H. C. Wilkie, J. Allen and N. Semchuk, representing towns and villages, and Martin Bruce, Superintendent of Schools.

The meeting was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the chairman, Cy Ruddick.

Copies of the Bus Cost Surveys were distributed to the School Committee members. This survey revealed that contract buses cost the County 36.49c a mile to operate, as opposed to County-owned buses at 32.99c.

Mr Bruce advised that Mrs. Jane Wayne has been appointed as school secretary at Ryley School.

Mr. Cross reported on the Building Program. He advised that he had worked out all the details on the Industrial Arts addition at Viking and arrived at a total of approximately $31,771. The grant for this work would be $24,695 for construction and $5,376 for equipment.

It was moved and carried that we proceed with the Viking Industrial Arts Building Program.

There was some discussion on planning of new construction and renovations at the Tofield and Ryley Schools.

Moved and carried that the Superintendent discuss the building program for Tofield and Ryley with Mr Groves, of Aberdeen Groves & Hodgson, and advise him that we wish to have the new construction built within the grant.

A.S.T.A. Newsletter was referred to the School Committee.

Moved and carried that this newsletter be received and filed, and that Mr. Wilkie and Mr Bruce attend the Canadian Association's Annual Convention in Edmonton.

A letter was received from the A.S.T.A. concerning a one-day conference to be held on Saturday, October 10, commencing at 9:00 a.m., on the Commission on Education Planning.

Moved and carried that Cr Sears attend this conference.

A letter was received from the Deputy Secretary-Treasurer of the Edmonton Public Schools advising that the following non-resident fees will be applicable to other boards and institutions for the 1970-71 school term: Elementary, $100 per term; Jr. High, $130 per term; Sr. High, $160 per term; Special Classes $435 per term. There was considerable discussion on non-resident fees, as to whether the County should pay these fees or whether these fees should be the responsibility of those attending these special classes.

Moved and carried that a policy be written on non-resident fees and presented at the October School Committee Meeting.

Correspondence was received from Jubilee Insurance Agencies Ltd concerning the use of school buses and the problems which can arise out of the use of school buses for other than the transportation of students for educational purposes. At present, County of Beaver buses are not used for any activities that are not for educational purposes.

Letters were received from Brian Kim Eastlick of Tofield and Doris Pinke of Holden expressing their appreciation to those responsible for enabling them to visit Montreal in the Young Voyageur Travel Program.

A letter was received from the Department of Education advising that the School Act of 1970 places the responsibility for enforcement of compulsory attendance on the School Board or County Council. The attendance officer must be an employee of the School Committee

It was reported that regulations respecting the payment of grants in lieu of transportation and maintenance have been increased to a maximum sum of $2.50 per day.

Moved and carried that the School Committee increase the maximum maintenance allowance to $2.50 per day.

Moved and carried that we concur in the action of the Superintendent in sending pupils resident to the Ardrossan Health Unit to school facilities for its dental program.

Modern etiquette

Q. I was brought up to believe that a "lady" never phones a "gentleman". Does this rule apply when he has phoned her home during her absence and has left his number for a return call?

A. Correctly, the rule to which you refer applies to phone calls made to men for no good reason at all . . . just to chat. Under the circumstances you describe, however, it is perfectly proper and logical for her to return the call if she wishes.

Q. Is it proper to introduce my stepmother and stepsister as "my mother" and "my sister"?

A. Depends if the relationship is especially close and affectionate you may wish to do so and perfectly properly. Otherwise, you refer to them as "my stepmother" and "my stepsister."

Q. Does the figure on a cameo ring properly face the fingertips or the wrist?

A. Popularly, toward the wrist.

Q. My wife and I are accustomed to having a martini before our evening meal. Must we omit this practice when we are entertaining another couple both of whom are strict teetotalers?

A. In all consideration to your guests, you certainly should

Q. Are you supposed to leave the tissues that come inside freshly opened wedding invitations or do you remove them to be mailed them out?

A. The tissues are placed inside the envelopes by the printer to prevent blotting of the ink of the invitations in the upper part. If the invitations are smooth, printed on heavy paper there is little ink to soil the tissue and you may remove it.

GUIDE TO RURAL SAFETY
A farm operation must function smoothly in the total environment and according to plan if it is to be successful. Accidents can disrupt the best plans, despite the profits and in many instances deprive farmers of their livelihood.
To guard against such costly and crippling experiences, the farmer must incorporate safety in his management planning. As in industry, he should build a methodical, routine on-the-farm safety program of his own to minimize hazards and human errors. In this age of large investment farming, he cannot afford accidents. We must "Manage to Prevent Accidents" through informing his family and all those persons with whom he works of accident control measures.

"The Lord thy God hath placed upon the earth the wild creatures for its pleasure and benefit. Thou shalt not molest them or disturb their homes. Thou shalt protect the forests and meadows and marshes of their dwelling places, and thou shalt not pollute the waters that are theirs. Thou shalt hold their lands inviolate against the encroachment of thy cities and thy roads, and shall in all ways see that their needs are met so that they shall be able to perpetuate each one of its own kind, and none shall be exterminated from the face of the earth".

Double quota on barley delivery

WINNIPEG. The Canadian Wheat Board announced last Wednesday that delivery quotas on barley will be doubled immediately to encourage prairie producers to step up deliveries of the grain needed for export shipment.

With the increase, producers will be able to deliver a total of 10 bushels of barley per quota acre. Quota acres are based on the acreage seeded to barley this spring and any eligible acreage a producer as signed to this crop in his permit book application.

With the increased opportunity for barley deliveries, the quota position on Wheat Board grains is as follows: barley 10 bushels per quota acre; wheat grading No. 1 Northern or lower, an advance quota of two bushels per quota acre, oats, five bushels per quota acre, durum wheat, an advance quota of three bushels per quota acre.

W. C. McNamara, Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Wheat Board, asked prairie grain producers to contribute to the all-out effort being made to step up the pace of Canada's grain shipments.

Mr. McNamara pointed out that the current shipping program calls for the biggest grain movement in this country's history, but that producer deliveries of the kind of grain needed to meet export commitments have not kept pace with shipments from country elevators.

With the slow pace of producer deliveries, country elevator stocks of grain needed for shipment to terminals notably barley and oats have fallen off sharply in recent weeks.

Bonanza or blight?

The recent agreement to sell millions of dollars worth of natural gas to the United States has been hailed in many areas as a major economic blessing for this country, bringing with it countless millions of dollars worth of development in pipelines, pumping stations, treating plants, exploration and so on.

But most coins have two sides to them, and it seems the reverse of this coin isn't all that good looking. For one thing, the gas company in Lethbridge had already applied, just before the sale for a price increase of twenty percent or more, following the successful application for higher rates in the Peace River block a year or so ago, and it's a certainty that residents of Calgary and Edmonton — and Camrose won't be going to enjoy low rates very long if the Lethbridge application succeeds. It's also certain that the gas company won't be able to buy gas any cheaper as it reaches out further and further for supplies because of the U.S. sale.

It's also becoming more and more apparent that much of the huge energy export will be diverted into industrial plants, at bulk rates only slightly higher than the border crossing rates, while American homeowners pay much higher rates. So much for any hopes we may have had of using low cost fuel rates to attract industry to our part of the continent.

We can't forever live with our heads in the sand, we'll agree. But it would be nice to think we had gained some other concessions in the dickering, such as lowering of tariff walls against many other Canadian products, not the least being oil, lumber and cattle.

It's almost as though the Canadian negotiators held a straight flush and let themselves be talked out of it by the thought the other player could top them.

Mines or minds?

Canadian Mines — or at least some mines — are more important than Canadian minds, it seems, judging by the sharp contrast in action taken by the dominion government in two recent instances.

When Dominion Mines, a major supplier of uranium was about to be sold to United States dominated interests, Ottawa moved in and completely blocked the move.

But when W. J. Gage, a publisher of school texts used widely in Canada was sold to American publishing interests Ottawa sat by and did absolutely nothing.

It can be argued, of course, that other Canadian publishers still exist, and so we will have the opportunity to purchase their books. This can't be denied, but the range of choice of Canadian content will be smaller.

And it would be naive to think the Gage books won't slowly become just another set of American textbooks. They won't go through a dramatic overnight transformation because that would be rejected out of hand. But the change of a word here, a phrase there, an altered emphasis somewhere else, and the Canadian culture is downgraded — favor of the American version.

We applaud Mr. Trudeau's determination to keep the uranium Canadian, but are we to think he considers textbooks less important than mines, or newscasters, or radio stations which also can't be sold to outsiders?

SHORT CUTS:

Too high temperatures cause tough fried eggs with frizzled edges. Use lower heat.

If custard sauce separates or begins to curdle, pour mixture into a cold bowl to stop.

An eight pound turkey can be defrosted in about three hours with the low temperature oven at 150 degrees. Defrosting the same size turkey in the refrigerator would take 20 - 30 hours

Cooking lots of bacon? Try the oven method. Separate pieces and place on wire rack in baking pan. Bake without turning in a hot oven (400 degrees) ten minutes or until brown.

Adjust oven temperatures 25 degrees when using glass baking dishes

A 2 inch paint brush—with dark bristles gets the pan greasing job done faster. And it is much easier to find lost bristles. It makes barbecue basting faster, too.

Salting meat before broiling draws out the juices and toughens the meat. Add salt before serving or before turning.

Frost cupcakes in half the time: dip top of cupcake into soft frosting, twirl slightly and quickly turn right side up

Fresh bread can be sliced thin if you heat the knife in hot water

For better shaped muffins, grease bottoms only of muffin tins

Spread bread with creamed butter to keep moist. Fillings such as chicken salad from soaking into the bread

If something is too salty, the addition of lemon juice or vinegar will reduce the salty taste

To prevent gummy noodles, macaroni and spaghetti, add 2 teaspoons cooking oil to water before cooking.

Heat a lemon before squeezing and you will get twice the amount of juice

A Cheery Hi to all Ever Cleekers, Tofield and District.

Here's hoping this lovely time of year busy with harvest and gardens you will keep well and happy. So far, 1970 looks like a very reward ing year. Best of luck to one and all for the remainder of it

This little verse means a lot to me; hope you enjoy it, too

Thank God for dirty dishes
They have a tale to tell—
While others may be hungry,
We are faring very well
With health and home and happiness
I shouldn't want to fuss,
For, from the sink of evil deeds,
God has been good to us

So long, and best wishes for health and happiness

Tom Christensen wins $2,000 scholarship

by Grace Phillips

Tom Christensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Christensen of Tofield, has recently been informed that he has been awarded a four-year scholarship of $500 each year by Federated Pipe Lines Limited, Calgary, Alberta.

Tom was also the winner of the $100 scholarship for the highest marks in the 1970 grade twelve examinations in the County of Beaver which is awarded each year by the Beaver local of the Alberta Teachers' Association. This award was presented by R. K. Taylor on behalf of the local during the September grading ceremonies in Tofield. Tom's average in the June examinations was 92.2%.

At the graduation banquet, Tom also had the honor of being valedictorian for the graduating class. After thanking, on behalf of the graduates, parents and teachers for their contributions to the success of the class, Tom said, in part:

"We are now leaving the security of our homes and high school. It has been easy in the past to complain about the establishment, to criticize the system and to have high ideals. However, we will now be on our own and there may be times when our ideals may seem in danger of being shattered. We may ask ourselves, 'What can I do against world problems?' I'm only one individual. But, if you ask me, that's just one big cop-out. We don't have to be merely individuals; we can be members of a group known as the human race. It is now, while we have the freedom of youth and before we accept the responsibilities of adult life, that we should try to make the world closer to the Utopia that has been dreamed of for centuries. We all know that today's civilization is far from what we would like it to be; if it stays this way, we can blame ourselves.

"Obviously, we cannot hope to change conditions all over the world overnight. But if you see or hear of intolerance, don't say to yourself, 'I don't want to get involved.' Make your views heard; you are involved. Try to treat others with the respect that you expect from them. Try to develop the capacity for empathy to emphasize, the ability to put yourself in the other person's position, and to imagine how he looks at the situation.

"I would like to close with a quotation from William Shakespeare's 'Hamlet': 'This above all, to thine own self be true. Thou canst not then be false to any man.' Let's make the graduating class of 1970 a class to be proud of".

Tom is now enrolled at the University of Alberta in the faculty of Honors Zoology.

Rapeseed in cattle ration not serious

Does volunteer rapeseed in beef cattle roughage or grain rations cause any difficulties?

According to Jerome Martin, nutritionist with the Alberta animal industry division, the answer is no, except for a possible palatability problem. He explains that the rumen in cattle and sheep can cope with the potential toxic factors in rapeseed. However, a large percentage of mature rape plants in hay or pasveed could cut down the palatability of this feed.

What percentage of rapeseed can be allowed in beef cattle rations? There is no definite answer to this question, Mr. Martin says. As far as he knows there has not been any study done on the rapeseed rape seed in beef cattle feed. Although rapeseed is used in feeding and energy so far it has been checked only from the point of view of oil content, it seems other feed. Work could therefore be used to a good protein in beef cattle rations, as are probably other good sources of protein. Mr. Martin.

We checked rapeseed in ... that some work has been done recently by the University of Alberta on rapeseed in feeding rations. In the experiment it was found that 5 per cent rapeseed the weight slightly depressed the performance of market ... but ... not the performance ... Hutterites. How ... small amount ... should definitely ... to be ... to breeding stock.

Take a close look at the animals visiting the zoo, and why the hyena laughs constantly, will become evident.

Serving the Public

How many Canadians work for governments of one kind or another?

More, it would seem than most of us ever imagine. Crown Corporations and other public agencies are included.

A breakdown recently compiled on the basis of latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics information gives the following approximate picture (approximate because there is some variance in the dates of records):

Category	Number
Federal (includes Armed Corporations
Proprietary Corporations Departments
Other Agencies	371,197
Provincial	537,020
Municipal	197,826
Armed Forces	81,045
Teachers	246,867
Professors	27,000
Hydro	45,570
CNR	78,850
Air Canada	17,176
Police	36,974
Fire Services (including Part-time)	60,000
TOTAL	1,694,886

Interestingly enough the total of nearly 1.5 million Canadians in the public service is not far short of equalling the number who work in manufacturing, the nation's largest single productive employer and wealth producer.

It also means that nearly one of every five working Canadians is currently employed in the public sector of the economy, providing services in a some shape or form.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack White attended the Crosby Lumber Co. service award dinner at the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton on Wednesday evening, at which time Jack received recognition for 30 years continuous service with the company.

Tofield and Ryley hold elections Wednesday

Elections were held yesterday (Wednesday) in Tofield and Ryley, but an election was not needed in Holden as both candidates had been elected by acclamation on nomination day.

TOFIELD

Only one incumbent tried and won a seat on Town Council while two newcomers were elected in yesterday's election. In all, five candidates contested the contest for the three seats.

Incumbent Arne Klassen was re-elected to serve a one-year term as he polled 123 votes. Newcomer Marvin Bruce led the race with 133 votes. The other candidate elected was Murray Troyer as he polled 105 votes.

Losing candidates Peter Van Stackelberg and Neil Iverson polled 32 and 28 votes respectively. Arnold Swift and Lloyd Cribbs, holders of seats prior to the election did not run. Mr. Swift retired after 21 years on Council while Mr. Cribbs did not contest the election because he had moved to Sherwood Park.

RYLEY

A three-candidate election saw two, including an incumbent elected to office on Village Council following Wednesday's voting.

Incumbent Ed Allsvelt finished with 124 votes to assure himself of a one-year term of office. Mr. Allsvelt has been a member of the Viking Council for over ten years.

Newcomer to civic politics, Keith Robson led the polls as he picked up a total of 134 votes in yesterday's election. Paul Kushnir, another newcomer to local politics, polled 85 votes.

Jorgen Davick did not contest the election after serving for one year because he was away on business on nomination day.

HOLDEN

No election was necessary in Holden as two candidates were declared "elected by acclamation" on nomination day when no other candidates contested the two vacancies.

Incumbents John Semeniuk and Lars Olsen were both elected to seats on Village Council for one-year terms. Both have served on Council since 1964. All elected candidates will serve one-year terms as all seats will become vacant in 1971.

Hoveland resigns

The Village of Holden is looking for a new secretary treasurer.

Ray Hoveland, secretary treasurer since March 1, 1961 has tendered his resignation and will be moving away to a new position.

No official announcement has been given for Mr. Hoveland's resignation, but it is understood that he has tentatively accepted another position in another centre.

Fire damages Holden house

by Mrs. G. M. Taylor

Fire of unknown origin caused some damage to a house in Holden owned by United Management of Calgary on Sunday afternoon.

The house, rented between the Felix Olasek and Leo Kozdrowski residences, has been vacant for several years and was one of the older buildings in the village.

The fire started in the upper part of the transitory structure and caused some damage to two walls and the roof. Few flames were visible, although a great deal of black smoke emerged from the blaze.

The Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm and, aided by a lack of wind were able to bring the fire under control within an hour after the alarm had sounded.

13 injured in collision

by Ruth Davick

Eleven children and two adults were injured, while an other fourteen children escaped injury, in a car-bus collision near Ryley on Thursday morning.

The accident took place on a rural intersection about six miles south of Ryley, when a school bus driven by Joe Wagner of Ryley was in collision with a car driven by John Kost of Hairy Hill.

Both drivers, as well as eleven children aboard the bus were taken to Tofield Hospital where they were treated for assorted cuts and bruises and then released. Another fourteen children aboard the bus were shaken up, but did not require treatment.

Outside damage to the car was severely damaged, while it was possible that the bus may be a complete writeoff. No charges are being contemplated by the RCMP.

Curlers set cash 'spiel

The Tofield Curling Club will start the 1970-71 curling season with a big cash bonspiel offering $1,200 in prize money.

This was the decision made last week at the Club's annual meeting. A 32 rink limit will be placed on the spiel which will have a $70.00 entry fee. Information on the spiel may be garnered by contacting Andy Hebbes or Marvin Bruce.

Marvin Bruce was elected to head the club during the coming season while Tom Lyle was named vice-president with Stan Bodner selected as secretary and John Wall named as treasurer.

Elected as directors were Ron Goeglein, Walter Neufeld, Ron Williams and Allan Wiebe. The hospital, to be known as the Satellite Cash Bonspiel will be held from November 11 to 15 with curling in the evenings, except Saturday and Sunday when it will also include the afternoons.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. with coffee and doughnuts being served. Following this, Charles McKinnon, well-known rancher, will welcome visitors on behalf of XL Agrobeef, along with Dr. Robert E. Walker, president, American Breeders Service Inc., Deforest, Wisconsin.

At 11:30 a.m. a panel discussion will be held on "The New Breeds" Moderator is Dr. Ray Berg, Prof. of Animals Science, U. of A., Edmonton. Members of the panel are:

CLC Homecoming will commence this Friday

Camrose Lutheran College will hold its annual Homecoming festivities Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week, although the climax of the annual celebration, for many, will come on Saturday evening with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

Ten students are seeking the crown, with the winner being crowned at special ceremonies at the Convocation Centre by the 1969 Queen, Sharon Johnson of Camrose. One girl was forced to withdraw from the competition because of ill health.

The ten contestants are Elaine Bergman, Stettler; Katherine Bishop, Edmonton; Barbara Booth, Red Deer; Ruth Dahlen, Camrose; Beth Gilmore, Minneapolis; Jeri Hurlburt, Camrose; Sandy Kuzyk, Vegreville; Paulette Lewezyk, High Prairie; Marilyn Ostrem, Edmonton; Trudy Paulgaard, Provost.

The girls attended a smorgasbord at Pete's Place and a tea and reception at the James Hoveland residence on Tuesday evening. They will be participating in a talent show tomorrow (Thursday) evening, will attend a bean bake and hootenanny on Friday, and be introduced at the Vikings-Grande Prairie football game Saturday afternoon.

The Homecoming Queen will receive vouchers from the following Camrose business firms Van Carr Fishers, Betty Shop, Cecile's, Pete's Place, Kan-O-Theatre and Lawrence's, while all contestants will receive a gift from the Bailey Theatre

Judges named to select the 1970 Homecoming Queen are Mrs. Nellie Hoveland, Dr. Ken MacQuarrie, Mrs. Mary Orr, Pete Shepert and Mrs. Laurette Shuttleworth

The talent show, set for tomorrow evening, is an annual affair although it is not officially part of the Homecoming activities. The show will commence at 7:30 p.m. in the Convocation Centre and is open to the public.

On Friday evening, a bean feed and hootenanny is scheduled, with the music of the Sisters of Seven and The New Wine Singers featured.

The Alumni Association will meet Saturday morning and, among business to attend to will be an election of officers. The annual football game will start at 2:30 p.m. and will be followed by a reception and banquet, and the day will climax with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen in the Convocation Centre at 8:00 o'clock.

The annual three-day celebration will wind up with a worship service at Messiah Lutheran Church on Sunday morning.

Chairing the 1970 Homecoming Committee is Mrs. James (Agnes) Hoveland, of Camrose.

Watch out for the "deals"

There will always be a minority group of unscrupulous operators who prey upon human gullibility and weaknesses!

An example of this was reported recently in The Edmonton Journal, under the heading "Drinkers Selling Tax Refunds". It may be perfectly legal to take advantage of a man who has a weakness for liquor, but it must be considered unethical to take advantage of such people to make a profit.

Another may be an offer of a FREE color TV with the purchase of other goods to a pre-stated value. However, the "lucky" person must sign a Conditional Sales Contract for the price of the TV, (which is sold to a finance company), and then the firm will reimburse the purchaser in monthly payments????

Or, customers sign a contract for a beautiful album of family photos, the photos to be supplied free over a stated period of time. The photos are supplied by a local photographer who enters the arrangement on the basis he will be getting a lot of new customers, who will undoubtedly order more than the free photographs. Sometimes it doesn't work out that way, and the firm frequently approaches photographer may find it is a losing proposition, but the sales organization has already made their profit.

Students who are interested in earning money in their spare time are invited to this offering. Be many careful before you buy! Investigate. They are there to assist that they are actually selling, not just filling orders on sales contracts. These young people would ask themselves why the firm are hiring students, and why fellow citizens who may use the services of Ladies' church groups and other clubs who are interested in making money for their club's activities are usually ed with a deal whereby they can obtain a quantity of cook books free which they can sell to their neighbors and friends. They find it is important to read all the terms of the contract very carefully, and they also find they are committing a representative of the club to accompany a sales representative of the firm who solicits advertising from local business firms, in the name of the club. The local firms may not be able to see the advantage of this type of advertising, and may feel they are being pressured by the club.

MacDuff Ottawa Report

OTTAWA, Oct. 12. When those kidnappings were happening in South America or in the Middle East, everyone felt it was too bad and that was about it; we were sorry but it was soon forgotten. This time though, it happened right here in Canada, in Montreal; things are different, something must be done.

Some, like External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, will say that the criminals who kidnapped Richard Cross must be caught and brought to justice, the sooner the better.

Of course, these people are quite right. But nevertheless they are forgetting that they have said the same things a couple of years ago when the members of the "Front de Liberation du Quebec" were planting bombs all over Montreal.

What happened then was that a few members of the FLQ were arrested and jailed. But that did not stop the movement, and as a matter of fact it grew worse up to the point where it is now openly blackmailing governments, both Ottawa and Quebec.

How did this come about? Surely the easiest way to clear up our conscience would be to say that it is in no way our government's fault, that we have absolutely no responsibility of any kind in this matter. We could then add, like Real Caouette did, that this is the work of a few fanatics, of a few "crackpots."

Maybe this is so, but it sounds a bit too easy. Politicians are always looking for scapegoats, for someone else to take the blame for their failures. Again they will probably succeed. But this should not, as it did before, make us forget that what happened in Montreal on October the fifth was in many ways predictable, and that worse can happen in the future.

The story of separatism and terrorism in Quebec didn't after all begin on October the fifth 1970; neither did the story of violence, be it physical or verbal. Blackmail? Well this is nothing new either.

During the forties and the fifties Quebec politicians tried their best to make sure that nothing would change in their province; those were the days of Maurice Duplessis and of his fights for provincial autonomy.

Then came the sixties, Jean Lesage and the quiet revolution. Quiet? Well not that much! Suddenly, everything was wrong, everything had to be changed. There were at the time tremendous problems that needed urgent solutions mainly because so little had been done in the past.

But while Lesage and his Liberals were trying to get the economy moving, while they were transforming in a drastic fashion the educational system, while they were giving hope to many segments of the population, they were also trying to cover up some of their mishaps by pretending that they didn't have sufficient powers.

So they started complaining about the Canadian constitution, and they tried to work out formulas like the special status or the associated states.

Then came Daniel Johnson and his slogan: "Egalite ou Independance". "Equality or independance". This may not be blackmail in its best form but it surely can qualify in that category.

If Lesage could count on some brilliant minds to back him up, Johnson couldn't hope for the same, his cabinet being one of the weakest Quebec ever had. L'Union Nationale not knowing where it was heading everyone was then just about five in think what it wanted and to act accordingly.

Of course when the bombs were exploding in Montreal, the Minister of Justice was getting nervous, but calling names never solved any problem.

One must not forget either that at that time Ottawa and Quebec were always fighting each other and verbally they were doing what the FLQ was doing physically. Or, to put it in a milder form, they were making nearly as much noise as the bombs.

It is such a climate that terrorism was born and survived in Quebec. If it is to die, our political leaders must prove and without a doubt that Quebec has a better future in Canada than out of it. If they act as they did in the past, chances are that the FLQ will do as it did, that is keep quiet for a while, find some new members, and then strike again.

Beef consumption in Canada is expected to rise by at least 30 pounds per person per year by 1985.

IS EARLY RETIREMENT A BIG BUSINESS MYTH?

"Look before you leap into early retirement," warns Jim Vernon, editor of Plant Administration/Engineering business publication.

Looking at the problem from the company management viewpoint, he studied the effect of early retirements on productivity.

"Would it really make way for new men coming up," he asked, "or would it merely hurt rather than help a company's economic position?"

He noted the pressures are building steadily for more time off, a shorter work week, earlier retirement.

But Vernon says industry should assess the matter carefully before "blindly" following demands. He figures that companies 'misguided' enough to allow retirement at age 55 would lose an additional 2,000 days of production per man, plus and additional 15 per cent in lost time due to holidays, vacations and sick pay benefits. This would mean the company would be deprived of the man's working ability 35 per cent of the time between ages of 55 and 65.

One company official calls this "time paid for but not worked" and maintains that the natural demand for more leisure is in danger of causing big economic trouble. As he puts it: "There is a point beyond which productivity can't stand more absences."

And that's the way it has tasted for nearly half a century So next time call for Lethbridge Pil. Enjoy your own Great Moments with Alberta s original Pilsner.

Modern etiquette

Q. How are the coutumes of the mother of the bride and the groom dressed upon?

A. It's best for the two mothers to decide this between them, and the bride's mother has the first choice of color. They usually choose dresses similar in style both short or both long, and compl mentary in color, suited to the hour of the ceremon.

Q. Quite often in bridge games I am involved in, the person who wins the bid will pass his cards across the table to his partner for his analysis before beginning his play. Do you think this is proper?

A. Definitely not. This delays the play and is inconsiderate of the defending players.

Q. What do you think about a woman's rising from her chair when acknowledging an introduction?

A. While not required nor generally expected, still I myself like to see a woman rise when acknowledging an introduction. It seems to indicate a more genuine pleasure over the meeting.

Hockey club seeks league

The Tofield Senior Hockey Club at a meeting last week, decided to look for a league in which they could play during the 1970-71 season.

Club officials estimate that between twenty and thirty players are interested in playing hockey this coming winter. Officials consider this as excellent, as the club was only reorganized this past spring.

Three new members were added to the club's executive. They are Dave Lamplit, Victor Rudicki and Ken Stauffer.

Club members decided to hold a dance at the Lindbrook Hall on Saturday, Oct. 31, at which time the winning ticket on the Hereford heifer will be drawn. Proceeds from the dance will be used to purchase goalie equipment and to cover expenses of entering a league.

Tourist group plans meeting

The third annual meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association has been set for Camrose on Wednesday, Oct. 28.

President William Fowler announced that the meeting will be held at Pete's Place, commencing at 6:00 o'clock. A reception hour will be held prior to the dinner meeting and will start at six o'clock.

Maurice Methot, District Sales Manager for Air Canada, will be the guest speaker during the meeting.

Book Week dates set

On Monday, November 16, Young Canada's Book Week will be celebrated in Tofield by a production at the Community Hall.

1970 is the centenary of Charles Dickens' death and, in common with numerous cities and towns all over the world, the Library Board, the school and the Community League are collaborating to honour this giant among English authors.

Anyone who has seen the recent movie "Oliver" can readily appreciate that as a story teller he is hard to beat, and once having made the acquaintance of some of his characters, who can forget them?

Don't forget to circle this date on your calendar — this will be a family night, there will be no charge for admission, and watch The Mercury for further details of the forthcoming attraction.

Council nominations are being sought

Wednesday, October 28th is Nomination Day for those two bodies in the County of Beaver.

Five seats of W. D. Johnson, Wallis, Krupchinski and Charlie Sears in Divisions 1, 4 and 7 respectively, have expired and councillors elected to fill these vacancies will serve a one-year term as all seats will become vacant in 1971.

According to reports, all three incumbents will seek to retain their seats and, as yet, it appears that they will be opposed.

Nominations will be accepted at the County Office from ten o'clock in the morning until noon.

Mr. Johnston is the senior incumbent as he has served for 15 years. Prior to that, he had been a councillor with the MD of Minburn and then joined the Beaver Council when the boundaries changed. Mr. Krupchinski has served for nine years while Mr. Sears has been a councillor for three years.

(Ruth Buck)

To mark the birthdays of Mrs. Sorenson, Mr. Hollar, Mr. Hennessey and Mr. Lyals, senior citizens at Vista Lodge, Cavell Rebekah Lodge No. 56 of Ryley hosted the October birthday party for sixty guests and staff in Viking. Lunch was served at 1:30, at the conclusion of which a beautifully decorated birthday cake bearing the names of each of the above was brought into the dining room to the tune of "Happy Birthday", rendered in the inimitable style of The Voicettes of Ryley.

The Voicettes, Lloyd Wickstrom, Darrell Allwerdt, Robert Lysle and Ian Snorthlein, entertained an enraptured audience with fourteen selections. The spontaneous applause that followed every number was indicative of the pleasure rendered by these talented young men.

Alberta livestock goes to Royal Winter Fair

Alberta's Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Henry A. Ruste, announced earlier this week that seventeen carloads of livestock have been selected to represent this province in competitions at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto next month.

Eight Hereford ranch breeders from this region will be sending animals to the Fair, which commences November 13 and runs until November 21. Heading the list will be Lawrence Kalal of Tofield, who has market steers included in the shipment. Ray Beddoes of Daysland and Garry Swainson of Sedgewick will also be sending market steers.

Other contributors from this region include Gordon Rattray and D. M. Wilson, both of Viking, who will be shipping Shorthorn cattle, Gordon Zargler of Wainville shipping Hereford cattle, Dale W. Cole of Vegreville sending Angus cattle and Gordon Rose of Chauvin shipping Charolais cattle.

The Alberta shipment will start from Calgary on November 4, travel to Edmonton, and leave for Toronto the following day via Canadian National Railways. The Alberta Government will provide feed and bedding until the animals return and pay one-quarter of all freight costs, while the Federal Government will pay the remainder of the shipping costs.

The Alberta shipment will consist of six carloads of registered beef cattle, two carloads of Charolais cattle, one carload each of dairy cattle, Herefords, Shorthorns, Angus and crossbred steers, one carload of registered swine, one carload of market hogs, a carload of heavy horses and a carload of sheep.

Carnival set for Polska

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Members of the Carnival Committee for the three Roman Catholic Parishes of Holden, Bruce and Polska met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Motkoski, south of Holden, for the final general meeting before the Carnival and dance they are sponsoring, which will be held at Polska Hall on Friday.

Duties were assigned to members and all other plans were discussed. The carnival will feature a "Queen Contest" and a big draw for a color TV set at midnight. Games of chance, fortune-telling, hot dogs, hamburgers and a lunch concession will be open all evening.

A delicious buffet lunch served by the hostess, Mrs. Motkoski, brought the meeting and evening to a close.

TOFIELD BOY SAVES DAD'S LIFE

Nine-year-old Keith Owen of Tofield saved his daddy's life last Sunday.

Keith, a pupil at the Bergess School for Retarded Children in Camrose, was home for the weekend and helping his dad, Gerald Owen, with the chores. Mr Owen's clothing got caught in the power take-off on the tractor and he could not reach the key to turn off the engine. What might have been a tragedy turned into a happy ending as Keith, who was sitting on the seat beside his dad, quickly turned the key and stopped the motor. He then helped Mr. Owen, who had a badly bruised leg, into the house.

Keith was more concerned about his daddy's torn pants than anything else and did not seem to realize that he was a hero

Rallying point

Perhaps the full story of Pierre La-Porte's death has never be told, but certainly at the moment it appears safe to come up with any kind of reason without totally even in twenty minutes the murderous crisis would be resolved. It was an unfortunate and destructive event for their purposes.

Indeed it may well turn out that in the end Mr. LaPorte's death could become the turning point at which a new reasonable calmness will begin about towards a stronger and more united country. VISITORS HONORED

DODDS-RYLEY, Oct. 12th — Open house was held in the Community Hall at Ryley on Sunday afternoon, October 11th, for Ray and Margaret Hjelter of Birmingham, England, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. Many friends and relatives from far and near came to help them celebrate the big event.

The table's table was centered with a beautifully decorated wedding cake, made by Jean Grinde, sister of the groom and decorated by Mrs. Freda Viegilin. RCMP's patrol planes grab speeding drivers

Specially written for Alberta Weekly Newspapers by Ray Turchansky, Leduc Representative

Look up!
Look way up!

The airplane you watch may be watching you . . . and if you're driving along a stretch of highway patrolled by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police aircraft patrol, chances are it IS watching you.

In methods of enforcing the highway traffic laws, the sky is now the limit for the RCMP. The aircraft patrol program is in its third year in Alberta, and increasingly large numbers of drivers are being prosecuted as a result of the eye in the sky.

"We are exploring ourselves to get the most enforcement value . . . not the most prosecutions", says Inspector W. J. Hunter, officer in charge of the K Division traffic branch in Edmonton.

"We're holding our own and considering the traffic volume, we are already showing some benefits in the accident picture", he adds.

In the past there has been a 6.5 per cent annual increase in accidents, with vehicle registrations climbing at an identical rate. Lately the accident rate has been held constant, while the registrations continue to rise.

The patrol was started as a pilot project the aim intended within a forty mile radius of Edmonton in 1968, and gradually spread across Alberta.

Besides the program coordinator, Corporal C. E. Tetzlaff, there are four RCMP qualified to act as observers in clocking traffic. The observers concentrate on catching speeders during an orbit patrol when the plane is flown in a general rectangular orbit around the highway markers.

The other type of work done is a line patrol, when a stretch of 20 to 30 miles is clocked. Still styled for moderate makes of imported low chassis, passenger sports cars and even double solid lines following the high with no passing zones. The pilots have also scanned for fast drivers as expeditiously and easily as possible.

Drivers charged for speeding

Speeders beware

Despite warning signs painted on the highway, twenty-seven speeders were nailed in 105 minutes on Friday afternoon as the RCMP Patrol Plane (arrow) patrolled over Hwy. 21, near the Junction. Manning the squad car were Cpl. Lindsay, Const. Smillie, and Const. Edwardson. Camrose Canadian Newspaper.

RCMP's planes...

after being caught by the airplane has led to many other charges. Cases of possession of marijuana, illegal possession of liquor, possession of radar detectors and driving with a suspended license have resulted as a by-product.

None of the people caught speeding have realized they were watched by aircraft until told so. Corporal Tetzlaff tells of the time he clocked a car at 120 MPH near Didsbury in July. The car, followed by the aircraft at 105 MPH along a secondary road, turned into a trailer court.

As the plane passed over the car, the driver got out and waved unsuspectingly, while Cpl. Tetzlaff radioed his description to a patrol car. A policeman knocked at a trailer door, and informed the driver he had been caught speeding.

The method of catching speeders is simple.

Highway markings, 2.8 on Highway 2 south of Leduc start out by sitting 1,320 feet of warning with "aircraft patrolled" and aircraft symbols on the highway, as well as signs along the shoulders.

The next mile and a half is clearly marked off in six quarter mile (1,320 feet) intervals, which are measured by the Department of Highways.

The airplane flies at 1,000 feet with a pilot and observer who can pick out probable speeders after four hours of ground instruction and ten hours watch-testing while in the air. The observer maintains radio communication with the ground intercept patrol car.

Upon sighting a possible violator, he waits until the vehicle's front bumper approaches the lead marking on the first quarter. He then simultaneously activates two stop watches (certified every thirty days) which are mounted on a multi-timing board similar to a clip board.

When the vehicle's bumper crosses the second quarter marker, the watches are stopped. A reasonable tolerance is given depending on traffic conditions such as density of flow and weather. The time is then checked on a conversion chart for example doing the quarter in ten seconds is a speed of 90 MPH.

If the vehicle is travelling beyond the given tolerance, it is followed continuously by the aircraft and the ground intercept car is alerted. The vehicle is identified, any lane changes are related, and a count-down is transmitted: (It's the third car from you . . . second car . . . first car"). When the vehicle is intercepted, confirmation is given by the observer and necessary prosecution details are supplied.

Although only one quarter need be clocked, usually two or three are done. The clocking method is easily picked up, in fact this reporter nailed a speeding car at 85 MPH precisely.

The aircrafts used are chartered out of the Edmonton Flying Club, and the pilots are instructors with the club. Usually either of two Cessna 150's are used, two-seaters with a maximum safe velocity of 160 MPH in a shallow dive. For arrest and judicial officials a four-seat Cherokee 180 is employed.

Two or three main pilots are used who possess a commercial license, a class two instructors license ("really rock bottom" minimum of 300 flying hours), and an airline transport rating. Two or three back-up pilots also fill in.

The aircraft patrol system used in Ontario for a number of years, was in force 12 hours a week in 1968 with one plane, 44 hours in '69 with two craft and forty hours per week in 1970 with four planes. There have been 322, 871 and 3,173 yearly convictions with the latter figure at the end of August of this year. Of all convictions between May and September this year (the period of aircraft use), roughly 20 per cent resulted from the air.

On a recent long weekend nearly 700 convictions (double the normal week-end rate) were reported in the area south of Leduc; there were about thirty or forty violators per hour in May, while now they are only five or six.

A breakdown shows the bulk of the speeders (591 per cent) were caught between 71 and 80 MPH. The maximum speed recorded from the air was 172 MPH. There are fewer speeding cases from aircraft than from patrol car contacted in court (two per cent as opposed to ten), and not one aircraft case has been lost.

Advantages of the new system are that more area can be observed, there is no chance of misidentification on high speed chases are needed to catch high speeders, and true speeders can be detected from drivers just passing other cars.

Among the disadvantages are that the hours of operation are limited to daylight and good weather conditions. The chances of observer mistakes are negligible (a ten-foot miscalculation at 100 MPH in the quarter means only being out .758 MPH).

"With results of our program to date, we hope to expand our program", says Inspector Hunter. "We're firmly convinced that the aircraft has a definite place in our operation.

"Mind you, there are other means. We're not placing all our eggs in one basket. Aircraft is a tremendous tool, and we just use whatever tools are the best".

Although new instruments such as VASCAR (Visual Average Speed Computer and Recorder) are being developed, they will work with the aircraft in lowering the accident rate.

"I don't see anything on the horizon (again no pun) that can replace the aircraft", says Inspector Hunter, "It's here to stay".

MILK IS MARVELOUS

Here are some milk facts you will surely find interesting:

Milk is the only section of the Canada Food Guide that is classed by itself - must be important.

In one quart of milk there is Protein (builds body tissues) equal to 7 eggs or 1/3 pound of cheese or 3 servings of fish; Calcium (builds bones and teeth) equal to 43 oranges or 8 pounds of carrots or 7 ounces of cheese; Riboflavin (maintain health of mouth and eyes) equal to 3 ounces of liver or 2½ pounds of beef or 15 eggs; Thiamine (maintains healthy nerves) equal to 8 slices of whole wheat bread.

Besides this, it is rich in calcium, riboflavin and thiamine, milk also provides some iron, Vitamin A, Vitamin D, niacine, Vitamin C, phosphorus and other minerals.

Milk is called "Nature's Most Nearly Perfect Food".

There are over 26 forms of milk, not counting cream, ice cream, cheese, cottage cheese or sour cream.

Some Forms of Milk

Raw milk — fresh from the cow — is not usually sold in cooperative because of possible contamination that might be harmful.

Whole milk — 153 calories — average fat content is 3.25%.

2 per cent milk — 125 calories — fat content is 2% — nutritive value equivalent to whole milk except lower in vitamin A. Also called partly skimmed.

Skim milk — 87 calories — all but a trace of fat removed. Vitamin A, which is dissolved in milk fat is also removed, but all other valuable nutrients remain.

Buttermilk — 84 calories — made from partly skimmed milk. Made by adding a culture to pasteurized milk, which converts milk sugar (lactose) to lactic acid. Has the same composition as the milk of not lower than 3% fat content.

Chocolate drink — 173 calories — 2% milk with chocolate flavor added. As nutritive as 2% milk.

More Milk Facts

Pasteurization and homogenization do not destroy the nutrients in milk. They make it safer to drink.

Milk is a bargain - more food value for your money. For instance, fresh whole milk costs about the same per quart as a bottle of soft drink. But milk has more than 30 times the food value of the soft drink.

Cheese, cottage cheese, ice cream, ice cream, butter and yogurt, write or call at the office for "Dairy Recipes From Food Services Bureau". These are excellent recipe books. If you have any questions about milk or milk products, feel free to help answer them for you.

Bill Fowler of Camrose congratulates Lloyd Anderson of Forestburg, after he had handed him the gavel as that he could assume the role of president of the Battle River Tourist Association. The meeting took place Wednesday evening in Camrose. The Mercury Newsphoto.

Forestburg man named to head Tourist Assoc.

Lloyd Anderson of Forestburg was named president of the Battle River Tourist Association at the Association's fourth annual meeting at Pete's Place in Camrose on Wednesday evening.

By attaining this post, Mr. Anderson became the second non Camrosian to hold this position. Only forty-one delegates attended the meeting, as Sunday's storm left many roads in poor travelling condition.

Marvin LaBarge was named 1st vice-president, while Marvin Latiman of Lethbridge was elected as 2nd vice-president. Mrs. Elsie Rudesky of Camrose was retained as the Association's secretary-treasurer.

Len D'Albertanson of Wainwright was named chairman of the finance committee, with other members being, Earl Storey of Provost and Ilen Rempel of Hardisty. Named to head the Membership Committee was Les Dolan of Daysland, with Don Lawson of Donalda and Martin Littman of Lethe as members. Del Ward of Alliance was named to head the Publicity Committee, while Bernie Ward and Len Dutton, both of Killam, were also named to the committee.

Maurice Methot District Sales Manager with Air Canada in Edmonton, was guest speaker of the evening, as he outlined much of the background of Air Canada, and promised all co-operation between the two organizations. Mr. Methot was introduced by Ross Shuman, and thanked by the Association's first president, Dr. Si Swaak of Camrose.

Alderman Dr. Ken MacIsaac brought greetings on behalf of the City of Camrose, while President Gerry Gabriel extended greetings on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce. The invocation was given by Mrs. Bill Fowley of Camrose.

Delegates in attendance at Wednesday's meeting were from Stettler, Camrose, Alliance, Wetaskiwin, Bashaw, Daysland, Forestburg, Killam and Hardisty. This left twenty-one areas not represented.

President Bill Fowler of Camrose, in his report, indicated that 1970 had been quite an active year and prior to handing over the gavel to the president-elect, he urged the Association to continue their efforts in the future and recommended a few promotional ideas that would gain more publicity for the area. He noted that the membership dues for counties and rural municipal districts had been decreased to 5c per capita, and thought that this would improve rural membership.

Councillors elected by acclamation

Three incumbents seeking to retain their seats on County Council were declared elected by acclamation after nominations closed being accepted at noon yesterday (Wednesday).

All will serve one-year terms as seats of all councillors will become vacant in 1971.

W D. Johnston, a veteran of fifteen years as a councillor with the County of Beaver and the M.D. of Minburn, will represent Division 1, while Walter Krepps hicks will continue to represent Division 4 as he has in the past nine years. Charlie Sears, with three years on council as the representative of Division 7, will continue for another year.

No date has been set for the statutory meeting, at which time the three councillors will be sworn in and a reeve elected. Announcement of such a meeting will probably be made at the next regular meeting of Council.

Ryley graduates feted with a turkey banquet

by Mrs. Ruth Davies

The Graduation Exercises for the Graduating Class of Ryley High School for 1970 was held in September, commencing with a lovely turkey and ham banquet in the Legion Hall, served by the Ladies of the Legion.

The Valedictory address was given by Miss Linda Lyons, who humorously recalled incidents in the school life of each graduate. The "Voice-A-Tiles" entertained with a few selections.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mervin Bruce of Tofield, Superintendent of Schools, with Keith Robson aiding a few remarks in his inimitable way.

Pepper presented the Rebekah Legion Award to Mona Knudsen, and a new award, the Gladys Anneke Memorial Award to best all-round elementary student, to Lyle Voegtlin.

The Catholic Women's League Award went to Audrey Lyons for highest marks in Grade 9 English, and was presented by Mrs. D. Manderson.

Audrey Lyons was also presented with a Students' Union Award for highest marks in Grade 9 academic studies.

The "Voice-A-Tiles" again entertained, and were enjoyed by all. Following the Recessional, coffee, punch and squares were served, bringing a very memorable evening to a close.

Following are the 1970 Ryley High School Graduates: Elmer Beike, Lois Boettger, Linda Fast, Marilyn Hoiland, Jane Kooiway, Phyllis Kurach, Linda Lyons, Wade Magnuson, Deborah Norton, Danny O'Brien, Sheila Romaniuk, Kenneth Sadoski, Barry Stumbo, Thelma Voegtlin, Joan Wiens and Janice Zook.

Beaver election

The voters in three divisions in the County of Beaver have once again expressed their confidence in the incumbents on County Council as they have permitted them to return to office by acclamation. Beaver's County Council is one of the more active in the entire province and the results of their efforts have been given the seal of approval by this electorate. The terms of office will be for only one year as all seats will be up for grabs in 1971

Between now and then, same councillors may decide to retire for one reason or another and it's not too early to start planning and talking to prospective councillors. While many elected officials may feel relieved at being elected without a vote being cast, many others would rather face the voters and attain their seat as a result of the polls. In this manner, they would more readily confirm the voters' confidence and not have the impression they won because no one was interested

Government at any and all levels is too important to be ignored or treated lightly. If a good man is available, now is the time to get him started thinking about it so that when election time rolls around he's ready to go.

Next election

Premier Harry Strom has not, as yet, indicated when the next provincial election will be held, but pundits are predicting that the spring of '71 will see the electorate casting their ballots Following the elections in five other provinces, many are now saying that the Social Credit Government will wait until the very last minute before calling an election Only British Columbia retained its government in recent elections, with four other provinces voting in favour of the Opposition. In some instances, there was no major reasons for these changes except that possibly the voters felt it was time for a change, and this could be a good reason for delaying an election in Alberta

After all, if the trend is for a change, then a government that has been in office for over thirty-five years is bound to be defeated Five years ago, few people would have ever thought to predict a Social Credit defeat, but now many are giving the Conservatives a fifty-fifty chance of winning It will be interesting to see the outcome, if and when an election is called

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 Two months ago when Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau wanted to leave Parliament Hill, he would simply push through whatever crowd was awaiting his exit from the buildings, get into his chauffeur-driven cadillac and drive off almost unnoticed.

Now when he wants to leave his Parliament Hill office he aides set a massive security force into operation. Armed guards watch the exits from the Parliament Buildings. Other armed guards, some of them with guns drawn, watch his car.

When he drives away he is followed by a car full of men carrying machine guns. Both cars are in continual contact with security headquarters. And the mixed army-RCMP security force around his 24 Sussex Drive home is notified of his expected arrival time.

Three weeks ago when Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield decided to leave Parliament Hill, his office would have his Volvo brought to the front of the building and Mr. Stanfield would drive off, sometimes by himself.

A SATIL DIFFERENT NOW

Now, at the order of the Government, his every move out of the Parliament Buildings is watched by at least one guard carrying a Sterling submachine gun.

When Mr. Stanfield wants to leave Parliament Hill he is always accompanied by the Volvo by a soldier carrying a submachine gun. Behind them follows another car full of machine gun armed soldiers. And even Mr Stanfield's friends or assistants cannot enter his home in Rockcliffe Park unless they have a pass or are identified by Mr. Stanfield or his aide.

A similar situation applies to Ministers They too must be accompanied by an armed soldier when they move outside the Parliament Buildings or their homes

RIGHT IN THE HOUSE

At home, Ministers are guarded by squads of soldiers who relentlessly pace around their yards or station themselves in the lobby and living room of their apartments.

None of the subjects of all this protection likes it. Some find it difficult to shop with a soldier at the next counter. Others are more flexible. Take one of the Cabinet Ministers who has been receiving machine gun toting escorts for over thirty-five years. He says all he thinks about is that the [illegible] Canada

FUTURE!
UNIFARM WEEK, NOV. 1-7 is a good time to start because it focuses attention on year-round activities of the organization.

YOU NEED REPRESENTATION—
UNIFARM is recognized by government and industry as the "common sense" voice of Alberta farmers. The organization will continue to seek just legislation to protect your interests.

YOU NEED INFORMATION—
Unifarm believes that farmers must be fully informed on all vital issues. For that reason, the organization has launched a major information program to deal with matters such as the Federal Task Force on Agriculture Report, and is now in the process of initiating similar programs to deal with crop insurance, taxation, the power-at-cost issue, operation of the Canadian Wheat Board, etc.

YOU NEED SERVICE—
Unifarm helps farmers solve day-to-day problems with farm machinery, surface rights, and a wide variety of more personal matters.

YOU CAN ENJOY SAVINGS—
Unifarm members operate their own Auto and Fire Insurance Pools and have saved as much as 9% annually on the cost of this essential bond.
Rural Electrification Association members are enjoying savings of $4m,nd per year in electric power costs due to successful intervention by Unifarm and the Union of REA's in the matter of an application by a power company to raise rates for power distributed to its farm customers.

Messiah Lutheran setting for fall ceremony

CRANGER SAND

Fall flowers banked the [illegible] Saturday afternoon [illegible] ceremony uniting Anita Oliver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund of Camrose, and Marcus Lloyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Granger, also of Camrose, in the bonds of holy matrimony. Pastor Carl Isaperral performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride chose as matron of honor Miss Debbie Ann Hall in pink taffeta over pink taffeta. Her bouffant skirt featured a lace insert and pearls trimmed the neckline of the full bodice and the bib panel sleeves. A full length detachable train fell gracefully from her shoulders. The bride's bouquet of roses held in place by white orchids, roses and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Marion Hansen, and Linda Sand, sister of the bride. They were dressed in identical floor length gowns of forest green both taffeta and lace, themselves hats in their hair. They carried bouquets of yellow daisy disbuds.

The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Donald Dedinsky and Stewart Gilroy, cousin of the groom.

Ushers were Charles Mathews, brother-in-law of the bride, and Ed Granger, brother of the groom.

Gerald Mason of Edmonton sang the Wedding Prayer as the bride and groom knelt at the altar and The Walk Beside You during the signing of the register. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mason.

The mother of the bride chose an off-white bengaline and white lace suit and hat for the day and an orchid corsage with white and green accessories. A mauve bengaline dress was pinned at her shoulder.

The groom's mother chose a pink, ballerina length dress and [illegible] with matching accessories. She [illegible] pink.

with an electric dryer

Wet wash is a hang up. In more ways than one. It's no fun to pin and unpin thousands of clothespins a year. It's no fun to lug hundreds of pounds of wash to and from the clothesline.

Break free of your hang ups. Discover the wonderful convenience of an electric dryer. Gentle electric heat is perfect for permanent press garments as well as your other clothes.

See your appliance dealer now . . . and get rid of your hang ups.

Capt. Donald Manchur, of Wainwright, officer with the RCSCC Cayugs, and a former Holdenite, attended a two-week Indoctrination Course CFB Nadon, Esquimalt, B.C. this past summer, the course being to improve qualifications for youth training. Don was an officer and active with the Holden Sea Cadets when resident here.

Several school buses of the County of Beaver from Holden were stalled when going out with school pupils Monday, one not getting back until 2:30 a.m., another stalled in a big drift. School buses did not go Tuesday, giving the county road ploughs a chance to open up the roads. The storm while severe in the district was not as bad as Edmonton and surrounding districts, cars being able to get back and to Edmonton if taking time and driving in a safe manner.

Tofield student gets top scholastic award

by Orace Phillips

Mr. Marvin Bruce, Superintendent of Schools for the County of Beaver, presented Eileen Fairbrother with the Governor-General's bronze medal on Wednesday, Oct. 28, in the Tofield School auditorium. This award is made annually to the Grade 9 student in each county who obtains the highest marks in the Department of Education examinations.

Mr. J. C. Lamplt, vice-principal of the Tofield School, was chairman for the occasion, which was attended by the Junior High students, Eileen's Grade 10 classmates and several interested adults. Mr. Lamplt welcomed the guests, explained the conditions surrounding the presentation of the medal and paid tribute to Mr and Mrs. Trueman Fairbrother, honored platform guests for their contribution to Eileen's success, and congratulated Eileen on her achievement.

Rita Dickson and Barbara Thiessen presented corsages to Mrs. Fairbrother and Eileen on behalf of the T.A.I.T. of the Tofield High School. Also on their behalf, their president, Edwin Wiens, presented Eileen with a gift. Other presentations were made by: Robert Appleby, for the Big 5's of the Junior High; Mrs. Margaret Dickson for the Catholic Women's League; Bud Everitt, for the Tofield Community League; Fred Nordstrom, for the Beaver Local of the A.T.A.; Harry Wilkie, for the School Committee of the County of Beaver. Eileen expressed her appreciation to each of the donors.

In his presentation speech Mr Bruce told the students that this was the sixty first year the medal has been awarded. He extended his congratulations to Eileen and to her parents and his thanks to all the teachers from Grade 1 on who had made Eileen's achievement possible.

Mr Bruce also said that out of the last eleven years, a Tofield student has won the award seven times.

Eileen thanked Mr Bruce for presenting the medal, her parents for their love and understanding, her teachers for their help, and the community for being a good place to live.

Mr. Lamplt then introduced Charlie Sears, councillor for this area, and Mrs. Sears. Other members of the Fairbrother family were also introduced. The assembly closed with "The Queen". Miss Donna Schmidt was the accompanist.

Patricia Kondrat is crowned Parish Queen

by Mrs. G. H. Taylor

The gala evening came to a climax as Patricia Kondrat was crowned Parish Carnival Queen by Councillor Gabriel Brisard, Friday, Oct. 23, at the Carnival and Dance held in the Polska Hall, Kopernick south of Holden.

At the moment of crowning, the five other girls in the running became Princesses. They were Jennie Dracha of Bruce, Heather Fleming of Holden, Diane Nahajowich of Polska, Elaine Nehajowich of Polska and Connie Romanuson of Holden.

The young royal ladies were feted with ceremonies slanted to entertain and thank them for their much appreciated efforts for the Parishes.

One group of young ladies from the C.W.L. of Bruce, and another group of very young ladies, with a medley of delightful children's numbers. The Carnival Committee presented them with rose corsages, the ladies' organizations of the Parishes, the C.W.L. of Bruce, the St. Gregory's Ladies' Aid of Holden and St. John's Altar Society of Polska with desk sets bearing the Queen's and Princesses' respective pictures.

After the crowning ceremonies, the Executives of the Parish Council presented the Trophies, the Queen receiving the figure of Victory on a blue and gold base, the Princesses a golden cup on a pedestal.

A touching moment came when the Queen and Princesses left the stage to present their mothers with corsages.

The sweet strains of a waltz signalled the Grand Waltz, with the Queen and Escort dancing the first point, the Princesses and their Escorts joining the second, while the parents of the "royal ladies" and Mr John Shedley of Holden, the tape recorder, E. Wasdell of Camrose, and the photographic camera, was won by Ann's Barber Shop of Viking. Winner of the Queen's pool card was J. M. Ogonoski of Holden.

Holden Elks Lodge has installation of officers

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Sunday afternoon, Nov. 1st, the Holden Lodge BPO Elks held their installation of officers for the 1970-71 term in the Holden Community Hall.

The officers were installed in a most impressive manner by District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Wes Parsons of Irma Lodge, assisted by other members of Irma BPO Elks. A drill team of six ladies of Holden OORP Lodge added color to the ceremony escorting the various officers to their stations.

HRL Corliss was seated at the head of the room with other officers of the BPOE, Lady Blanche Olson was plaited for the occasion. Each of the ladies wore a white and mauve corsage presented by the Elks. Past Exalted Ruler Lyle Gresland opened the meeting. The following officers were installed: Exalted Ruler, Ted Appleby; Past Exalted Ruler, Gordon Langford; Leading Knight, Dave Fatora; Loyal Knight, Paul Shtokal; Lecturing Knight, Eugene Kwasnik; Esquire, Floyde Meyer; Chaplin, Ralph Mason; Secretary, Bret Appleby; Treasurer, Robert Mohan; Inner Guard, Don Erickson; Outer Guard, Reuben Lauhe; Trustees, Alfred Sorensen; Historian, Esme Bilyk; Organist Earl Hardy; Publicity Director, George Taylor.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler thanked all those who had assisted so ably in the ceremony and the several other members of Irma BPOE and OORP who had accompanied him. Gordon Langford then presented the past exalted ruler's jewel to Wes Parsons.

Fresh flowers with the good wishes of the Ladies of Holden OORP were presented to the new Lodge officers.

Invitations had been sent out to former charter members and members but owing to the inclement weather many were unable to take advantage to attend the celebration.

The Holden Elks hold an enviable position in the district, their services to the community at any many over the past 25 years as they have held rodeos, carnivals, bingos, dances etc., raising funds to operate the skating rink and other activities.

Following the banquet table was removed with a tiny and assisting through the beautiful basket of assorted Purple Cross in charity work.

The Restless Ones is coming to Ryley

"The Restless Ones", considered the most successful motion picture yet produced by Evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown in Ryley on Monday, November 23 in the Lutheran Church, at 7:30 p.m.

With the accent on youth, this feature-length film deals imaginatively and dramatically with the teen-age crisis.

With a background setting provided by the 1963 Billy Graham Los Angeles Crusade, and artfully woven into the story pattern, "The Restless Ones" is a hard-hitting, bold approach to our social problems.

OBSERVATIONS

Tofield, Nov. 2

Dear Sir

Why do we not get more local news such as what our Town Council and Chamber of Commerce are doing?

We feel the Council and Chamber had a great opportunity this past summer to advertise the Town. No mention of paving projects, new houses being built, new families moving in, etc.

Perhaps a little prodding by The Mercury would wake them up. How about your agent here doing a little rustling?

We are dead as far as promotion is concerned.

Yours truly,
Tofield Uniform Direction

Insect allies

Agricultural scientists are releasing foreign insects in their war against Canadian crop pests. Last year, at least five foreign insects released from three areas made a start on the job of helping to control the alfalfa weevil, a serious pest on the prairies.

Dr. [illegible] Turnock, of the Canada Department of Agriculture Research Station at Winnipeg, said the insects, which can hopefully be controlled by the end of this month. This year [illegible] insects were released in a number of provinces as scientists continued their study of combating weeds and insect pests in other than chemical ways.

Mrs. Annie Hunley had a letter dated October 25 from Fred and Margaret Hunley (nee Heitmann), who are now in New Zealand along with another couple. They had up-to-date news from Canada, and wrote of the comparison of wages and prices; and the men were working in a printing shop, the boss being a Kiwi, more interested in visiting than work. A second Labor Day was to be celebrated since their leaving Canada last September. People are very friendly and helpful. Both ladies were working and they were leaving for Australia on either November 2 or 3, all in all, a real experience.

Winner of Tofield Hockey Club Raffle, a purebred Hereford heifer, at $300, was Mrs. Pearl Polansky, in the draw on October 31. The heifer was to have been from the Wetherill herd.

Tofield's cash 'spiel draws twenty-six rinks

Tofield's big cash bonspiel, worth $1,200, got underway Wednesday and will run the balance of the week climaxing Monday evening with the 'spiel finals.

Twenty-six rinks are entered in the six-day bonspiel, which is six short of the hoped for thirty-two. Curling will be held this evening as well as Friday, all day Saturday and Sunday and with the finals Monday evening.

The Tofield Curling Club is having a social evening at the Curling Rink on Saturday evening beginning at 8:00 o'clock. This event is open to curlers and any other interested persons.

Admissions are being charged to this bonspiel. Evening admissions are 50c, while all-day draws will be $1.00.

There are three events in the 'spiel with two names from the "A" Event, as well as one each from the "B" and "C" Events advancing to Monday's finals, which are scheduled to commence at 8:00 o'clock.

Officials of the Tofield Curling Club are hoping to make this cash bonspiel an annual event and have labelled it as the "Stickle Cash Bonspiel". Results of this year's bonspiel will determine its future.

Curling officials in Tofield said yesterday that no other bonspiels are planned for the near future as far as curling is going on at a full clip. The organization has a league play Monday and Wednesday evenings, while the Men's League plays Tuesday and Thursday evenings and the Ladies' league plays Thursday and Friday evenings.

Two leagues operate in the afternoon, with the Farmers' League playing Tuesdays and Thursdays while the High School League plays Thursdays. No league for women is operating as yet as the women are involved in mixed curling and have not organized to date.

Guest speaker

The Rev. A. M. Vinge of Camrose will be guest speaker at a Spiritual Life Mission in the Gardo Lutheran Church of Tofield from November 22 to 26, at 8:00 p.m. each evening.

Mr. Vinge is a recently retired Institutional Chaplain from the Greater Vancouver area of British Columbia. He is a former Dean of the Canadian Lutheran Bible Institute, in Camrose and was pastor of the Bardo (now Tofield) Lutheran Parish which included Ryley and Holden, from 1939 to 1943.

Dickens play is Nov. 16th

Rehearsals are progressing for the play "Child of my Fancy" to be presented at Tofield Community Hall on Monday, Nov. 16, by the Library Board, in celebration of Young Canada's Book Week.

The play depicts some of the children Charles Dickens created, and very often in the novels, a child is the central figure. The American critic Edmund Wilson, in his essay "Dickens; The Two Scrooges" argues that it was due to the traumatic experiences that Dickens suffered as a child that led him to identify so with the helpless and oppressed, and it is significant that the central figure of his stories is so often a child abandoned or unloved.

Dickens' father, a minor civil servant, was always in debt, and was chronically careless about money matters, and when Charles was twelve his father was sent to a debtor's prison, the family broken up, and Charles put to work in a London factory, pasting labels on bottles of boot-black. The pay was six shillings a week, the hours long, companionship nil, and the boy was completely wretched and almost always hungry. Dickens allows us a glimpse at the horror of this life in the semi-autobiographical "David Copperfield" and, in the same novel, creates the unforgettable Mr. Micawber, a caricature of his father.

The title of the play, "Child of my Fancy", is taken from the preface to "David Copperfield". "It will be easily believed that I am a fond parent to every child of my fancy, and that no one ever loved his family as dearly as I love them".

Mrs. T. W. Fairbrother

Because of adverse weather conditions the October meeting of the Spilstead Ladies Society was postponed to November 3 at the home of Mary Schmidt. Members worked on a quilt and discussed the annual fall auction which will be held the evening of November 21. Due to circumstances beyond their control the ladies felt the White Elephant Sale, originally planned for October, should be postponed until spring.

Residents of the Spilstead district are still talking about the blizzard two weeks ago. The district was without electricity for 18 hours and many homes were cold and without water due to the power failure.

Bertha and Ernest Belecourt and Johnny and Mary and Gus Schmidt enjoyed a turkey supper at the Gus Schmidt home recently, in honor of Bertha's birthday. Mary made a beautifully decorated cake for the occasion.

Bertha Belecourt accompanied Laurence Gerwa to Glen Mitchell to Drayton Valley recently to visit friends.

Mrs. Helen Creek of Newwestminster B.C. visited with Mrs. Linda Wyder and the Art Hoflins recently. They all visited friends in Camrose one day last week.

Alberta's Great Moments
Starring the famous players from your lovable Lethbridge label

The Stampede Rip-snortingest rodeo of them all. It came bucking out of the chute in 1912 and let full stride in the same rugged rollout era that launched Lethbridge Pilsner — both of them complete with a crazy cast of characters. They're part of a proud heritage, an unchanging tradition. Alberta's original rodeo and Alberta's original Pilsner, full of good old fashioned flavour that's still going strong. So call for a beer with real beer taste. Lethbridge Pilsner. It's made for Great Moments.

The Homemaker

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Dane

That Home Economist Box 519, Vegreville, Alberta

FOR THE HUNTER:

Recent research has discovered that rough meat is often the result of excess exercise in the animal just prior to killing. Apparently the theory is that if there is violent activity just before our daring slaughter, extra juices are released into the muscles causing toughness in the meat. The ideal situation is to kill the animal in a surprised state rather than chasing it for three miles, wounding it and allowing it to struggle before it dies.

The next step is bleeding. If the animal is not properly bled the meat will be a gummy mess. Because of its high gelatinous content blood does not freeze and a very poor product results.

Although it is not always possible, it is recommended the hide and internal organs soon after killing as they hold in the heat of the animal. The best quality meat is obtained if the carcass is cooled immediately. Ideally, a big game should be hung for two to seven days in a room in which temperatures and humidity can be carefully controlled. This relaxes the state of rigor mortis.

Proper butchering is also very important. It is much easier to cook the wild game if it has been cut into recognizable shapes. There are various butcher trainer programs available from time to time which give instructions in butchering.

Often you are advised to soak wild game overnight in a salt or vinegar solution. This is no longer recommended. The soaking is not necessary if the carcass is bled and cooled properly. It does, however, cause many of the water soluble vitamins to be lost. With the rising cost of meat, many families are using wild game as an important part of their food plan. It is not good management to allow nutrients to go down the drain.

Before packing for freezing cut off all visible fat for this gives the "gamey" taste. Fat from wild game contains a large amount of the highly saturated fatty acids which result in a very heavy tallow which goes rancid in storage after a period of time. If the animal is young you may want to leave some fat on, but serve the meat piping hot.

As with all meats, wild game should be wrapped carefully in a moisture and vapour proof wrapping. If you want to be sure it will be air tight you can wrap a sheet of saran wrap around the outside of the package. (It can then be re-used, as saran wrap tends to be expensive).

All meats should be "sharp frozen". The temperature at which most freezers is 18° F. (not 32° F. which is the freezing temperature of water). Keep in mind that for every 10 pounds of meat put into a home freezer in a three, the temperature of the unit rises about 5°. You probably keep your freezer at 0° F., so you can see that it is easy to raise the temperature of your freezer about 18° F. What happens if food is frozen slowly? Large ice crystals form which tend to break down the cell walls of the food. Also, as it cools, the moisture tends to be drawn to the outside of the product. When the meat is cooked this moisture on the outside evaporates quickly. Both cause a spongy product. When you are ready to use the meat, thaw it in the refrigerator. Again, this applies to all meat. If the meat is thawed at room temperature, by the time the inside is thawed, the outside has a very high bacteria count.

If you have prepared the wild game carefully as instructed, you can then handle it in the same way as you would a cut of pork or beef taken from the same part of the carcass. Because wild game does not have the internal fat marbling that you find in the domestic meats you will probably find that it is best served with a good sauce or mixed with sour cream or bacon to avoid dryness. It was suggested to put a pat of butter on the meat just prior to serving and allow it to melt into the meat. Or you could lay the cuts from a roast in a gravy or sauce just before serving.

Happy Hunting . . . and Eating!

Snowmobiles banned for all night hunts

A reminder about the use of snow vehicles for hunting was issued recently by officials of the Department of Lands and Forests.

With the increasing amount of snow in the sub-alpine areas, persons interested in using snow vehicles for the purpose of hunting are reminded that the use of snow vehicles for hunting in Wildlife Management Units 5400-436 is prohibited between the hours of 12:00 midnight and noon each day.

The purpose of the regulation is to provide maximum quality recreation during the early morning hunting hours and still allow the snow vehicle user to utilize his machine during the afternoon and evening hours to set up camp or bring out game.

The "S" units are located in the mountain and foothill areas of the province, and any person using a snow vehicle for hunting in these areas should check his Game Summary carefully or contact the nearest Fish and Wildlife Office.

Bilyk - Grube wedding solemnized in Holden

(Mrs. G. H. Taylor)

Holden Lutheran Church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, October 18th, when Patty Grube, daughter of the late Fred Grube and Mrs. Lyle A. Grouland, was united in marriage to Dale Nicholas Bilyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Bilyk, all of Holden. Rev. J. Frechi officiated.

The bride given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Lyle A. Grouland, chose a floor-length princess style gown with train, fashioned of silk organza over satin, accented with lace bodice and sleeves trimmed with pearls and lace inserts around the bottom of the gown and train. A petal veil of illusion net was held in place by a pearl and crystal coronet. She carried a cascade bouquet of bronze mums, red yellow chrysanthemums. Her only jewellery was silver and diamond earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Cheryl Grouland, sister of the bride, was flower girl and wore a white lace pant dress with purple trim and carried a nosegay of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums. Little Delvin Bilyk nephew of the groom, was ring-bearer.

Best man was Mr. Lionel Pooler, cousin of the groom. Mr. Larry Strickfaut and Mr. Duane Gradchuk, cousin of the groom. The groom, groomsmen and ring-bearer wore black tuxedos.

The guests were ushered by Mr. Grant Grouland, brother of the bride and Mr. Lawrence Bilyk, brother of the groom. Mr. Harold Gerbrandt, the soloist sang the "Wedding Prayer". The organist was Mrs. Harold Gerbrandt, a cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a green forrest dress with bone accessories, and a corsage of bronze and yellow mums. The groom's mother wore a dark green velvet dress with silver accessories, and a corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

A reception for 120 guests was held in Holden Community Hall. Mr. Lloyd Kaliman, brother-in-law of the groom was master of ceremonies, and Mr. Ed Nelson, uncle of the bride, proposed a toast to the bride, to which the groom replied. The bride's table was centered with a 3-tiered wedding cake, which was beautifully decorated by Mrs. Charlie Zelenitsky.

Following the reception, a dance was held in the Holden Community Hall for relatives and friends, and a buffet banquet was served at 11 o'clock.

For a wedding trip to Southern Alberta, the bride wore a purple forrest crepe suit with brown accessories and purple and white carnations on corsage.

The happy couple will reside in Edmonton.

Out of town guests were from Consort, Edmonton, Calgary, Mundare, Vegreville, Inland Breton Camrose, Viking, Ryley, Bruce, Tofield, and Daysland.

A Natural Gas Service Reminder from Northwestern Utilities, Limited

Give Your Heating System a Safety Check-up

Normally, your natural gas appliances and heating system operate with little care or maintenance. However, an annual check-up will ensure full efficient operation and complete comfort. To help you inspect your heating system, use this handy guide.

P.S. Note re furnace filters!
Now's the time to check filters on your natural gas furnace. Filters that are clogged with dust and dirt cause heat loss, and can cause damage to your furnace. Furnace filters should be replaced or cleaned at least once a year.

KOPE - INGRAM

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kope were married May 16, 1970 in the United Church at Tofield, with Rev. Stanley R. Bessey officiating. Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kope of Ryley, is working for Federal Grain in Ryley while Beth, daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. E. Ingram of Tofield, is attending the U of A in Edmonton. E. La Roque Photo.

Cut interest rate on farmers' loans

The interest rate on Farm Credit loans has recently been reduced to 8¾% and the rate of Farm Machinery Syndicate loans to 8%, H. A. M. Humphries and Doug Victour, Credit Advisors with the Farm Credit Corporation Office in Camrose note that with the improved market outlook for grain and continued favourable prices for cattle, the Farm Credit Corporation is anticipating an increase in loan applications in 1971.

The general uncertainty of the economic future of the farm industry has had a depressing effect on the demand for credit to improve and expand farm businesses. Many farmers are now more optimistic about the future and are considering various alternatives to increase their farm income. The field staff of the Corporation are qualified by experience and training to assist farmers in evaluating the comparative benefits of these alternatives. This counselling service is free to farmers whether or not they are interested in obtaining long term mortgage loans, reports Mr. Humphries.

Most changes in farm programs must be planned well in advance of the date of implementation. Like most businessmen, successful farmers realize that research and effective planning are necessary preliminaries to making sound decisions. Credit and other resources must be put to their most profitable use in any business and farming is no exception. Now is the time that farmers should be thinking about setting or revising their objectives. Mr. Humphries suggests and considering ways and means by which these goals may be reached.

Farming is, and will continue to be, the backbone of our western economy. However, only by developing viable farm units will individual farmers be able to obtain their fair share of the economic rewards for their management, labour and capital.

In spite of the apparent savings offered by some of the "in store" brands of canned goods, do you hesitate to spend your housekeeping money on an unknown product? Well, here is something you might find interesting.

The research committee of Consumers' Association of Canada conducted a nation wide study to compare national advertised brands with private label brands of canned goods and came up with some surprising results.

This particular study was based on two items — canned peach halves and cut green beans in both choice and fancy quality (14-ounce size). In all, 27 different brands were evaluated by some 17 panels.

It was found that in the taste ratings, personal preference played such a large part and the contents of a can varied so much even under the same brand name that in almost every case individual ratings ranged so wide that the averages were meaningless.

Price was no indication of quality either. Prices varied in every brand, from one part of the country to another, tending to be slightly cheaper in the West.

In peaches, the more expensive brands did not contain more by the money. Naturally, the size of peach has a bearing but they varied from 3½ to 11 portions, so the number of servings is an important consideration in buying this product. As well, the syrup volume showed wide variations in every brand. The panelists measured the total volume in each 14 ounce can and were surprised to find a total volume of less than the stated 14 ounces in some samples of every brand but one. One of the cans contained only 12 ounces.

In evaluating the green beans, it was found that again individual taste preference played such a large part in the acceptability of the product that other criteria had to be used for judging value.

Private label brands, on the whole rated better than the nationally advertised ones. The highest placed beans were not judged consistently as of better appearance, flavor and texture than the lower priced cans. Again the total volume of solids and fluids varied with the fancy grade tending to contain more solids, but again many contained less than the stated volume of 14-ounces.

This study was undertaken because of questions directed to Consumers' Association of Canada for information about comparative ratings of nationally advertised brands with store brands of canned foods. In setting up the tests, the products were purchased and evaluated by panels from the area in which the product was bought. The study proved that price was no indication of either quantity of solids or quality of contents. In fact, very often the panelists gave the best rating to the cheapest brand.

Results of the study suggest that you make use of "tape trials". Price does not necessarily indicate quality in canned goods. Variations in both quality and price, and the fact that the processor sets market his pack under a number of different labels indicate that your chances of obtaining satisfactory quality are as good in the choice grade as it's fancy, and in private labels as national brands.

So, judging by this report, it would appear that your best approach to buying a satisfactory product at the best price might be to try every brand on your grocer's shelf, particularly if the price appears to be low. Then if one brand is not accepted by the family, it could be ignored in future purchasing. However, you might be fortunate enough to find an inexpensive brand turn out to be the family's favorite.

This gadfly is good

Nobody likes to be pushed up on their errors and to have them pointed out, as for the world to see, so it's understandable that the Liberal government has chafed under the criticisms levelled at it by the Auditor General. And it's understandable that they would wish there were no such criticism.

It's understandable that they should want to muzzle the auditor general, but it's not acceptable. The way to eliminate such criticism should be to eliminate the waste and the foolish programming and planning that give rise to the complaints.

The accusations levelled at the auditor general this week by the government, aimed at eliminating [illegible] criticism such as for instance pointing out the fabled and infamous wage assessment in the refit of the Bonaventure just as one example. Certainly the government must have smarted under that one and probably it is understandable to say that such criticism is destructive, because the orders not been given, the bill had been run up, and nothing could be done about it afterwards.

It [illegible] that's too simplistic a view of the whole program. Surely the criticism would have some effect even afterwards, of making the Ottawa bureaucracy just a bit more wary in the future. And what is more to the point surely the Canadian public has a right to know this sort of information. Surely this right to know includes knowing how good or how poor a job of stewardship their representatives are doing.

It behoves Canadians at all levels, not just in the Opposition parties to complain about the curtailment of the office of he auditor general. He was already being slowly stripped of efficiency by the reduction in staff imposed by the Prime Minister and this will much more impair his operation. We cannot afford the steady erosion of one of the very few offices which gives the Canadian public a look through the curtain at what goes on on the inside.

A catalogue of all the steps by which the Trudeau government has pushed away the authority of the people and of the House of Commons and centered it instead in the cabinet and the office of Prime Minister would prove almost astounding. It's time to call a halt.

Tofield couple feted on 50th anniversary

Friends and relatives assembled at the Tofield United Church Hall on Sunday, Oct. 18th, 1970, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kyle on their golden anniversary. Approximately 100 guests were present including friends from Edmonton, Camrose, Olds, Killam, Banff and Calgary.

The head table was adorned with a beautifully decorated three - tiered wedding cake flanked with gold candles and flowers. Seated at the head table were the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland of Edmonton.

The five children of the honored couple were present: Isabel (Mrs. Rod Rudecki of Tofield, Ross of Edmonton, Gordon of Tofield, Norman of Lawson Creek and Robert of Toronto. The couple also have 14 grandchildren.

The program opened with the youngest son, Robert, giving a short resume of his parents' half century of married life. Two grandchildren, Heather and David Rudecki, sang a duet, "How Great Thou Art", accompanied by their sister, Sharon, at the piano. Kelly and David Morris entertained by doing the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance to the accompaniment of the bagpipes played by Donald Kyle. A humorous skit, the "Mock Wedding" was presented by several of the family. The wedding march for this was played by Norman Kyle on the bagpipes. A poem was composed and read by Ross of the highlights of his parents' past 50 years. Last on the program was an old favorite of the grandparents, "Loch Lomond" sung by Heather and David Rudecki.

An old friend of the family, Glen Anderson, presented a purse on behalf of the guests. The families' gift to their parents was a rock and recline chair.

Telegrams were read from Prime Minister Trudeau, Governor General Mitchner and Mrs. Mitchner. A letter was read from Premier W. A. C Bennett and a scroll from Lt. Gov. J. Nicholson of British Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle were married 50 years ago in Edmonton and farmed for 35 years in this province. They have now retired and are living in Kelowna, B.C.

Kamloops, B.C.,
November 9, 1970.

Dear Sir:

The cardinal sin in Canada these days is to sell a Canadian company to American interests: the nationalistic doctrine says that economic imperialism threatens our existence as a nation and everything possible must be done to obstruct those terrible Americans.

And when the United Church of Canada sold Ryerson Press of Toronto to an American firm it promptly brought down upon its holy head the electronic wrath of radio and television and some writers.

The churchmen were accused of setting a bad example by selling to Americans though their offer was superior. One writer allowed that Ryerson would never again publish his works, even if it did cost him royalties. And one unidentified artist seized the opportunity to haughtily announce that because of such ecclesiastical wickedness the United Church would have to do without him.

It sounded great over the CBC's Newsmagazine. But did the United Church really do wrong? Is it a sin to sell for a good price and make a decent profit? Jesus' parable of the talents in Matthew twenty-five clearly teaches that honest profit and legitimate interest are proper and right.

At the same time we will admit that there are times when interest and profit must be sacrificed. And Canadian ownership is good and desirable. Still, if the choice is between a fair deal based upon common sense and biblical precept, or a bad deal forged by emotion charged with nationalism and questionable nationalism, then the response for "good stewards" is obvious.

We say the United Church did right.

Rev. Neill Foster.

RYLEY NOTES

(Mrs. Ruth Davies)

RYLEY With the weather permitting, the Ryley United Church Ladies turkey supper which was held Nov. 7th at the Community Hall was very well attended and successful. Many out of town guests called to meet old friends.

Visiting in Ryley on Nov. 11th with Mrs. Harriet Riddell and other friends were Djaine and Olga Kirkelund.

Cliff Ferrie of Ryley, beat the weather and finished his cultivating on his land on Nov. 6th.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Art Scalzo recently were Mr. and Mrs. Garry Scalzo and Shauna of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gudmundson of Mission City, B.C. were local callers this last week.

RECORDING STAR

Leo Gudmundson, since leaving the Round Hill and Ryley district and retiring in B.C. has taken up recording music. He has a long play stereo out "Tuscan Mountains". Al Rausch, a former program director and news reader of CJCA in Edmonton, does the recording in his studio in Vancouver. All the words and music are by Leo Gudmundson and he uses local talent from B.C. and Alberta for music background.

The songs on this album reflect his out-doorsman appreciation of the beauty to be seen in the country he lived and worked in. It is really a true Canadian production and we all wish Leo the best in this venture.

The words in the songs are all of local nature, covering from his ranch at New Sarepta to the north country and his home in B.C.

LOW MEET

The November meeting of the Bethel Lutheran Church Women opened with singing "Now Thank We All Our God" and prayer by Mrs. C. Sorenson. The Stewardship secretary took charge of a short program of prayer and scripture reading by Mrs. W. Wood and an inspiring message on "Giving" by Mrs. Pyesht. The Church Women then presented their love offering boxes. Worship offering was read by Mrs. A. Bugge and the Bible study was led by Mrs. K. Baranuik.

Fourteen gifts were turned in and sent to the Portelan Mental Hospital.

A Billy Graham film "The Restless Ones" will be shown at Bethel Lutheran Church on Monday evening, Nov. 23, at 7:30. This is a particularly good film for young people but all folks are invited. Stewardship emphasis will begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

The Thanksgiving that has become an annual event, since the discontinuation of the fall turkey supper, will be given at the December Church Women meeting instead of at an evening program.

The hostesses, Mrs. J. Preshl and Mrs. N. Koshnir served a very delicious lunch to many guests.

Tofield pupils host parents at reception

by Grace Phillips

The parents of students in the Grade Six and Seven classes of the Tofield School were entertained on Monday evening of this week with pictures of the field trip to Drumheller taken last spring by the students of Mrs. Florence Ingram, Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, and Peter von Stackelberg who, with J. Ingram, were chaperones for the trip.

In the library of the Tofield School, Mr. von Stackelberg welcomed the parents to the evening's program. He gave a short resume of the trip, explaining its purposes and achievements. Maps and charts were on display and the parents were invited to examine them.

Mrs. Ingram then showed the slides taken on the trip. Loading the bus, picnicking at the Battle River campsite, arrival at Drumheller, explorations along the Dinosaur Trail, hunting and finding fossils, crossing the Bleriot Ferry at Munson, and visiting a coal mine were some of the high lights of the trip revealed by the slides. The trip had taken two days, with intervening night being spent in the gymnasium of a Drumheller school.

After the Drumheller pictures had been enjoyed, Mrs. Ingram showed some which had been taken last spring on a field trip, when the Grade Five students had been the travellers. Mrs. Doreen Cribb and Mrs. Ingram had taken their students to points of interest in Edmonton and St. Albert.

Coffee and cookies were served and a social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, now on the Ryley staff, was present for the showing of the pictures.

Chamber plans Christmas tree

The monthly meeting of the Tofield and District Chamber of Commerce was held on November 24, with 12 members present.

The Christmas tree will be erected next week, and the Chamber of Commerce has purchased lights for this.

Santa Claus Parade will be held on Saturday, Dec. 5, with show and gifts at the Tofield Community Hall.

The Highway sign is in the process of being erected, and the business plaques are being designed and will be ready in the very near future.

G. John Barrypn attended the Farm Machinery Convention in Edmonton, and submitted a written report on the meeting.

The next meeting will be held on December 15.

Santa Claus is coming to Tofield on Dec. 5th

Due to adverse weather conditions and failure of communication systems with the North Pole, final preparations have not been made for Santa's annual visit to the Town of Tofield.

The Tofield Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that they had managed to find out that he would be arriving in Tofield on Saturday, Dec. 5, at 2:00 o'clock, but couldn't get any other details before communications broke down.

In the past few years, Mr. Claus has made considerable use of helicopters in getting around to see the children all over the world, but information provided that he will have to resort to other means this year because of the poor weather conditions that have been prevailing.

But he is coming to Tofield, and will have lots of treats for all the little boys and girls that come to see him at the Community Centre. And, in addition, the Chamber of Commerce has arranged for a special movie to be shown in the theatre during the afternoon.

Just as communications were fading with the North Pole, the jolly gentleman in the red suit managed to give a word of warning to all children everywhere. He advised them to be very good as he would be checking on them between now and Christmas.

When word of Santa's pending visit flashed among the businessmen of the community, they immediately decided that a celebration was definitely in order. As a result, on the day of Santa's visit, they will offer all the people of the area special bargains. Complete details of these "specials" will be revealed on special pages in next week's Mercury.

10 teachers inducted into Beaver A.T.A.

(By Grace Phillips)

Ten beginning teachers who are on the 1970-71 staff of the County of Beaver were inducted into the teaching profession by the executive of the Beaver Lodge of the Alberta Teachers' Association in a ceremony in the Ryley School on Wednesday, Nov. 18th.

Mrs. Pearl Allan of the Holden School staff welcomed the newcomers to the profession. Tom Newcombe of the Viking staff spoke to the new teachers and showed a film portraying the work of the ATA.

With the president of the Beaver local in charge, the induction ceremony was carried out. The inductees were: Vivian Carlson, Douglas Coffin, Trudy Coffin, Judy Gicko, Betty Klein, George Miller, Christie Park, Victor Petruk, William Taylor. Each new teacher was sponsored by a member of the ATA. It is of interest that Trudy Coffin of Ryley and Douglas Coffin of Tofield were both sponsored by their sister, Mrs. Andrukow, who teaches at Bruce.

Following the induction ceremony, lunch was served in the library of the Ryley School.

Parents visit Tofield School

Eighty-eight per cent of the parents of the students in the Tofield School attended the semi-annual Parent-Teacher day held at the school on November 20th.

Only 30 families of the possible 247 were not represented at the interview by one or both parents. Since much of the instruction in departmentalized, many of the parents were interested in seeing several teachers and were able to do so in the hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. during which the interviews were held.

Students acted as ushers and assisted Mrs. Foshaug in serving coffee in the library.

This is somewhat of a round-up of information that is available for the asking by writing Consumers' Association of Canada, 100 Gloucester St., Ottawa 4

The Association frequently reprints buying guides that are published in its by-monthly magazine, "Canadian Consumer". These are made available to the public, free in single copies only. They deal with many subjects, all pretty basic and useful.

One of considerable current interest is a guide on buying equipment for the young hockey player in your home. Ask for: "Hockey equipment reprint".

Others now available are:
Automatic Clothes Dryers
Automatic Dishwashers
Baby's needs
Carpets and rugs

Don't make a move! (about household moving)
Freezers and freezer food plans
Siestas
Stoves
Washers

It is important that you say which leaflet you need (and the Association asks that you don't send a "blanket" request for them all. Also, you should put the word "Guides" on the envelope

MAINTAINING EFFECTIVE STANDARDS

License protects buyer and seller

To maintain a high degree of business ethics within the province of Alberta, provincial and municipal governments have established a set of standards. And/or attach various classes of business establishments must operate.

The Trade Practices Division of the Alberta Department of Industry and Tourism is charged by the Alberta Department of Industry and Tourism. It administers which displays the certificate meets the qualifications prescribed as to staff and premises. The Licensing Branch of the Department, on receipt of application for a license, refers the facts of the application to the applicable provincial agency and the municipality, in which the business will operate. On receiving assurance that the required standards are met, a license is issued. If on a report from another government department or from the municipality, the Board learns that the operation has dropped below standard requirements, the license is suspended until the situation is corrected. If the necessary changes are not made, the license will be cancelled.

Licensing protects not only the purchaser, but the vendor as well, through the elimination of unfair competitive practices and misrepresentations of products or services.

Labour standards keep pace

Management and labour are represented equally on the governmental body which sets Alberta labour standards. The Board of Industrial Relations, has another six-three functions the important responsibility for the establishment of these standards, and is made up of two members from management, two from labour organizations and a Chairman. In his jurisdiction are such factors as the determination of the minimum wage, general holidays, length of vacations, and hours of work. Through public hearings and acceptance of briefs from both management and labour along such surveys of economic conditions at the moment, labour standards are revised to contribute as greatly as possible to maximum employment, improved working conditions, and industrial peace.

Recently, hours-up are held every four years, but are attempt more reasonably when changes in social structure, living costs, and working conditions indicate the need.

The administrative staff of the Board of Industrial Relations, a branch of the Alberta Department of Labour, are responsible for the enforcement of Board decisions and orders.

Land title search simplified

The complete survey of each parcel of land in Alberta is recorded on a Land Titles Office. It gives the name of the owner as listed in the Land Titles Office. It gives the name of the owner as well as a description of the land. As the land changes hands, all dealings are registered and noted on the page. This system has made it possible to provide complete information on each parcel of la... quickly and accurately and at little cost to the person searching the records.

In order to search a title, it is necessary only to come to the counter of the Land Titles Office, provide the legal description of the land concerned, and it is made available almost immediately. The mail in Alberta one of the few jurisdictions in the world where the owner's duplicate of the title can be accurately ascertained at a nominal cost to the person registering the documents.

The Land Registration Officers at the Alberta Attorney General's Department also administer an Assurance Fund, which is used to pay for any costs incurred by any person registered by the Land Titles Office or registrars of deeds in the province at the time of error.

Workers' health protected

Beyond a few exceptions, all workers in Alberta are covered by workmen's compensation legislation, which is administered by the Workmen's Compensation Board. The Board's function is to provide compensation for workmen injured in the course of their employment and regulations governing the payment of compensation to dependents of workmen killed in the course of their employment. Employers who are covered by the Act must contribute to the Workmen's Compensation Fund, which is used to pay compensation to $500 million from Savings Bonds?

Great popularity of Canada Savings Bonds (more than $6-368 million worth outstanding) puts the government in a peculiar position: one third of its debt is in the form of a demand deposit repayable at any time. So says Frederic Wagner in The Financial Post. Lower interest rates this year plus strong competition from savings from the banks are expected to reduce this year's sales, raising perhaps only $500 million - $700 million in new cash

Real estate for profit

The most important part of any real estate transaction is the offer to purchase, says Robert Catherwood in his fourth article in The Financial Post on the risks and rewards in real estate investment. The whole deal, he says, hinges on the terms of the offer. The buyer must be sure to include the terms he wants, and the seller must be fully aware of what he is accepting. The offer, when accepted, constitutes a contract and, as such, is governed by the law of contract. Catherwood points out that it is especially important for the buyer to inspect the property carefully because contracts for the sale of property are not contracts requiring the "utmost of good faith," (as are, for example, insurance contracts). Therefore the seller does not have to fully disclose known defects. If, however, the seller makes a misrepresentation, the buyer may be able to rescind the contract.

SANTA'S LOST CAT. Authorities in Ontario have been trying without success to get through to Santa at the North Pole to tell him his lost cat has turned up in Toronto. It seems that "Big Tom" (For parents only: he's really a float) was on a spy mission for Santa when he turned up at the lost-and-found booth during Toronto's annual St. Nick parade. Officials put him in the parade, and then went after Santa. Here, "Big Tom" has a quiet chat with an astonished little boy. — TTS Photo

COUNTY OF BEAVER

School and School Bus Operations During Storms

1. Schools in the County of Beaver will operate on all regular school days. Should school busses not operate due to hazardous road conditions, teachers, town pupils, and rural pupils who can be transported safely to school by their parents, will be expected to attend.
2. Should an overnight storm cause blocked roads or the serious danger of blocked roads, school bus runs will be cancelled. Radio messages prior to 7:00 a.m. and thereafter will inform parents of the cancellation. Radio stations CFCW (Camrose) and CJCA (Edmonton) will broadcast messages.
3. Should it be necessary to send pupils home by school bus at some time during the school day because of stormy conditions, these procedures will be followed:
   - A. The principal of the school has authority to send school busses home at any time during the school day.
   - B. Radio stations CFCW and CJCA will broadcast messages that rural pupils are en route home.
   - C. Parents, school bus drivers and others who are informed on road conditions are asked to telephone the principal, the County councillor or the County Office at Ryley should they suspect that stormy conditions will block roads.
4. Road and weather conditions vary considerably throughout the County. For this reason, each school will operate independently under this procedure. It is possible that morning runs may be cancelled at some schools and not at others. Similarly, busses may be routed home during the school day at some schools and not at others.
5. Parents are reminded that it is their right to decide whether or not their children will get on the bus in the morning should conditions be stormy or hazardous
6. Please be certain that all pupils are dressed adequately warm each day. A school bus can become stranded on any given day due to road conditions or mechanical breakdown

Solve a Crime

BY A.C. GORDON

You Are The Detective

Your good friend, Jim Nelson, has phoned you, very much distressed over the fact that one of his neighbors, Alvin Brooker, has threatened to bring suit against him and his wife. He tells you that his young 12-year-old daughter, Peggy, had been walking their Scottish terrier on a long leash. They had met Brooker on the front walk and the dog had growled and lunged at him. Peggy told her father that she had succeeded in pulling the dog away and that she is certain no harm had been done to Brooker. But now, Jim Nelson has told you, he has just received a phone call from Brooker informing him that he went straight from the scene of the "incident" to the emergency ward of the Community Hospital, that he has received first aid for an ugly wound above his knee where the Nelson dog bit him, and that he is determined to sue the Nelsons "for plenty".

You tell Nelson that you will look into the matter immediately, and then you hurry to the hospital where you find Allen Brooker seated on a chair in the emergency ward. He is just about to leave, but you receive permission of the attending doctor to examine the wound. You watch as the doctor carefully draws up the sharply-creased, immaculate light blue trouser leg over the left knee, and gently peels back the fresh bandage. After looking at the cauterized marks on the skin above the knee, you ask Brooker, "Did you drive yourself to the hospital?"

"Why, yes... I drove very slowly, of course, because of the pain."

Turning back to the doctor, you inquire, "Are you certain these are teeth marks on his leg?"

"They were fairly deep indentations," he replies. "I'd say they could have been caused by a dog's teeth."

You nod reflectively, then you look back at Brooker who is now frowning intently at you. "I think this has all the appearance of a senseless attempt on your part to frame a charge against the Nelsons. I think you inflicted that wound on your leg yourself, maybe with a fork, to simulate teeth marks. In any event, I am sure the Nelson dog did not bite you."

SOLUTION

Since it has been established that Brooker came directly to the hospital from the scene of the "incident", the possibility of his having changed clothes is eliminated. Yet, you saw no teeth marks in his trousers.

Santa comes Saturday for visit

Everything is in readiness, and Santa Claus will be visiting his young friends in Tofield on Saturday afternoon.

Santa is expected to arrive about 2:00 o'clock for his annual visit and, because of weather conditions, he will arrive by power toboggan. Due to the recent passage of the War Measures Act, security for the visit by the internationally-known resident of the North Pole will be tight and he will be closely guarded by security forces, also riding power toboggans.

Santa's destination in Tofield will be the Community Centre, where he will visit with the children and pass out treats. Santa's visit was arranged this year by the Tofield Chamber of Commerce, after considerable difficulty because of transmission problems with the North Pole.

In addition to the treats, door prizes will be awarded, and a Walt Disney movie entitled "Flash, the Teenage Otter" will be shown.

The residents of Tofield have gotten pretty excited about Santa's visit this Saturday and, in their excitement, have decided that all their customers should also get special treats.

As a result, they have offered "Santa's Visit Specials", which are described in full on pages six and seven of this issue of The Mercury.

All children in the area are invited to visit Santa on Saturday. Once again, the time is 2:00 o'clock and the place is the Community Centre.

Titans gain victory over Tofield Alumni

The Tofield Alumni Games staged last Friday, were an overwhelming success, though the Alumni players turned out to make both games competitive as well as exciting to watch.

The girls' game was close up until the last minutes of play. The final score was Tofield 20, Alumni 22. Unfortunately, Marian Winder received a dislocated shoulder in the first quarter of play. No other major injuries were reported, although most alumni players showed symptoms of stiff muscles, blistered feet and shortness of breath.

For the first time in four years the High School boys defeated the Alumni, 32-30. Although the score was close, the Titans held a lead during the whole game.

A rare visit Slave Arsenault was held at the half-time of the boys' game. Fifteen high school basketball boys, Mr. Rurka (the coach) and Ted White were sold. Mr. White sold for $18.00 and Mr. Rurka for $12.50, while the highest sold players were Bob Christenson for $13.00 and Kim Pearson for $12.50. A total of $113.50 was raised at the auction. This money will go towards buying new uniforms for the high school boys.

Both Tofield teams are looking forward to the first league game of the season against Ryley, this Friday, the 4th. The game starts at 7:00 p.m. and will be hosted by Ryley. Anyone interested is invited to come out and support your team.

View on near future of farms

Recent reports on the outlook for some of the major farm commodities show:

WHEAT This fall's Prairie crop was 311 million bushels, down from 1969's 605 million bushels, due to a cut of more than 50% in wheat acreage. This drop, together with the recent upsurge in export sales, will help Canada reduce the wheat carry-over from 1,000 million bushels at the end of the previous crop year to 650 million bushels by next July 31. The strong export market should bring somewhat firmer prices (now around $1.75 a bushel for top grade).

FEED GRAIN Production of these grains—chiefly barley, oats and corn—is up two million tons to 27.4 million tons. Ottawa's advice to farmers is to grow more barley, so that Canada can cover export prospects.

OILSEEDS—The 1971 outlook is for good sales and firm prices.

DAIRY PRODUCTS—This year's estimated production of 18.5 million pounds of milk is down 1% from 1969. No significant change in dairy production is seen unless there is a change in federal or provincial subsidy policies.

POULTRY—This year, production costs rose while prices fell, giving poultry and egg producers a poor year. Broiler output rose 15% in the first nine months and still seems to be climbing. With these trends it looks like 1971, broiler producers have a grim outlook.

LIVESTOCK—The June 1 census showed 13 million head of cattle on farms, up 4% in a year—and the largest annual increase since 1964. Beef consumption trends in Canada suggest consumption will rise from about 82 pounds per capita now to 111-120 pounds by 1980.

Share the wealth

The new White Paper on pensions and family allowances shows all the earmarks of another mile down the road to socialism where all share alike but none share very much. The effort seems to be to increase the payments to those in the lower incomes, at the same time relieving those who have realized a little more income of any share of these higher payments. One thing, seems certain the farther we move down this road, and that is that there are only two logical ways to plan your career, one of which would be to wind up with enough money that you are completely out of reach of any of the pension or allowance schemes, and the other would be to so organize things that you derive the most benefit from them, for increasingly there seem to be fewer and fewer rewards for being anywhere in the middle.

The intent seems to be to relieve suffering a good deal without spending any more money in total, by increasing grants to the needy, and at the same time reducing grants to those who have. It would seem, however, that a factor not taken into the reckoning will be the cost of the huge new army of inspectors which will be required to administer, supervise and enforce the detail and the regulations of the new policies. Apart from the contribution this will make to the relief of unemployment, it is abhorrent to make more and more citizens subject to the caprice of inspectors, and the degradation of continual supervision and inspection. Moreover, it seems not in the public interest to vastly increase the number of Canadians drawing their salary from the public purse.

While opposition was to be expected, we cannot think very highly of the contribution made by Mr. Stanfield in his "too little, too late" sort of utterance. In telling Mr. Trudeau his action was two years too late, surely he is in effect asking "How did it take two years to come up with the right answer." Hardly very powerful opposition, is it?

Hardly comparable

Several months ago we found it hard to sympathize with Stephen Roman when the sale of his Dennison Mines uranium empire to American controlled interests was precipitately blocked by personal intervention of Prime Minister Trudeau, who promised retroactive legislation to make illegal any such transfer. We felt Canada and Canadian resources had been pretty good to Mr. Roman anyway, and it wasn't fair for him to cry 'foul' when his efforts to sell away part of our national mineral heritage were blocked.

Today, however, we can muster up a great deal more sympathy for Mr. Roman, when we see federal legislation ensnared to block sale of a physical, but depleting, asset, while no action whatever was taken by the same government to block sale of either of two publishing houses, the latter of which, Ryerson Press, went over to American control on Monday of this week.

What's even worse, we feel is an item little mentioned in all the discussion, so far as we know, which we found in a trade publication. It reads "Rev. Frank Brubin, administrator of Ryerson Press, said the United Church of Canada, owner of Ryerson Press, went to both federal and provincial governments to talk grants before the McGraw-Hill offer was accepted, but received no encouragement." Bold face is ours!

Several senior Liberal members opposed the transfer, two Liberal Senators strove to have an emergent discussion in the Senate, and public opinion ranged from those who supported the dollar and cents philosophy as the underlying principle, to those who were outraged by the development. The senators, including Alberta's Harper Prowse, couldn't even gain the floor and both governments acted as if other was while the sale took place.

More and more we can sympathize with Mr. Roman, even while we feel he was not badly treated.

Message heard?

Reports this week are that the Prime Minister has indicated he will drop his attempt to curtail the freedom of the Auditor General in the interests of getting on with more important business in the House.

Certainly the announcement is laudable, but one wonders whether it was the ... from the public generally, which caused such backdown, or the ... announcement from the ... that ...

No apologies for my generation

I have heard and read a great deal lately from young people about their disillusionment with society in general and my generation in particular. They complain that they have been dumped into a world of war, poverty, injustice and prejudice. We have been so materialistic, they say, so intent on "making it", that we have forgotten the real values of life - love, fairness, peace, and brotherhood.

As a result of our greed and tinsel conformity we have missed life, and in the process have left a mess that can be righted only by destroying it and building something better on the rubble.

I don't see it quite that way. I offer no apologies for my generation. I am proud of it and of what we have built on the foundation left us. I hope they will do as well. And they will if they'll leaven their zeal with a little humor, their egotism with a little history, and ask why their intolerance on universal love so often seems to express itself in hate for those who differ with them. To these youthful protesters I address the following:

It is strange that yours should be the most favored generation in history and yet the most self pitying - but a measure of self-tragedy is common to the young. When I was your age, I recall, we felt sorry for ourselves for being victimized by depression and forced to fight when we didn't want to. But if you think we value too highly the security of material possessions, let me remind you of this: We were born in the aftermath of one great conflict, grew up in history's greatest depression, and graduated in time to fight man's greatest war.

Getting out, we had one thing uppermost in mind — we wanted something better for ourselves and for you. We got it.

You speak of poverty. We have experienced it and not just from visits to Mississippi or Harlem. We remember when the fear of hunger hung heavily in nearly every home. We remember the homeless, the breadlines, the soup kitchens, the shuffling beggars in the street, the endless parade of tramps at the back door begging for work or food - defeated men who were once able and self-sufficient.

We have been materialistic because we have seen too many people suffer too much for material want because ... remember too many starving children ... because ... walked too many miles on too many cold mornings to ... long hours at low pay and return home at night to ... with fear and worry written in their eyes. We don't ... would not happen to you.

Because of it, you are the biggest, tallest, healthiest, brightest, handsomest generation to inhabit this land and perhaps the world. You are going to live longer, suffer sickness less often, work fewer hours, learn more, see more of the world a grandeur and have more choice in your life's undertaking than any generation before. Because we were materialistic you will have more leisure, more chance to achieve more opportunity to spend the days of your years in meaningful, challenging pursuits.

You cry out against the injustices suffered by Negroes - and you should. But we remember when a Negro lynching made news. If it was public we remember the bigger scandal was in the poor section of town where a few black kids pounded and pummeled their ambition, could cut six years of school schooling. We remember when "Negroes" came only to the back door, stepped off the sidewalk when white ladies passed, worked for fifty cents a day and kept to their place except to work in the white community. We are free today to share the guilt of forebearers responsible for their enslavement and make reparations for their mistreatment. The argument is inapplicable. We are no more responsible for their enslavement than for the mistreatment of Koreans by the Japanese.

On a more realistic basis, look at what our generation has achieved in the fight for equal ... Negroes were ... held offices from city halls to Congress, were in lab smocks and power uniforms. They share schools and colleges, marry, play football, go marching proud and all that before ... became ... issues. The new business, political and professional leaders ... now hold that same position in the ... movement ... We ... to point out ... laws forbidding ... death, social and economic barriers ... [illegible] ... years of economic initiative but we ... their children worked in sweatshops, when min... to be going to organize were shot like dogs, when strik... workers were mowed down by police. We remember ... company ... the chain gang, the hell of the in... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]

The hemlines are going down, down, down. Are we going to accept them, or keep our minds firmly fixed on the minis (the short ones we were never going to wear remember?)

1970 is the year of the fluctuating hemline and anything goes. The trend seems to be just below the knee length dresses and suits and mid-calf coats, slit skirts and culottes.

For the fence-sitters and the gals who want to be fashionable but have too many minis in the closet, the long vests and skirts over a mini are a great idea. The multi-level look and the layered look are in and can be really practical.

Why not make or buy a midi skirt with buttons or a zipper in the front to color coordinate with a couple of short dresses. Wear it partially unbuttoned over the dress, with a wide suede or reptile belt for the latest fashion at minimum cost. Mid length vests and sleeveless jackets can do the same thing.

Pants to wear under minis and pants with midis and the new gaucho pants are a safe bet for even the most "doubting Thomas". You have probably noticed an increase in pants suits of all sorts being worn by salesclerks and hairstylists and even in doctors' and business offices. A woman today can be elegantly and comfortably dressed for any occasion in an appropriate pants outfit.

Mid length winter coats have to be the most practical fashion in years! The minis are a bit breezy for a January in Alberta and the maxis are too much in spring slush (not to mention the hazard of getting caught in doors and elevators). Last year's tall ensembles will do again this year, but there shouldn't be any leg showing between the middies and boots.

What about accessories for the new look? Shoes are one of the most important accessories and any of the heavier looking shoes so popular the last couple of years are still also with the new look. Dark colored stockings help tie the pants together.

Clothes necessary in again as there be a long strand of beads wound around or a locket or circle headband or even a nail scarf folded and tied around your neck.

The [illegible] is back so a wide belt can do wonders to give a [illegible] the 1970 look.

In clothes wear, girls always [illegible] show the same trends [illegible] Mums [illegible] still also [illegible] who want to [illegible] longer [illegible] ing [illegible] ... [illegible] youthful [illegible].

And for men in the family are not being forgotten. The [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible] finally [illegible] ... [illegible] Double [illegible] ... [illegible] vision [illegible] ... [illegible] selling like hotcakes in Edmonton. The appearance is very similar to the traditional woven fabrics and anyone who can't tell a woven from a knit fabric wouldn't guess! Women have loved knits for years because they don't wrinkle are comfortable to wear and many of them can be washed and worn with no ironing.

Holden and district news items

(Mrs. G. R. Taylor)

Mr. A. L. Gibson was in Edmonton on Monday attending an educational committee meeting representative from the County of Beaver No. 9

The UCW and Pioneer group of Holden United Church held their annual pre-Christmas bazaar and tea in the church parlors on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 28th. It was a very successful event with a number of out of town ladies taking in the delicious tea, sale of home baking and sale of novelties and sewing for Christmas gifts.

The Holden Curling Clubs are now organized and games are being played. The several bowling groups are also busy with their various activities, with several ladies rinks and mixed rinks playing during the week.

The past summer months have been a very busy and rewarding period for three 4-H Club members, Gerry, Maxine and Bernie Klammer, children of Mr. and Mrs. C. Klammer of the north Holden district Gerry attended for the first week in July, the graduate seminar at the club camp, Goldeye Camp, he also had a request, during the latter part of June to attend a 4-H meeting at Grant Falls, Montana, but was unable to attend as he was then writing his grade 12 exams. He also attended a week's seminar, sponsored by Co-op Associations, held in Saskatchewan. At the Regional 4-H Horse Show, held August 4th in Vegreville, Gerry was awarded first in judging and also first in the trail ride and being awarded a trophy as runner-up with highest points. He has also received a merit award from the 4-H Clubs at a meeting and convention held at Great Falls, Montana, for the highest points given a 4-H club member at Northern Alberta, attending the conservation camp in 1969.

At the 4-H Dairy Club show held during the summer, Maxine received the prize for having the best Holstein calf and Bernie the best Guernsey calf and he also received a grooming kit as a prize for showmanship. During the second week in July, Maxine attended the week-long 4-H week at Vermilion School of Agriculture and during the week of the Edmonton Exhibition and snow, she and her brother Bernie, were selected 4-H Club members of the Northern Alberta 4-H clubs to judge at the dairy show, placing first in judging Jerseys and second in Judging Holsteins. At the Vegreville Exhibition Maxine was one of the highest 4-H Club exhibitors with a total of 96 points, also bring one of the students from Holden High School taking the week's trip to Montreal, Ottawa and other points under the Young Voyageurs plan.

The three are all junior directors of the Vegreville Exhibition Board and Maxine and Gerry being junior leaders in the 4-H Club.

Gerry is presently attending the University of Alberta taking a science course. These three young people are truly to be congratulated, taking part in these activities which will be of advantage to them in their future life.

Discovers species new to science

What's a beach hopper?

No, it's not a tourist that flies from one summertime resort to another over-indulging in human at all.

Beach-hoppers are known to zoologists as little animals or amphipod crustaceans living between the tides that help to make up that great family sometimes known as shrimps of the sea.

Crustaceans are important in the chain of life on this environment. They change organic matter into animal protein, and they in turn become food for birds, fishes and other animals.

This probably isn't much in the way that doesn't depend on these little amphipods for nourishment of some time during its life cycle. Even known whales and seals depend significantly on them for their food.

Dr. L. L. Bousfield, chief zoologist and curator of crustacea of the National Museum of Natural Sciences returned recently from the "Hudson 70" expedition in the Cape Horn region where he collected about 60 containers of amphipods and other sea animals. The Hudson 70 expedition, Canada's largest single research program ever undertaken is the first cruise of the new 9,370 ton vessel converted from a former ice breaker.

The 50 scientists aboard the ship that carried Charles Darwin on his five-year epic voyage of scientific discovery 130 years previously.

The others arrived when the Hudson docked in Victoria on July.

Preliminary examination of the collection has revealed some exciting discoveries. After a close study of one specimen he found it new to science, and a look over the collection indicates at least 20 other species that probably are also unknown to the scientific world.

"The new-identified species is the most primitive of its group," said Dr. Bousfield, "It probably hasn't changed much in 100 million years. At the rate of evolution or replacement of animals, this species has no business being around after all this time. It's almost like finding a living dinosaur."

He believes about two-thirds of the entire "Hudson 70" collection will be new to science. He'll be busy for years identifying and classifying them in their proper categories.

Dr. Bousfield said it was "natural to look for basic primitive types" in the southern hemisphere. The best operations were in Beagle Channel named after the ship that carried Darwin on his five-year epic voyage of scientific discovery 130 years previously.

He hopes to find other animals as significant as the first one he examined, perhaps finding some of the evolutionary "missing link" types.

"A few of these animals I have looked at are difficult to place in any known family," he said. "It may mean that we will have a whole new classification of some groups."

The museum scientist said beach hoppers and beach fleas are important in keeping beaches free from organic material that sooner or later finds its way into the food stage of garbage disposers. They are equivalent to insects and spiders of the land, and they occupy also the top rungs of the most every ecological niche of the marine environment, from shallow water to the very deepest parts of the ocean.

"They are important," he said, because they convert primary food sources — algae and marine plants — into animal protein, thus making the basis of the most important fish foods. Without amphipods much of the marine life could not exist."

Why haven't they been collected before in the southern hemisphere?

"Probably because the region has been very remote and hasn't been given much research priority in the past 100 years," he said. "From my general knowledge of world museums, they contain very few collections from the southern part of South America."

The beach flea family is one of the very few animal groups that today has members living in the sea, in the tidal zone and on land up to the tops of the highest mountains. They occupy a physically harsh and different environment to which few other animals have been able to adapt.

"My interest," he said, "is to find out what morphological adaptations have taken place that have enabled them to survive as they have."

Modern etiquette

Q How long should a call be on a friend who is a patient in a hospital?

A. Make up your mind before you arrive that you will stay no longer than 15 or 20 minutes and stick to it no matter how much the patient may beg you to stay. If other visitors arrive while you are there leave sooner, so that they may have their share of the patient's time.

Q Since announcing my engagement recently, I have received a number of gifts of money. Am I supposed to divide this with my fiance, or does the money rightfully belong to me to spend as I wish?

A. Rightfully, you should put this money into a special account to be spent later by both of you for something for your home.

Q I've always thought that the man does all the phoning necessary. But does this rule apply even when a couple has had a quarrel, especially when it was started by the girl—as is my sad story?

A. There can never be anything wrong with ANYONE'S phoning his apologies for a mistake he knows he made—and it doesn't matter whether it's man or woman.

VARIETY NIGHT

RYLEY — Ryley's Turkish Ralser Varieties', scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 12th, promises to be an evening of hilarity and fun. Organizations of the community are working on a variety of numbers which include comedy skits and monologues, orchestras and vocals, majorettes, and many surprise numbers.

A 20th wedding anniversary party was held on Saturday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stitkbuck's home for Mr. and Mrs Bob Campbell of Round Hill.

It was a family gathering and a very enjoyable evening was spent in sing songs and a lovely turkey supper was served. The anniversary cake was placed before the couple to be cut. They made quite a number of attempts to place a cut in the cake, but no mark was made as the cake turned out to be a wooden block merely iced for the occasion for a joke. They were then presented with the cake instead. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stitkbuck is home of cake maker and coffee maps. The evening was well spent by all.

Mr. Al Anderson is a pat ient in the Tofield Hospital. Visitors are also invited to swing at the Vern Chang Rick suit, a used banged up Santa. Let those ring!

RCMP issue charts on blood-alcohol content

In an effort to discourage drinking drivers the Royal Canadian Mounted Police began handing out complimentary Canada Safety Council Blood-Alcohol Charts yesterday (Tuesday) as Safe Driving Week got underway.

The chart is a wallet size card containing information details such as extracts from the Criminal Code on impaired driving laws, compulsory breath tests and a guide showing estimated blood alcohol levels in relation to number of drinks, body weight and time lapse.

RCMP Traffic Officer W. J. Hunter is hopeful that this project will contribute in a positive way to accident prevention because traffic tickets, court appearances, death and destruction are not the ingredients for a happy holiday season".

The Traffic Officer went on to say that the RCMP traffic program includes various approaches, but that they are all aimed at one goal: traffic accident prevention.

The Alberta Safety Council is contributing a strong campaign to reduce accidents caused by drinking drivers and has distributed over 125,000 blood alcohol charts to Alberta drivers in an effort to create public support and interest in curbing the problem of drinking drivers. The Alberta Safety Council is inviting the general public to write in and express their views on the problem during Safe Driving Week, which ends Monday at mid night.

Safety Council officials admit that there is no adequate way of measuring the success of stiff enforcement of laws on drinking drivers, but point out that an imaginative program initiated by the Arkansas State Police in 1969 has had startling results.

Using a system of roadside checks and surveillance of known Arkansas authorities have noticed a drop of almost 15% in traffic fatalities during the first full year of the program. This success was further impaved during the first six months of 1970 with an additional reduction of five per cent the aspect of the news program is the obvious packing of a marked police car near a tavern. Police theorized that many taxis start to work as many drivers decide that they are not in shape to do their own driving.

The Alberta Safety Council has issued the following advice to all drivers.

Abstain from drinking before driving, or consume no more than one bottle of beer or one cocktail an hour. They also add that if you do not heed this advice you should arrange for an accompanied driver to operate your car or use other means of transportation.

Police authorities are stressing that a driver with more than .08 grams of alcohol per 100 milliliters of blood is committing a criminal offense and is liable to a fine of up to $1,000 or six months imprisonment, or both and loss of your driver's license.

Local police and safety council officials are quite concerned about drinking drivers because, in 1969, 3,321 Canadians were killed in traffic accidents and at least 50% of these fatalities involved alcohol.

ing into conversation—trying to stop the erosion of our soil, the pollution of air and water, setting aside land for public enjoyment, learning to work with the forces of nature to preserve threatened life forms.

It is in the field of social relationships that we, like all before us, have fallen shortest of the goal. Even with the threat of annihilation hanging over us we have not found an alternative to war.

Perhaps you can perfect the social mechanism so that all men may, without the threat of force, pursue their ends. Perhaps you can create a world in which people no longer need laws or police to enforce them, or armies to prevent men of one belief from trespassing against others. But the violence with which you protest violence justifies little hope that you will. You must learn to hate injustice without hating the unjust, to hate war without hating those who resort to it.

Which brings us to the most sensitive of your protests. The root of your discontent, of our nation's discontent, the toothache that distorts all other sensations in the body of politics is, of course, the war in Vietnam.

The decision to intervene in Vietnam was, I am convinced, a mistake resulting partly from ignorance, as do most mistakes. But it was a mistake shared by most of our chosen leaders, including many of those most admired by the young. It seems certain to go down in history as a bloody blunder, but I am convinced that we made it with the best motives, and that we remain in Vietnam not for pride nor profit, as so many young profess to believe, but because we have yet to find a way to quit without endangering both the people and principles we went to defend.

You say that you have been dumped into a world you never made. Frankly, I cannot recall a generation having been given the privilege of choosing the shape of the world into which it was born. It has been said that yours is the first generation to grow up unsure that it will have a world to live in tomorrow. It has its tensions, of course, as have all eras; we feel them as keenly as you. But in an individual sense (which may be the only relevant one) this has been true of all men since the spear.

Before you become paranoid in your fear of nuclear doom-day, remember that we share this fear and the danger behind it, and your determination that this force must be tamped. You are not alone in opposing the arms race, the ABM, the overbalance on defense spending. You will have help in your fight to control this violence. But remember that men have had these weapons for a generation now, and fear has in part, kept the great powers from falling at each other.

We worry about you because you seem more intent on destroying the system than in correcting it. Your willingness to resort to violence to force the will of your minority on the majority smacks more of the storm trooper than of the reformer. Your intolerance makes me wonder who your reforms are designed to benefit, just as your tactics make me doubtful that you will succeed.

Believe me, I am glad to see your anger at disserving want and injustice. It speaks of something good in you. It will spur you, I hope, to make changes. At the same time, I suggest that much of your shock comes from a delayed disillusion with reality. You recall it want because you have never lived in his midst. You resent injustice, violence, and suffering because you have grown up in a comfortable world.

You say that the schoolbook view of America is false, that democracy, equality, brotherhood, liberty, and justice for all are myths. You are wrong. They are the ideals, the goals, the vision put before us by the men who started all this. Are they less inspiring, less worthy, less believable we, being human and fallible, fall short of them?

It is not easy to pinpoint our values, but among them are freedom from fear, want, and oppression. It is right to war one's children in love and conscience, to choose one's leaders and change one's government as laws direct, to be free to reach as far as our talents will permit and to live in our homes in dignity, peace and security.

I think it is important for you to be aware of our attitude and our experiences for several reasons. It is good to know where you have been so that you can better decide where you want to go. And a man should think well of his forbearers, those who went before and gave him life. For, as the saying goes, the apple does not fall far from the tree, and the traits you have inherited are those on which you must depend as you begin your work.

As a generation, you have good qualities, I think, from which to draw strength in time of stress.

MacDuff Ottawa Report

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 Canadian and United States cabinet ministers get together at least once a year, to talk over problems that have arisen between the two countries.

The talks are held alternately between Ottawa and Washington.

The latest one to be held in Ottawa is the last week of November.

They had been scheduled for the Spring of this year. However they had to be postponed because relations between the two countries were so strained at that time that it was mutually agreed that it would be best to wait until the Fall, to hold the talks.

And so it came about that the Canadian ministers and their American counterparts sat down around a conference table to discuss the contentious subjects that had arisen in the relations between the two governments. Canada was very alarmed about a bill that had been passed by the American House of Representatives under the misleading title of the "Trade Expansion Act". This bill has had so many amendments made to it that it has emerged as a real trade protectionist measure

CONCERN WAS WORLD-WIDE

Not only Canadians, but all trading countries around the world, were alarmed about this swing towards protectionism, that was becoming apparent in Washington.

In the closed door meetings between the Canadian and American ministers the Canadians demanded to know why the U.S. seemed to be veering towards protectionist trade policies. They wanted to know what was going to happen to the much feared Trade Expansion bill, now before Congress.

Fear not, said the U.S. ministers privately, the bill will never get passed. Later, after the talks were over, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the press that the American ministers had strongly hinted there was little likelihood of the bill being passed by Parliament.

"DOOMED" TO FAIL

A U.S. spokesman explained that it was now before Congress. It would come under strong attack in congress from the supporters of freer trade policies. Congress wants to rise in time for Christmas.

If the bill has not been passed by the time the Congress quits in deliberations to celebrate the Christmas holiday that will be the end of it. A new congress is assembled after January 1 and such a bill to be reintroduced would have to go through all the initial stages.

MORE THAN WILLING

Reassured on this point the Canadians turned to the question of restrictive oil quotas that rush the amount of Canadian oil that can be sold in the United States. Preliminary talks had been held in Washington on this question.

The Americans were ready to yield quickly on this problem. The Canadian ministers after the talks broke up happily announced they had scored a major break through. The U.S. has agreed in principle to take all crude oil this country can supply in 1971, they reported.

The U.S. is also moving to scrap its complicated oil import quota system and the new agreement could give Canada full access to the important American markets. This could mean an increase in oil exports piped into the U.S. of around 100,000 barrels a day. The current export rate is about 480,000 barrels a day, for the area east of the Rockies.

OPEN MARKET AHEAD

Energy, Mines and Resources Minister J. J. Greene was delighted with the outcome of the talks. He said "The days of an open market is just down stream".

After the talks, U.S. Secretary of the Exterior Walter Hickel told the press, "We are still trying to work out how we can have a continental energy policy".

The next day in the Commons, Mr. Sharp vigorously denied that there was any talk of a continental energy policy in the conference.

Only dampening effect on the joy of the Canadian ministers over the oil situation, was that when Mr. Hickel got back to Washington the announcement was made that he had been moved out of the post of secretary of the exterior. What this means to the agreements reached at the Ottawa talks, only time will tell.

Another subject that Canada raised with the Americans was pollution. In particular the pollution of the Great Lakes. This is a pet peeve of Mr. Greene, Canada's resources minister. He hammered home his protests to the Americans. They assured the Canadian groups that Washington was well aware of the need for action and that action was coming in that field.

WORKS TO WELL FOR CANADA

The Automotive Products Agreement of 1965 was reviewed by the ministers. Surprisingly a big beef here. Ever as the pact has worked well in Canada's favor, that Ottawa can cut taxes, and unhappy. The Canadians agreed to continue discussions on possible changes that might make it more beneficial to Canada in the long run.

There was a promise that the Auto Pact Economic Committee would continue to study ways of improving the Canadian industry. Also that the Canadian Government would be willing to discuss with the U.S. and Canada Labels will be made bilingual. Some of these could be settled by the meeting of Canada's Consumer Affairs Minister Mrs. Marcia Sennik. Distant Waters Director reported to Parliament.

Tofield, Ryley split two basketball games

Due to inclement weather, the Ryley Tofield basketball game, previously scheduled for Friday the 4th, was held Monday. Although bad road conditions prevailed, Tofield fans came out in support their teams in this, the first league game of the season.

Although the girls were defeated 25-19, they expect to make a come-back this Friday against Viking. Spirits ran high during the full thirty-two minutes of play, as both teams battled for the lead. A basket scored by Ryley in the last seconds of play decided the victory.

The Tofield boys gained a quick lead and managed to maintain the edge throut bout the entire game. The final score was 39-36. This year's team shows signs of being one of the best to ever come out of Tofield.

If the remainder of the league games prove to be as exciting as these two, fans can look forward to a good season.

This Friday, Dec. 11, Tofield plays host to the Viking teams. The girls' game starts at 7:00 p.m., and all spectators are welcome

Lakeshore - McKenzie news items

(Mrs. Ellen Eaton)

LAKESHORE - McKENZIE — Mrs. Ellen Eaton accompanied her granddaughter, Linda Niemetz to Edmonton on Sunday evening, Nov. 29th where Linda, who is a student at the university had spent the weekend on the farm. Ellen was a guest at the home of Joan and Tony Volney for almost a week due to being unable to get home on account of the road into the farm being completely blocked, following the snow storm that started Monday morning followed by high winds and drifting snow during most of the week. While in the city, Ellen visited at the home of Lawrence and Carol Graham one day and was a Thursday overnight guest of Mrs. Ruth Wickenberg. On Friday, Dec. 4th she went to Seba Beach and visited at the home of her son, Walter and Evelyn Eaton and went with them on Saturday to Drayton Valley where she visited her brother Johnston Campbell in the Drayton Valley Hospital. She returned to Edmonton Sunday evening, then to Tofield Monday evening and to her home after the road had been plowed on Monday evening. More snow fell again this Monday with some blowing snow, making driving conditions very hazardous when meeting and passing other traffic on the highway and roads. Snow cleared over night and on Tuesday, although winds are still light, there is danger of more drifting.

On Saturday, Nov. 28th, Elmer and Vi Goerglein motored to Edmonton to attend the wedding and reception of their niece Judy Lane to Peter Fisher. After the reception they were overnight guests at the home of Vi's sister, Mrs. Lil Ball. On Sunday they were dinner guests of Tom and Gloria Johnston before returning home.

Earl Jones and his father in law Frank Wiltzen of Ross Creek were visitors at the home of John and Mary Wood one day last week.

Sunday guests at the home of Elmer and Vi Goerglein were their son Elmer and Vivian Goerglein and family of Ardrossan and Vi's sister Ella and Graham Allan and children Stuart and Heather of Tofield. During their visit all were enjoying snowmobile riding over the open fields and around the farm.

Natural gas has been installed in most of the farm homes in the district during the last month, including your correspondent's home, who for one is really enjoying it, especially during this really cold weather.

Erma and Fred Onyschuk of Edmonton were visitors at the home of Erma's brother, George and Ida Niemetz on Sunday, Nov. 29th.

"Are YOU in the market for a new range?" If so, you will likely want to consider purchasing an oven with some type of "self cleaning" features. There are two types of ovens available.

These are the pyrolytic self cleaning oven, and the catalytic "continuous cleaning" oven. The self cleaning oven has been on the market for a few years now. It cleans by raising the temperature within the oven to over 800° F. and literally burning the food particles off the interior of the oven.

The new "continuous cleaning" oven is a sort of cross between the conventional oven (in which you do the scrubbing yourself) and the self cleaning oven.

How Does It Work?

Continuous cleaning works on the principle of oxidation of oven soil at normal cooking temperatures. This is made possible by the presence of a catalyst or chemical agent which is bonded to the porcelain enamel on the oven walls or oven liners

When the globules of soil come in contact with the hot catalytic surface, they begin to oxidize.

The soil decomposes into carbon dioxide and moisture, and passes away as normal vent products.

Appearance

A light stippled overspray of hard porcelain is applied over the basic material. The basic material is generally dark in colour and has a dull rather than a shiny appearance.

The stipple acts to:
(a) lend an attractive appearance,
(b) protect against abrasion,
(c) disperse the soil into smaller splatterings

Use and Care

1. It is recommended that heavy spillovers, such as from a fruit pie, be wiped up as soon as they occur. Steel wool soap pads work satisfactorily. Powdered cleansers should not be used as they may fill the pores in the coating and reduce the effectiveness of the catalyst in that area.
2. There is no need to use caustic type oven cleaners on the catalytic surface.
3. Oven racks and oven wire form must be cleaned, as with the conventional oven.
4. If excessive soil accumulates it is suggested that the oven temperature be set at 400-500 degrees for two hours. This will assist in burning off the soils.

This oven is not to be confused with the "self cleaning" oven in which the temperature is 11? The oven is raised to over 900 and literally burns the food spatts from the interior of the oven. In this case, grease and soil tracks is, be scrubbed out as customarily, especially if you have used it several times for meat products. In the case of enough time is allowed in order to completely burn all spills.

Fuel to the fire

Recent announcements that automobile insurance rates are to advance sharply in Alberta will add a good deal of strength to the pleas of the Insurance Agents' Association of Alberta that the provincial government take effective legislative steps to help assure Alberta motorists becoming better drivers.

Meeting in Calgary last month, the agents urged that the minimum age for driving be 18, BUT 16 where a driver education course had been passed, that all new applicants for driver's license be required to pass a driver education course, regardless of age, and that chronic traffic violators be required to pass a defensive driving course before regaining their suspended licenses

Only one in forty eligible students receives a complete course in driver education at present, yet figures show that 21.3 per cent of drivers under 25 years old are responsible for 33.5 per cent of car crashes.

When it is considered that generally these drivers do not put on the average number of miles, their accident rate per thousand miles must be significantly higher still.

The association also urged that both federal and provincial governments allocate sufficient funds for a full and exhaustive investigation into the "highway slaughter". Noting that the federal government spent two and a half million dollars investigating the air crash at St. Therese, Quebec, where 113 people died, the association pointed out 5,000 people die in Canada every year on the highways.

It's an interesting, if dismaying, commentary on human nature that appeals to our purse through forced higher insurance premiums may accomplish what appeals to our common sense and humanity fail to gain.

Funny money

Bookkeeping must be a funny business in Ottawa. Only a few months ago, the federal government decided to scrap the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, after an incredibly costly refit, even though it had several years of useful life in it, because budgetary considerations forced the department to take it out of commission.

Yet only a few days ago the same defence department decided to keep right on with a contract to build four helicopter-carrying destroyers under a program announced in 1964, even though there are suggestions in some areas that the ships, or some of them, could conceivably be put in mothballs after they have been launched. Also, though, to be fair, this is not considered likely, since it's an embarrassing policy for the department to adopt.

Could it be that among the major factors in the decision to carry on with the somewhat needless project, estimated to run somewhere between $250 and $280 million, rather than the originally projected $232 million, is the fact that the two shipyards involved in the contract are at Sorel and Lauzon, both in Quebec, where the highest rate of unemployment in the country exists? And possibly the highest rate of dissatisfaction?

On the move

Alberta's Treasury Branches seem definitely to be on the move, according to figures shown in their latest financial report, released a few weeks ago. Total business hasn't reached all that big a level, really, at $233,677,477, and especially when you remember the whacking business some of our credit unions do. The Camrose unit, for instance, is reaching for two millions this year, we think, and will be reporting shortly after the New Year. Still, the Treasury Branch business is up eighteen percent from last year, and that's pretty gratifying. It's also interesting to read that nearly every segment of their operations showed a significant upturn, with only the most modest falling off in the area of current accounts.

It's interesting, too, to note that three-fifths of all loans are made in the commercial and industrial field, another fifth for agricultural and personal purposes, and a seventh for municipal purposes

One of the most significant items. It seems lies in the general profitability of business done during the year, wherein a million dollars was transferred to the general revenue of the province, as was done in recent years, but that still left $2,469,233 to be transferred to the reserve funds. To understand the importance of this last figure, it represents slightly over a quarter of the entire reserve fund established over all the years the Treasury Branches have been in business. It was rather widely suspected during the first few years of operation of the Treasury Branches that they weren't entirely self-supporting and that the Province was required to bail them out from time to time, but little light was ever available on the subject If ever it was true, the picture seems to be reversed now, and the pseudo-banks are helping out the province's general revenue

An interesting little sidelight having nothing to do with the banking is to observe how many managers and supervisors have moved through the Camrose office, making it appear to be one of the important training grounds for "men on the move"

"SHAKE-UP NEEDED"

The Mercury Editor,
Sir:

In your issue of Dec. 10th appeared an article by Mrs. Beth Campbell, entitled "Why must he leave".

With a bit of space in your next edition I would like to give some of the reasons why we have the conditions Mrs. Campbell and others are interested in.

Such conditions come about because of the complacency of the residents and taxpayers of our small towns who neglect their duties and responsibilities to their communities especially on election days.

The elderly retired citizens can be excused to a certain degree, they move into our small towns to live in peace and comfort, and this should as much as possible be left to them. We should even assist them to be comfortable.

But the prominent citizens mentioned are not excusable. Amongst these we have businessmen, laborers, school teachers, etc. Many businessmen in small towns express themselves, that they can't take part in town administration because they are in business and while they don't say so, they are afraid of losing a sicket over the counter or a business deal. Others, because of their complacency, are worried if they spoke up they could lose a friend. Might I say here that anyone who feels offended because someone steps out and stands for right and truth, should not be considered a friend in the first place.

Because of our smug complacency we get into office men which could be placed in two categories: On the one hand we could get men whose main objective is for monetary reasons, hoping that sooner or later they could reap some special benefits for themselves; some of these are very domineering and often put over things which are far from the welfare of the community which they are supposed to serve. On the other hand, we get these sometimes known as "spineless stuffed shirts". These make fine "yes" men for the first mentioned, as they generally take the path of least resistance when the wind blows from the south west they go south east, when the winds change, they change course and eventually lose all sense of direction and go around in circles, hoping some miracle would happen which would hide their blunders.

As to the question of Why not to Leave? Here is no such thing as a right to be produced himself in a position as to be contrary to the Welfare of this town or lose his Job which is very doubtful. According to the search filling the job in town it would almost be reasonable to believe the Council could have conducted themselves far from what could be called Honorable

A few years ago the town voted themselves a [illegible] council expecting better services and service I would like to point out that a town our size does not need for a five man council all this has been reduced to two men and could be run around and pass the buck.

Several years ago this old hall had a very important business and a hub where important decisions were made. It now appears it might be due for a demolition job.

So people, let us get out of your interior and be reunited with those who are interested in building our town strictly, instead of tearing Apart

J. A. Giebelhaus.

RURAL POWER

Tofield, Alberta,
December 12, 1970

Editor, The Mercury.
Dear Sir:

I am secretary of the Tofield R.E.A. and take quite an interest in rural power

As the first part of the enclosed has probably been printed in the Edmonton Journal by now, I do not know whether or not you will be interested in it for The Mercury.

Greetings of the Season.

Sincerely,
V. Bates.

Unifarm and Rural Electrification

Mr. Henry Young, a prominent figure in Unifarm, leaves little doubt as to his opinion of Calgary Power. In a letter to the Leduc Representative Mr. Young again denounces the Power Company in no uncertain terms. This time it is in regard to the 12 point proposal put forth by the Company for the consideration of Rural Electrification Associations. At meetings, sponsored by Uniform to discuss the proposal, spokesmen portray Calgary Power as avaricious and unprincipled, out to extract all it can from unsuspecting farmers. Such tactics do little for Uniform in the public eye and only add to the belief that farmers are particularly difficult to satisfy. But the issues here are superficial, as nothing short of public ownership than all the Power Company will satisfy Mr. Young and his associates. A basic need, and at the same time weakness, of unions is dissatisfaction. If none is present, or, not sufficiently strong, it is in the interest of the union to see that some is generated. Unions have their ethos, to be sure, but they have no monopoly on justice. Greed is weakness of men and is found in all walks of life. An example of this is the almost unbelievable account in the October edition of Reader's Digest of how corrupt the United Mine Workers of America became.

Domination of the Union of R.E.A.'s by Uniform will do little for either one. The fault here lies with R.E.A.'s which do not belong to the Union and with those which belong but do not send delegates to the conventions.

With the abundance of natural gas such as we have in this province it is unfortunate that it is beyond the reach of so many farmers. Without a doubt, most would gladly welcome an agreement to obtain gas similar to the one we have with Farm Electric Services to obtain power.

Central Administration

The following are only a few points in the move toward Central Administration for R.E.A.'s presumable by the Union of R.E.A.'s The object is to establish a central office to deal with the problems of rural electrification

It proposes:

A Board of Directors elected by the membership to direct the central administration and supervise all officers to insure duties are properly performed.

Local Boards would continue in much the same manner as at present and would render assistance in the central administration by providing direct communication with the needs of each of their membership

Dissemination of Loan Boards could take place if it was desired by the local association, with full responsibility being assumed by the central administration provided as needed without charge to the member, such costs to be met out of general revenue.

Requirement for entry of R.E.A.'s to be based on the adequacy of funds in the reserve account.

Transformer changes to be

Duties of Central Administration will be those presently being performed by supplying companies.

Initial duties will be to supervise operations, approve expenditures that are deemed necessary and make such payments for services that have been rendered.

To keep records of the operation of the system and the acts of the central administration so a full report can be presented to regular meetings of the delegates.

Contract signing, transformer change applications and transfer agreements, etc. could be done through company service offices with a fixed fee for such services.

It can be added to the above that Uniform favors the abolition of the Alberta Power Commission.

Secretary Tofield R.E.A.

RAPESEED PROGRESS

Ottawa, December 4.

Dear Sir:

Arising out of press releases relating to the development of acid-free variety rapeseed, I have undertaken to pursue the matter jointly with the Ministers of Agriculture and National Health and Welfare. The end of January, from the Minister of Agriculture, outlines progress in new varieties of rapeseed, which will undoubtedly be of interest to producers in our area.

I, therefore, am taking the liberty of enclosing a copy of correspondence received regarding this matter.

Yours sincerely,
Donald F. Mazankowski,
Member for Vegreville.

Ottawa, November 30.

Mr. Donald F. Mazankowski,
House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Mazankowski:

Your letter to my colleague, the Honourable John Munro, has been directed to me for reply.

As you are aware, Mr. Munro released a statement on the Government's intention on August 12, 1970. In brief, it stated that it was felt prudent to phase-in the zero erucic acid varieties by 1972. This was done because experiments have shown that erucic acid has a deleterious affect on experimental animals. In order to avoid any criticism of rapeseed because of the erucic acid level and because Canada has erucic acid varieties available, the changeover to zero erucic acid varieties was possible.

There are three varieties developed by the plant breeders in this Department, One, Oro, an Argentine type, was released in 1968. The other two, not named as yet, are the SZ-66 Argentine type and S.P.A., the Polish or turnip rape type. The SZ-66 is approximately 3 days earlier maturing than Oro which is a distinct advantage because of the early frost hazard in many parts of Western Canada. This variety will be increased under contract in 1971 with the object of providing enough seed for 1,000,000 acres in 1972.

The S.P.A. variety is of the Polish type, which is grown on approximately 80 per cent of the acreage in Western Canada.

The S.P.A. zero erucic is being multiplied by the Department in California this winter in order to have enough seed for seed production purposes in 1971 and a substantial amount to seed for crushing purposes in 1971. The crushers and processors have requested this part of the multiplication because they would like quantities to put through their plants in order to be prepared for 1972. Through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, who will be producing seed for seed purposes in 1972, the Department will have enough seed of the S.P.A. variety to seed 3,000,000 acres in 1972.

Canadian rapeseed is already in a favourable position in terms of erucic acid content. The regular Argentine type rapeseed varieties have an erucic acid content ranging from 36-45 per cent of the oil content; the Polish varieties have an erucic acid content of 22-23 per cent. European varieties, which are mainly the winter types, have an erucic acid content of 43-50 per cent.

The three new varieties are true zero erucic types. In the new S.P.A. Polish type there is at present some mechanical mixture which is giving it about a 2 per cent erucic acid reading. However, the Saskatoon Research Station is working on this problem and will have breeders' seed which is totally free of erucic acid. With the Polish types there will always be some problem as they are cross pollinated; however, with the use of clean seed, isolation strips and rogueing, the contamination should be minimal. As far as the Argentine types are concerned, they are 80 per cent self-pollinated and that should more readily retain the zero erucic acid characteristic.

I trust this has given you the information you desire.

Yours truly,
H. A. (Bud) Olson.

Alberta's Great Moments
Starring the famous players from your lovable Lethbridge label

Raising the flag on Mt Norquay

A mere mountain won't stop that crazy cast of characters from the Lethbridge label. They've got a flag worth waving: the Lethbridge Pilsner pennant that promises the peak of good old-fashioned flavour in every glass. That's the way it's been for nearly half a century. And that's the way it'll stay — as real and rugged as our pioneer tradition. So next time call for Alberta's original Pilsner. Enjoy your own Great Moments with Lethbridge Pil.

Pilsner BEER

GRANNY? Good heavens! Don't be silly. This smashing young lady is far from it . . . , but not her boots. They're known as Granney in the footwear business — and by the sound of things on the fashion scene, they've got a few years of living to do yet. (TTS)

ALBERTA IN ACTION

DEVELOPING POTENTIAL IN PEOPLE

Delinquency — a community affair

Community action in the form of greater understanding and the involvement of people on a volunteer basis is said as strengthening the many important and varied family services provided through the Child Welfare Branch. Particularly is its work with parents of offenders. New methods in the care and treatment of young offenders, under supervision of the trained social workers of the Branch are directed at rehabilitation rather than punishment, concepts of fault and key control. The eventual aim is to encourage proper maintenance and establish new roots back into the mainstream of society for boys and girls in trouble with the law.

Since juvenile probation, and the care of children held in custody as juvenile delinquents (boys under the age of 16 and girls under 18 years), became the responsibility of a Branch this year, a new approach is already taking shape. Co-educational Youth Development Centres have been established in Calgary and Edmonton. They provide academic and vocational training along with other out-of-school expansion programs. With the program under the over-all umbrella of the Social Development Department, all the services of the department are more readily available should the child's behavioral problems stem from family problems.

New pre-employment training centres

Post-secondary adult education in the province will be taking another big step forward with the scheduled completion of two all-new Alberta Vocational Centres in Edmonton and Calgary.

The move to the ultra-modern centres by modest buildings will consolidate all facilities and staff of this ongoing program. Up to now they have been spread out on various rented quarters, on both cases, and the move will mean an increase in the province's over-all capacity to provide thousands of young men and women with specialized pre-employment training.

Academic courses needed to complete further education will be taught at the centres along with such things as secretarial and business programs and specific vocational studies.

All students attending the regular day programs at the centres are enrolled on a voluntary basis only and are financially assisted in one form or another with training allowances provided either by Canada Manpower or other provincial services. One such centre is already operating in Fort McMurray which, in addition to similar courses offered by the two new major centres, offers courses in heavy duty construction equipment training.

Probation offers better opportunity

The use of composite, written pre-sentence reports for consideration by the presiding justice in the courts of Alberta are becoming more established. Such reports, relating primarily to the social background of offenders, submitted by full-time probation officers of the Adult Probation Branch, are made only after the establishment of guilt. The growing trend in the use of probation orders in sentencing, or following a term of imprisonment, offers an offender a greater opportunity of preserving self-dignity and a second chance to face life on his own responsibility. The resulting cost saving to taxpayers is 8 to 10 times less than the cost of imprisonment, plus support costs if a family is involved.

A voluntary, pre-employment program, mainly for the benefit of younger probationers, such as high-school dropouts, unskilled workers, or persons without job experience (largely in the 16 to 25 age group) is another social service aspect of probationary work. The program arranges special counselling and guest speakers, such as employment or personnel officers of major firms, discussing job opportunities and interview requirements. Parole supervisors and staff for family courts are also provided by this branch of the Attorney General's Department.

Basic human rights protected

To ensure that each Albertan is enabled to develop to his maximum potential without the hindrance of discrimination, the staff of the Human Rights Branch work to protect certain basic rights of individuals. The activity of this Branch of the Department of Labour includes educational programming with community and church groups, service clubs, ethnic associations, schools and other organizations.

To acquaint Albertans with their rights under The Human Rights Act a variety of literature is available including a human rights display scroll for organizations, a multi-colored placard for businesses and a quarterly newsletter, Human Concern, for general distribution to the public. These publications are available without charge on request.

Should a person feel that he has suffered discrimination in employment; hotel, motel or apartment accommodation; or in other services generally available to the public such as restaurants, stores, theatres, etc., because of his colour, race, religion, place of origin or ancestry, he may register his concern with this agency. The Human Rights Branch then acts promptly to investigate the matter and arrive at a satisfactory solution for the persons involved.

HRDA acts in co-ordinating role

The gear up stage of a 4 year program designed to stimulate social and economic development that will have far-reaching effects on the estimated 25,000 mostly Metis population of the Lesser Slave Lake Special Area of Alberta is well underway. The provincial agency, HRDA, which stands for the Human Resources Development Authority — simply called "Hard-da" for short — is playing an extensive role in guiding the program in all its broad context. The plan helps the people of the area to take full advantage of all opportunities presented to them through various multi-level federal and provincial government services already available.

Through an established regional office, serving the 24,000 square mile area, HRDA representatives act in a coordinating fashion to co-ordinate all the necessary activities. They set a system of priorities for the work to be done. Representatives and delegates from registered community associations work side by side with the human resource officers of HRDA, who are presently co-ordinating programs throughout the province.

Broad scope of community support

The Alberta Department of Youth provides many vital support services to communities, agencies, organizations, clubs, private and public groups involved in working with people.

Departmental officers help to organize leadership workshops, management seminars, sports clinics, student council workshops. They provide speakers on youth problems and programs. They offer consultant services. Financial assistance is also part of the over-all pattern of years undertaken to help develop potential in people throughout the province.

A research capability including studies, evaluations and inventory taking of Alberta's youth and their community's resources is offered. Facilities include a computerized index of references material on youth activities and related subjects and a data bank on drug abuse.

During summer months the Department co-ordinates a student travel exchange program working with the federal government, local school boards and communities. Each year about 400 boys and girls from all across the province travel in groups for exchange visits to other parts of Canada.

Channeling this broad scope of services to local levels is done through more than 50 professional consultants of the Department of Youth and represent citizen working with communities.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT SERVICES MOVE IN MANY DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS

Drop-out drivers prove poor risks

School dropouts may also be poor risks as drivers, according to a Queen's University study.

It reported in Canadian Automotive Trade magazine. A research team compared backgrounds of 305 under-21 drivers involved in crashes with a corresponding control group who were not involved in accidents. The crashup group had records of failure in public school, began smoking before they were 16, held a fulltime job before 17, or were charged with a criminal offense not related to driving.

PART OF OUR DRIVE FOR CLEANER AIR...

Here is a car which looks and runs like any other car of its kind. But under the hood and in the trunk are added components which make it unique. It is the first unit of a fleet of natural gas fueled cars which your gas company is putting on the road as part of our drive for cleaner air!

Reduces Pollution by 90%
The car has a standard engine on which the air-cleaner has been replaced with a natural gas mixer.
Yes, it uses the same clean-burning fuel that heats your home! The result is elimination of 90% of the air-polluting contaminants normally released through engine exhaust.
About 70% of air pollution in cities is said to be caused by motor vehicle exhaust. This is of course avoided with clean-burning natural gas.
The gas company's "Clean Air-Fleet" will operate on compressed natural gas. Over 3,000 such vehicles are in use in the United States today.
Fortunately, Alberta's skies are relatively free of pollution. This is in part due to the widespread use of natural gas, the world's cleanest burning fossil fuel. By converting gas company vehicles to natural gas fuel for city operation, and by developing systems to make such conversion practical for other car and truck fleet operations, the gas company is taking one step towards reducing air pollution.
Watch for these cars and trucks.

Cylinders of compressed natural gas are stored in trunk.

Addition of a natural gas mixer makes this a dual-fuel car.

A pull of a switch converts fuel from gasoline to natural gas.

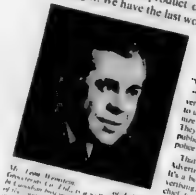
"In advertising, you're the boss!"

"As consumers, each of us possesses a powerful weapon to use against advertising that we think insults our intelligence. We can vote that product or service into oblivion by not buying it. We have the last word."



Mr. Tom Hazelton, Executive Director of the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board, is a well-known figure in Canadian business circles. He is also a consumer, and like you, he's concerned about advertising in the Canadian economy.

"And it's a choice that we can exercise every day of our lives."

Protection for the consumer.

"Of course advertising is not perfect. But more than ever before, I think advertisers recognize their responsibilities to us, the consumers. Advertisers recognize the necessity to inform honestly. They recognize their duty not to lead the public. And they recognize the need to police themselves."

That's one reason why the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board was created. It's a body, made up of advertisers, advertising agencies and media, that's dedicated to fighting false and misleading advertising. To help protect the consumer against misleading advertising. More about this further on.

The Government keeps an eye on things, too.

"Did you know that the Government in Ottawa has regulations covering most aspects of advertising that's seen on television or heard on the radio? Or in newspapers and magazines? Or on billboards?

"I sell—sometimes I am advertising myself. But I'm on the side of those who believe that to be a seller in the marketplace is to be a buyer as well. As a consumer. And I'm a partner in the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board. I believe that I can make a contribution to the quality of advertising that you see, hear and read. And I believe that I can help to make the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board more responsive to the needs of consumers. Because I'm one of them."

Mr. Hazelton has a lot of critics. Some of them, critics we advertising and consumer, have earned the right to be heard for the comfort in the mind of the

"These critics seem to think that we are not powerful enough to tell which brand we should buy. Or that we must be protected against this strange form of persuasion. But, as consumers, all of us possess the most powerful weapon in the marketplace. The power to say 'no'. To vote against this strange form of persuasion. To vote that product or service into oblivion by not buying it. We have the last word.

I know from personal experience that consumers are well able to judge the merits of advertising claims.

And that's why, as consumers, advertisers and advertising agencies, we welcome the creation of the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board. We welcome the most powerful ally we could have in the public interest. We welcome the chance to work with the consumer. We welcome the chance to help make advertising even better serve you, the consumer.

Canadian Advertising Advisory Board: we work for better advertising.

Don't you the consumer — she may be your wife?

"Things have changed a great deal since the good old days. You can't fool the consumer. She is a smart shopper. And the advertisers are very much aware of that fact.

"I think that we all recognize good advertising when we see it. It is usually the ad that is created with one consumer in mind.

"That's you, the consumer, the man or woman in the family who is doing the buying. And when an advertiser has learned the kind of buyer he is to us, we'll have a good word to say for his advertising. He'll have a product I want to buy."

Other Benefits.

"Another important factor contributing to the economic health and growth of our country is helping create new jobs, and more jobs."

You can do your bit too.

The Canadian Advertising Advisory Board is a body of advertisers, agencies and media dedicated to fighting false and misleading advertising. If you have a complaint about an advertisement, write to the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board, 1 Dundas St. W., Toronto 2, Ontario.

The pick of the hops makes the pick of the beer.

Hops do beautiful things to beer. They give it memorable flavour. "Hopping" is the art of blending hops into the brew so the flavour of the beer never varies. That's an art we cultivate for Calgary Export Lager. Our hops come from the World's great hop growing areas. We select them with care, pick them with gentleness, then blend them at precisely the right moment. After all, we love our beer, and because we want you to love it too, we never compromise. Next time you thirst for something beautiful, enjoy the famous taste of Calgary Export Lager Beer.

Below, Brewmaster A.J. Kerr and Brewers R. Piesanen and S.C. O'Brien inspect the quality of 1970 hops

Albertans have role in Ookpik

In Febuary of each year, CFB Greenwood, Nova Scotia takes on an atmosphere of "Joie de Vivre" as Canadian Armed Forces personnel and their wives celebrate Greenwood's OOKPIK Winter Carnival week.

The Carnival proper is a composite of sports, both indoor and outdoor, a Variety show, intramurbe competition, parade, social events and of course, the Carnival Queen.

The personnel split into ten groups, each group representing their native province. Each event in the Carnival is competitive and teams are drawn from the provincial cowgirls cheer their team on the competition to make their province tops.

Alberta is well represented in OOKPIK and Albertans are prominently dressed in their Stetsons and cowboy outfits. The Alberta "Whoop and Holler" is heard constantly during the week as the cowboys and cowgirls cheer their team on to victory.

Encouragement to the Albertan cause from back home has been given generously as public figures, companies, personalities as well as private citizens have lent their support.

Although the Albertans of Greenwood, N.S., are more than 3,000 miles away from home, a small part of Alberta is situated in the heart of Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley during OOKPIK time. If the folks of Alberta would like to boost the cowboy contingent, they are invited to write:

Alberta
c/o OOKPIK Carnival
CFB Greenwood
Nova Scotia.

Other countries have pollution problems, too—and they're even bigger than ours.

NAUGHTY! NAUGHTY! This officer isn't writing a ticket out. He's removing Playboy magazine's Miss November fold-out from the left hand of a 20-foot statue at Queen's Park in Toronto, Ontario's seat of government. The magazine's monthly beauty was displayed by the statue for about an hour before the constable came to the rescue. (TTS)

Her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brown, Neil and Shawn of Camrose were also guests. On Friday night, guests were his grandparents, the Clarence Heikkenens, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Christianson of Camrose, Mrs. Lyle Bratrud, Dale, Ricky and Darrell, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Bergquist, Karen, Shyla and Merlin of Bawlf, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bratrud, Peggy and Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Heikkenen, Marlene and Donald.

CORRECTION

In Katherine Peter's obituary, the memorial given by the Joe and Ed Knudsens was to the Canadian Bible Society, Edmonton, not the Bawlf Lutheran Church as stated.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pearse of Edmonton were Sunday guests at the Lawrence Pearse home. Rev. and Mrs. Bruce Harshberger and Jennifer of Bawlf and Mr. and Mrs. H. Roth were Sunday guests at the Tommy Browns.

Going into Camrose Sunday evening for a pre-Christmas party at John Saruga were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Uriacher, Anton, Peter, Ann Peter, Leo Nouillette, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reinhart, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Uriacher and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Piro, all of Bawlf.

Don R. Campbell is a patient at St. Mary's Hospital with an injured knee.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vassberg were Sunday birthday guests at the Marvin Vassberg home for Keith's ninth birthday.

All the Campbell families gathered at their parental home, the Don A. Campbells at Round Hill for a pot luck dinner on Sunday in honor of Charlie Knudson's birthday.

The Howard Barnstads and the Gerbers of Ohaton have returned from their Caribbean cruise.

GREG GROVE PASSES

Greg Grove, 72, born in Norway, passed away Thursday. He lived in the Gladstone district north of Bawlf until 1967 when they retired and moved to Camrose. He is survived by his wife Mathilda, six sons and five daughters. Funeral services were held at the Loveland Funeral Chapel on Dec. 12 with Rev. C. Koppelaar officiating.

MADE THEIR OWN JOBS

Five Toronto ex-workers at Dunlop Canada's defunct industrial rubber products division appear to have turned the recent situation to their own advantage, reports Progressive Plastics business magazine. With a $25,000 loan from the Ontario Government Development Corp. and $45,000 of their own money, they have formed a company that will be Canada's only manufacturer of polyester handrails. In this way they hope to salvage $225,000 worth of business. Dunlop had in this field in Canada and the U.S., and they also hope to start making firehose and other specialized products.

LANDMARK GOES
ROSS CREEK — Another landmark in the Ross Creek district will be disappearing in the foreseeable future. The service station operated by Stan and Annabelle Klatchuk has been expropriated and closed on Dec. 5th. Mr. and Klatchuk have operated the service station for the past 17 years having bought it from the former owners Mr. and Mrs. Don Palmer. Stan also had a trucking service so his business will be missed by many customers. On Saturday evening, friends and neighbors gathered to wish Stan and Ann well in their new home in Tofield. A social evening was spent visiting and reminiscing and dancing to the accompaniment of Wilf Ford, Leonard Schachel and Maurice VanBuskirk. On behalf of all present, Ralph Causey presented the honored couple with a tea caddy and China tea service and on behalf of the Athletic Club, Ken Peterson presented them with matching ornaments. The Klatchuks thanked everyone for the party and the gifts and invited them to call at their new home.

Your correspondent would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Special thanks to those who have helped send news items.

Best Wishes for CHRISTMAS

From Christmastide of yesteryear come many of the happiest traditions of the season. It is in this good old-fashioned spirit that we greet you, and wish you all the best the holidays can bring. A very merry Christmas, everyone!

Birth of a Savior

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another. Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all those things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

And when eight days were accomplished [illegible] circumcising of the child, his name was called JESUS, which was so named of the angel, before he was conceived in the womb.

And when the days of her purification [illegible] to the [illegible] of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord;

(As it is written in the law of the Lord, Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;)

And to offer a sacrifice according to that which is said in the law of the Lord, A pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons.

And, behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same man was just and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel: and the Holy Ghost was upon him.

And it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ.

And he came by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law,

Then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said,

Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word:

For mine eyes have seen thy salvation,

Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;

A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him.

And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against;

(Yea, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also,) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.

And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: she was of a great age, and had lived with a husband seven years from her virginity;

And she was a widow of about fourscore and four years, which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day.

And she coming in that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem.

And when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth.

And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon him.

Now his parents went to Jerusalem every year at the feast of the passover.

And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast.

And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it.

But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him.

And it came to pass after three days, that they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

And all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?

And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

Lieutenant Governor's Christmas message

Hon. J. W. Grant MacEwan Lieut.-Governor of Alberta.

For Christmas and the New Year I offer my warmest greetings to all. I hope that wherever possible families will be re-united and the homecomings will be happy experiences. May the Christmas appetites be big and the Christmas tables loaded with good Canadian foods, for which we should not fail to be thankful. I hope there will be music and fun and good cheer. I hope, also, that there will be pause to reflect upon those Canadians and others who are not so fortunate as to enjoy the traditional Christmas pleasures.

Our thoughts should go out to those whose means will not allow the full enjoyment of the Holiday Season and those whose poor health places them in pain or distress. We should think of those whose duris is in essential services requires them to be at work or far from home and those in the world's troubled spots where violence is a constant danger.

Indeed, all of us should ask ourselves if this Christmas finds us any nearer the cherished goal of Peace on Earth than the Christmas seasons of other years. In meditating on this theme, we could, with profit, consider an even broader and better Peace on Earth than the one we commonly talk about. I hope we shall see the day when the guns used in human warfare are silenced completely, but I hope for more, because I find it difficult to understand how there can be the desired Peace among men while mankind keeps up a form of warfare with Nature and all that belongs in the wonderful Natural neighborhood of which I, as a human creature, am a small and rather insignificant part. It is the mighty natural complex which includes people and animals and birds and bugs and water and soil and flowers and trees and minerals and so on. If I seek a genuine Peace on Earth I should be living in such a manner that I commit the least possible offence against any of these wonderful works of Creation. When we say Merry Christmas, may our thoughts be for a Peace that would see man assuming the noble role of peace-maker rather than trouble-maker in Nature's wonder-filled neighborhood.

Grant MacEwan, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

RABIES SITUATION

The Alberta Central Rabies Control Committee met in Edmonton recently to evaluate the rabies situation in Alberta. This committee is made up of representatives from the federal health of animals branch; the Alberta departments of health, agriculture and lands and forests; and the Alberta Veterinary Medical Association.

The committee reports that it is still too early for definite statements on the rabies problem However, the current situation in Alberta appears to differ from that in Saskatchewan in that the coyote seems to be the main source of infection here whereas in Saskatchewan it has been the skunk. The coyote is a more dangerous carrier because he ranges more widely than the skunk.

Recent reports from the health of animals branch show that rabies has been identified in five coyotes, one bull one heifer, one pig, and two dogs. The cases were diagnosed in the Medicine Hat, Penhold, Rimbey and Vermilion areas, except for one dog, which was discovered in the city of Edmonton.

Public awareness of the rabies problem is important. The greatest risk is probably in rural areas where domestic livestock and dogs are more readily exposed The committee recommends getting dogs and cats innoculated against rabies. Stray dogs, and dogs that are allowed to run free, are particularly hazardous.

People should be very cautious of coyotes, skunks, or any other wild animals which behaves abnormally, or which has lost its fear of man. Parents should make sure that they warn their children to stay away from such animals.

Anybody who is exposed to an animal suspected of having rabies - through a scratch or bite or even through handling - should contact his doctor immediately.

SUCCESSFUL BUFFET

The buffet is Canada's finest form of entertaining. The people of the north c that food and implements should be in convenient sequence for self service. Need ed tables, stowaway stools and individual trays are conveni ences that make guests more comfortable.

Arrangement of the buffet is a matter of common sense. Begin at one end of the table with plates, then move on in order to meat dish, vegetables, salad, breads, condiments, silver and finally napkins. Guests should finish at the end of the table nearest the door to eliminate congestion.

For a larger crowd, place the table in the centre of the room and duplicate service on both sides Two lines of guests may serve themselves at the same time. For a sit-down but let the dining-room table is set just as it would be for a sit-down dinner except the plates and food are on the side board or serving table. Foods which can best be served at a buffet dinner should be foods that may be carved and otherwise prepared to service in advance They should also be the type that do not suffer from being kept hot on an electric tray or trivet.

PART OF OUR DRIVE FOR CLEANER AIR...

Here is a car which looks and runs like any other car of its kind. But under the hood and in the trunk are added components which make it unique. It is the first unit of a fleet of natural gas fueled cars which your gas company is putting on the road as part of our drive for cleaner air!

Reduces Pollution by 90%

The car has a standard engine on which the air-cleaner has been replaced with a natural gas mixer.

Yes, it uses the same clean burning fuel that heats your home! The result is elimination of 90% of the air pollutant contaminants normally released through engine exhaust.

About 70% of air pollution in cities is said to be caused by motor vehicle exhaust. This is of course avoided with clean-burning natural gas.

The gas company's 'Clean Air Fleet' will operate on compressed natural gas. Over 3,000 such vehicles are in use in the United States today.

Fortunately, Alberta's skies are relatively free of pollution. This is in part due to the widespread use of natural gas, the world's cleanest burning fossil fuel. By converting gas company vehicles to natural gas fuel for city operation and by developing systems to make such conversion practical for other car and truck fleet operations, the gas company is taking one step towards reducing air pollution.

Watch for these cars and trucks.

Side order of happiness!

The simple, delicious French fry! A mouth-watering extra, adding enjoyment to any meal — or a between-meal fun-food snack! A potato is a natural plant, but the process of getting that potato from the original seed to your plate is a complex and costly one. The farmer has to find the best potato for his soil and weather conditions. He plants, irrigates and fertilizes. Then there's harvesting, marketing and distribution. A long involved process, similar in many ways to the complex procedures involved in harnessing the electricity you need to keep your home running efficiently. Electricity is a "natural" too, but specialized skills and processes are needed for instant flick-of-the-switch availability. While the overall cost of living has increased dramatically, the price of electricity is still one of today's best bargains. So — when you consider inflation — think about the potato on your plate, and in the field . . . and about electricity, another "natural" that goes through many stages before it gets to you!

Holden teacher will teach in Australia

A Holden teacher is among the three Alberta teachers and among 20 Canadian teachers who have been named as recipients of International Teaching Fellowships enabling them to teach for two years in Australia.

The three, J. A. Fornal of Holden, Victor Prodaniuk of Thorhild and Lloyd A. Strandberg of Camrose, will receive fellowships of $3,399 each for two years teaching in the province of Victoria and travel throughout Australia during 1971 and 1972.

Mr. Fornal began his teaching career in Holden, where he has taught high school mathematics for the past five years. In 1965 he received the outstanding teacher award, presented by the County of Beaver to the first year teacher demonstrating exceptional ability in the classroom.

During his five years in Holden, Mr. Fornal has been actively involved in ATA Local affairs, and has served as president, vice-president and ATA representative. Mr. Fornal has also been actively engaged in coaching high school curling and driver training. He is an active member of the Elks Lodge and the Curling Club, as well as an ardent participant in all community activities.

Mr. Fornal will be leaving the Holden School on January 15 and will commence teaching duties at Morweil High School in Australia the beginning of February.

FACILITIES NEEDED

Dear Editor:

We have come again to the time of year when we often hear by some of we older ones "When I was a youth we made our own fun." But, can youth do so today is the question?

First: When I was a youth there were many sloughs or small lakes that are now dry owing to "progress of economic culture?" or, whatever you have.

Second: The population has increased many times according to an old "History of Tofield". So with depletion of facilities and the population explosion, a new basis for recreation should be apparent. And thus for the last two or more years the older generation has had a full opportunity for lei recreation, two or three weeks ahead of the youth.

Thirdly: Our economics have also changed and the success of any, even local, enterprise demands much on the money available by the participant. And the possession of the money therefore must come from the producer and naturally it is the older of our society, how then can the opportunity be available to those youth who are unemployed, by age or otherwise? Is it not therefore, in this affluent society, the duty and responsibility of society to make those opportunities available?

Fourth: Therefore is it not our moral duty to become involved in supplying the need of youth? I.e. I watched one of the last games of one of the last rural teams to survive, in which the goal keeper was over 70 years old and had never had on a pair of skates. And I knew another older man who kept a rink open, furnishing equipment to do so, until he died.

And I see busy men in Tofield who are riding to keep various teams of youth together and demonstrating the need and advantages of greater social envolvement and responsibility in the development of more openings for recreational facilities for the youth who are short of such facilities.

GEORGE KAST & STAFF
ALBERTA HOTEL, Ryley

Hon. R. F. Strom, Premier

Christmas message from Premier Strom

It is a pleasure for me to extend, personally and on behalf of the Government of Alberta, sincere and hearty greetings to each and every citizen of this province.

The time has once again come when we pause to reflect on the meaning of life, and to commemorate the birth of the Prince of Peace, the Christ, who gives meaning to life itself.

As we celebrate Christ's birth let us remember that He came to bring peace in our hearts and to avail to each of us the opportunity for everlasting life.

The words of men cannot improve on the message voiced by the heavenly choirs when they heralded his birth in Bethlehem.

They sang "Peace on Earth, Good Will Towards Men", and their song has echoed and re-echoed in the hearts of men throughout the world ever since.

Though the fulfillment of that ancient promise may seem beyond our present reach, and though we are often confronted with fears and doubts, its ultimate realization is assured to all who recognize that peace and good will among men is inseparably linked with allegiance to Him and to the continuing application of Christian principles in our daily life.

The past year has been marked by events, at home and abroad, which give greater magnitude and added importance to the age-old problem of human relationships; relationships between men and nations, and more importantly, relationships between men and their God.

As we observe this Christmas we should not forget that we will live our tomorrows and celebrate future Christmases in a world that we ourselves will make.

It can be a world in which men live together in peace and harmony, or it can be a world caught up in a struggle for temporal advantage; the choice is ours.

Let us make it wisely.

We can achieve the peace we desire by creating conditions where men may live freely and creatively.

This will require economic security and social justice; it will require individual effort and collective responsibility.

In keeping this Christmas, let us not forget those less fortunate than ourselves; the stranger in our midst; the homeless and friendless, the sick and afflicted, all those who need our understanding and our freely-given help.

Let us recommit ourselves to God's work, to the pursuit of spiritual as well as material happiness.

May all of you, in your homes, enjoy a blessed and Happy Christmas with your loved ones and your friends, and may I wish for each of you God's blessing this and every day.

To the residents of Vegreville-Bruce Constituency and to readers in general . . .

It gives me great pleasure at this time to extend to you all my sincere wishes for a happy holiday season, and for good health, prosperity and true happiness throughout the coming new year.

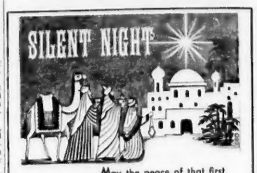
The Christmas concert was very much enjoyed on Friday, Dec. 18th. Santa was a very popular person bringing treats to all the children.

The Hall Board has decided that there will be no dance at the hall on New Year's Eve.

I would like to wish all the Mercury staff a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.



May the peace of that first Noel shine brightly on you. May its true meaning fill your heart and home with love, understanding, happiness.

FROM THE SCRAP BOOK

I spent the winter of 1939-40 at Banff, taking treatment for a broken back at the Dr. Brett Hospital. For Christmas, I wrote the enclosed lines as the world was plunged in another war, and I think these same words are applicable today:

Some Christmas Thoughts

There was no room,
The Inn was full, a matter
Was all they could find;
So He come, a stranger,
Who taught love to mankind;
The Angels knew, the cattle knew,
But the world of men was blind.

The world is still blind
To the Redeemer of mankind;
Their vision is blurred,
His voice they have ignored;
They cannot see the guiding star,
For oppression, hatred and war,
And not till then, and when They come to know the Babe of Bethlehem
Can we say "Peace on Earth", Goodwill towards men.

Mrs. Robinson joins with me in wishing all The Mercury staff and all our kind friends a Happy Christmas and the best for the coming year.

J. W. Robinson.

Lights put out on Tofield's Christmas Tree

The lights are out on the big Christmas Tree on Tofield's Main Street, as a result of two separate acts of vandalism.

The Chamber of Commerce erected a big, big Christmas Tree at the head of Main Street, but only a short time after the tree was up, someone in a car rammed into the butt several times in order to break it off short, and force the use of a new tree.

Last week the second tree was ablaze with some 250 lights, and a source of pride and enjoyment to many. But someone else saw it differently, possibly through a twisted sense of humor, and stole the 150-foot extension cord supplying the power, and putting the tree in darkness.

On a very restricted budget, the Chamber doesn't have the funds to replace the cord, and as a result, there'll be no lights on the huge Christmas Tree over the Holiday Season, unless someone comes forward with a long, long extension cord.

Major promotion for Norm Oslund

Norm Oslund has been offered, and has accepted, a major promotion, with the Corp of Commissionaires, the position being Commandant for Northern Alberta. Working out of Edmonton, Mr. Oslund's duties will commence the first week in January. Despite the travelling involved, however, the Oslunds intend to remain in Tofield until summer, when they expect to move to Edmonton.

Locals...

Tofield's senior hockey team will travel to Vegreville on Tuesday, December 29 to play a 9 p.m. game.

Family sessions planned

Tofield will have a Family Living Series this winter. A meeting was held in the Tofield United Church basement on Monday, Dec. 7, to discuss the need for such a series.

Twenty-one persons representing 16 groups attended the meeting. They suggested dates for the series and a program has been planned.

Suggested dates for the sessions were Monday evenings, February 15 and 22, March 1, 8, 15 and 22. Sessions will begin on February 15 with Pre-School Family, followed by School Age Family on February 22. March sessions will be The 12-20 years, The Marriage Partnership, Family, Business Affairs, and From Middle Age On.

Co-ordinators will be Faye Hulkovich, Ed Regehr, Paul Vonglin, A. Baergen, Dick Thiessen and Reverend O. L. Lokken.

Further information can be obtained from Reverend Stanley Beesey, or Elizabeth A. Durie, District Home Economist.
